Rolling Meadows landlord cited for code violations

After a mix up over jurisdiction, Rolling Meadows has conducted its own building inspections at 1351 W. Algonquin Rd. and issued a citation to the owner for numerous code violations in substandard dwellings housing Mexican-Americans on the property.

The action came after Cook County officials found 52 violations in four dwellings on the property during a Jan. 14 building inspection.

According to Marvin Davis, chief of inspections for the county building, zoning and air pollution control department, a list of the violations was turned over to Rolling Meadows after it was determined that the property is within the city limits.

CITY MANAGER James Watson said a team of officials visited the property late Tuesday and found dangerous heating and electrical conditions and many other building code violations. Watson said he knew the property was within the city limits but had no idea that the dwellings, three shacks and a barn, were occupied.

"The places that they're living in are really not fit for human habitation," Watson said.

"A cease and desist order will be issued to the property owner giving him 30 days to comply with our building code."

The "S64 question," he said, is what to do with the nine families living there. He said he does not think the dwellings can be brought up to code standards.

THE 1351 ALGONQUIN address was one of five stops made Tuesday by Lt. Gov. Paul Simon during his tour of substandard housing conditions.

Mayor Roland Meyer blamed local landscapers and nurserymen for attracting seasonal laborers to the area during spring and summer months and then "dumping them off" on local communities by not providing jobs or adequate housing during the winter.

"I think the federal government or the State of Illinois should make some kind of arrangements so that when these people hire someone like this, they have to be responsible for them in the winter months also," Meyer said.

MEYER SAID HE has asked the city attorney to determine the extent of the city's responsibility to the families.

Jaycees of the day

Lorin Shepard Jr.

Lorin Shepard Jr. is an accounting analyst for Shell Oil Co. and has been an Arlington Heights Jaycee since September, 1969.

He has become involved in Jaycee projects such as the Bike Rodeo, Operation Santa, 1970 Fourth of July Parade, Las Vegas Night and Christmas Trees.

Shepard is a Jaycee because, "I want to do something today, that will benefit the people of tomorrow in my community, state and nation."

Shepard and his wife, Marcia, have a son Michael.

Howard A. Rosley

Howard A. Rosley is a technical sales representative for the Markem Corp. He and his wife Joyce have two children, Brad and Lori.

Rosley is a president of the Arlington Heights Jaycees. Since becoming involved with the Jaycees in November, 1967, he has served as an internal director and has chaired several Jaycee projects.

He is also vice president of the Arlington Acres Civic Association and a member of the Arlington Heights Safety Commission.

"I am looking to try to get housing for some of these families, but as to how much success we're going to have, I can't say," Meyer said.

"We have some obligation to try to see that they're as comfortable as possible until this situation can be resolved," he said.

The property is scheduled to be cleared in 30 to 60 days to make way for a shopping center, Meyer said.

ACCORDING TO Watson, the property was inspected by Thomas Fogarty, fire marshal, George Knoch, building and zoning officer, William Brunelli, building inspector and Watson.

Davis said the four structures on the property have a total of 10 dwelling units. The barn, he said, houses four families, one of the shacks houses two families, three live in another shack and a single family occupies the third shack.

Somewhere between 45 and 60 persons reportedly live on the property but none of the officials is sure of the exact number.

WATSON SAID the 1351 Algonquin property was formerly owned by a Mrs. Norma Parker and he thinks it is now under the control of her estate.

According to Karen Stanley, director of the Northwest Opportunity Center, most

Appoint state treasurer, Stevenson urges Con-Con

By Richard Crabb
Special from Springfield

Adlai Stevenson III addressed Con-Con Wednesday afternoon and did the unexpected.

He urged the convention to abolish the office of state treasurer; which he now holds, in the framing of a new constitution.

He proposed making the office an appointive job in the executive department with the treasurer reporting directly to the governor.

Stevenson was the sixth of the seven elected state officials to come before the convention with recommendations for their respective offices.

APPEARING BEFORE

Stevenson have been Gov. Ogilvie, Lieut.-Gov. Paul Simon, Secretary of State Paul Powell, Atty. Gen. William Scott and State Auditor Michael Howlett.

The last of the state officials, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page, will address the convention next week.

Ogilvie asked the convention to provide for election of governor and lieutenant governor of the same party. He proposed further that the governor appoint other state officers with the approval of the state senate.

Powell and Scott urged continued election of all state officers. Auditor Howlett proposed that the auditor and treasury offices be combined and that the new officer be elected. Stevenson was the first to propose making his own office appointive.

Page is believed to favor an appointive superintendent of public instruction.

Con-Con delegates from the northwest suburbs generally recognize the need for extending invitations to all state officers to appear before the convention. They are agreed that few fresh ideas have been proposed.

Perhaps Dr. Clyde Parker, fourth district delegate, gave the best short summary. "In general the state officers have urged the convention to keep its cotton picking hands off their offices."

Con-Con committees turned in a record day of work Wednesday. Meetings took place in the morning, in the afternoon after the general session and in the evening. Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights, who is on the bill of Rights committee, reported that her group met for more than six hours Wednesday.

The convention held its first morning session today. President Samuel W. Witwer who had a speaking engagement in Chicago at noon on Con-Con developments, called for an 8:30 a.m. start. The only item on the agenda was further study of a more inclusive personal disclosure offered by Delegate Paul Elward of Chicago.

Present at the early morning session were 25 or more township officials from the northwest suburbs. They are in Springfield today to attend the Supreme Court's public hearing on the appeal of the Cook County Circuit Court order directing townships to cease the collection of real estate taxes. The hearing was scheduled for noon.

Postal deliveries delayed on 4 carrier routes

Postal deliveries on four carrier routes in Arlington Heights have been delayed because of sickness caused by the extreme cold weather, according to Robert Proebstle, assistant postmaster.

Proebstle said residents who do not receive their mail will definitely have delivery on the following day.

"There's a couple of routes that haven't gone out because there's absolutely no one to take them," he said. "Those that don't go out today will positively go out tomorrow."

He said the shortage of carriers, which is common at this time of year, has been aggravated by high rates of illness.

The post office is short carriers from its normal work force and yesterday had an additional 13 carriers call in sick, he said.

Two north side routes and two south side routes have been affected by the carrier shortage, Proebstle said.

"I think the situation should alleviate itself somewhat by tomorrow," he said.

2 horses die in blaze

Two horses were killed yesterday afternoon in a barn fire at a Palatine riding stable. Two other horses escaped from flames that destroyed the barn at 501 W. Dundee Rd.

For 14-year old Helmut Schmidt the blaze meant the loss of two "good friends."

"I fed those horses every day for more than two years," said the tearful youth after Palatine firemen found the bodies of the horses, Pago and Philly, amid the charred ruins of the 25 by 50-foot structure. "I rode them during the summer and took care of them all year long. After all that time they seemed almost like human beings to me...like real good friends."

THE HORSES were owned by Harry Giorgi and his son Gerald of River Grove who operate the stable as a summer hobby. The elder Giorgi estimated the cost of the barn at less than $500 but he said the two horses killed were worth close to $2,000.

The blaze was discovered and reported from the Schmidt home at 650 W. Dundee. "The barn was completely engulfed in flames when the first truck arrived," said Palatine Fire Inspector William A. Detmer.

Park board budget will rise by about $160,000

ward Condon questioned the increase in salary and wage of $189,000 for the coming fiscal year as compared to $117,000 during this fiscal year. The Park Board will hold a meeting to review salaries and wages of employees.

Bressler indicated that as the budget stands, expenses are not equal to income, although close.

According to Condon, the park district will most likely stay under the budget for this fiscal year.

The Finance Committee of the Arlington Heights Park Board Monday night reviewed the preliminary budget figures for the coming year and found it will be in excess of $650,000 or about $160,000 more than this fiscal year.

These figures include salaries and wages, utilities, equipment, maintenance, etc., under the categories buildings, grounds, concessions, administration and recreation.

Under recreation, the committee of Roy Bressler and Ed-

Weather slows demolition of 3 village landmarks

Bitter cold weather has delayed demolition of the former Evangelical Free Church building, the church parsonage and the former Best house, three village landmarks on the block bounded by Dunton, St. James, Vail and Fremont Sts.

Don Wente, of Don Wente Trucking and Excavating, which will tear down the buildings, yesterday said work will begin as soon as the weather warms a little.

The property is to be used for the village's proposed cultural center complex.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Daisy Daniels, a long-time resident who is writing a history of Arlington Heights, the church parsonage, 8 W. St. James, is at least 110 years old. It was bought by the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights in 1860, she said.

The Evangelical Free Church, 404 N. Dunton, was built by the Methodists in 1860 as a one-story structure and was raised to become the second story of the remodeled Methodist Church building in 1870, Mrs. Daniels said.

The sanctuary was added in 1928, she said, and in 1954 the Methodists started sharing the building with the Evangelical Free Church congregation. The Methodists moved to their new church in 1956, she said, and the building was used by the Evangelical Church until that congregation moved into its new building at the beginning of this year.

THE BEST house, 412 N. Dunton, was built in 1896 by Dr. John E. Best, according to Mrs. Daniels, and was used by the Best family until 1961. Best and his son, Bruce, also a doctor, had their medical offices in the huge 14-room structure for many years, she said.

The younger Best died in 1956, and his widow sold the house in 1961 to the Evangelical Free Church, which used it for Sunday school classes.

The former Best house, 412 N. Dunton, awaits demolition. The house, built in 1896, was used in recent years for Sunday school classes by the Evangelical Free Church.

Chamber will move into larger offices

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce will move into larger offices at its same address, 103 N. Arlington Heights Rd., at the beginning of next month, according to Harold Bell, the chamber's executive manager.

Bell said the new offices will provide space for committee meetings and give the chamber more room for its daily operations.

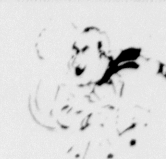

"Our members felt that we should have street-front exposure so that people will know where we are and anyone who's new to Arlington Heights can just walk in off the street and get acquainted," he said.

Present occupants of the offices, Beisler Insurance Agency and Griffith Insurance Agency, will be moving to new offices on S. Arlington Heights Rd., Bell said.

He said a large "Chamber of Commerce" sign will be placed on the outside of the building in the near future.

workers that are attracted to the area by seasonal landscape and nursery jobs return to Texas in November. Most of those staying through the winter are not nursery workers but are employed in local industries, she said.

Several of the residents at 1351 Algonquin have construction jobs, she said.

"IF THEY HAVE work and if they have a place to stay that's warm enough, then they'll stay through the winter," Mrs. Stanley said. "It all depends on whether jobs and housing are available."

Thomas Smith, director of Elk Grove Village Community Services, said an emergency headquarters is needed to help displaced families find housing in the area.

Fifteen to 20 families are still in need of places to live, he said, including a woman with eight children who has recently been turned out of her house in Palatine. Smith said she knew two months ago that she would have to leave but has been unable to find any alternate housing.

HE SAID HIS agency has been able to place several families in the last weeks but is continually faced with new displaced households and emergency housing needs.

"It's like trying to shovel sand out of a hole while the walls are always caving in," Smith said.

He said no one should waste time trying to fix blame for the housing situation. Everyone is a little bit at fault for letting unsafe housing conditions exist, including the people who live in those conditions, he said.

THE IMPORTANT thing is to come up with some help in the emergency situation, he said.

"We're talking about families that need two months rent in advance for a house, or $300 deposit to get into an FHA housing program or three months rent in advance to get into a trailer park spot," Smith said.

That as a Saver Your Protection Has Been Increased to $20,000?

Yes, on Dec. 24, 1969, the President of the United States signed Legislation enacted by Congress which increases the insurance of each saver's funds from $15,000 to $20,000.

Thereby has been affirmed the strength of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and the soundness of ably managed savings and loan associations.

NW suburban officials attend state highways division meeting

Village officials of Northwest suburban communities were well represented Monday when officials of the Illinois Division of Highways explained requirements of the TOPICS program (Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety) of the Federal-aid Highway Act of 1968, and outlined the state's 1970 and five-year highway improvement plans. The meeting was held in McFetridge Hall, Marina Towers, Chicago, under the chairmanship of George March, District Engineer for District 10 (Cook County) of the highways division, in a district-wide session at which 27 communities were represented.

The purpose of the TOPICS program is to provide encouragement and assistance to urban areas in solving serious traffic congestion and safety problems on their existing street networks, through the systematic application of traffic engineering principles and improvements.

FUNDS ARE available to urban areas of 5,000 or more population, and $12.8 million has been allotted to Illinois for fiscal 1970 and 1971, the period ending June 30, 1971.

The program in Illinois is financed on a 50-50 basis, with local and federal funds. The "local" 50 per cent of the cost may be split among two or more agencies state, county or municipality.

YMCA offers free counseling

Students who have been dropped by other colleges are invited to participate in a special, personal counseling program at Central YMCA Community College, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, in Room 1710 from 4 to 7 p.m. Feb. 3.

The program will be offered as a free service. Students who are counseled on Feb. 3 are under no obligation to register for the spring semester. Those who are interested, however, may take placement tests after 7 p.m.

After a session of general questioning to share group information on common problems, personal interviews will be conducted for academic and draft counseling, according to Dean Dale.

The county's or municipality's share may come from allotments of motor fuel tax or any other funds which are available to them.

ALMOST 90 per cent of Illinois' urban population is in areas with populations greater than 50,000, and as the most serious congestion problems are found in these centers, they will receive the most attention. Urban areas of more than 50,000 must have in progress a "continuous, comprehensive transportation process," (or comprehensive transportation studies), to qualify for funds.

Also required is a general plan of highway improvements for the urban area based on the comprehensive planning process. This general plan should include both major and TOPICS-type improvements on all important streets and highways.

Projects that are eligible for TOPICS funds include such things as:

- Channelization of inter-sections.
- Widening of existing traffic lanes.

-- Providing additional traffic lanes on approaches to signalized intersections.

-- CONSTRUCTION of pedestrian grade separations, highway grade separations or railroad-highway grade crossing, to relieve a bottleneck.

-- Installation of control systems to make traffic signal operation responsive to traffic conditions.

-- Addition and upgrading of traffic control signs, pavement markings, signals and other devices.

-- Addition and/or upgrading highway lighting, where a significant number of night accidents have occurred.

-- Short reconstruction or construction of highway sections to eliminate a jog or create route continuity.

ANOTHER requirement to qualify for funds is to prepare an areawide TOPICS plan which must be supported by a study report and shall be coordinated with the general plan.

The co-operation of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) and the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) in planning a comprehensive transportation plan meets the approval of the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT), highway officials said.

Urban areas of between 5,000 and 50,000 population must:

-- Have a population forecast for the urban area.

-- Have a land use plan showing present and future needs.

-- Have a major thoroughfare plan based on the future land use plan.

-- And have a general plan of highway improvements for the urban area and an areawide TOPICS plan.

March said that after 1975 "hopefully" most of the interstate highway construction will be done, and it is estimated that then 15 per cent of $6 billion annually in federal funds will be available for construction in the network of urban streets below the level of primary and secondary roads.

Appointed vice president

Hallicrafters specializes in the manufacture and marketing of electronic and communications equipment for defense, aerospace and industrial use.

Prior to his appointment Sutter was vice president, senior director of marketing for Northrop Page Communications Engineers, Inc.,

Drivers entitled to deductions

The Chicago Motor Club-AAA reminds motorists to include certain automobile expenses when itemizing deductions on federal income tax returns.

The following is a list of deductions prepared by the club's legal department that all motorists may take:

State gasoline taxes, 7½ cents (6 cents before Aug. 1, 1969).

Casualty losses not reimbursed by insurance or other means, if not due to willful negligence. Any deduction for damage to property used for personal purposes is limited to the amount that each loss exceeds $100.

Interest paid on automobile loans.

Personal property tax. State and city sales tax on automobiles, parts, accessories and supplies (5 per cent).

YMCA men to burn trees

There will be a tree burning party at 3 p.m. Sunday on the site of the future Twinbrook YMCA building, Wise and Roselle Rds., Schaumburg, to burn leftover Christmas trees from the recent YMCA men's tree sale and those saved by members for the occasion. Twinbrook serves Schaumburg Township.

According to Gordon Borske, chairman of the recent sale, the party is being held for volunteers who helped with the tree sale. There will be ice skating, snowballs, cookies and cocoa that afternoon.

Borske said, "The assistance and donations of John Skonecny, William Litwiz, Richard Melville and John Buckley were invaluable to the project."

Members are planning a Sweetheart Dinner Dance in honor of their wives on Feb. 21 in the Roselle American Legion Hall, 344 E. Maple.

Letters to the Editor

Bouquets for firemen and police

An Open Letter To The: Des Plaines City Council and Des Plaines Fire Department. Dear Sirs:

It is our wish to thank you, in our humble way, for the excellent fire protection we obtained during the fire that took place in the very early hours of Sunday, Jan. 11.

Each fireman took his position and fought the flames in the neighbors' building, trying desperately to prevent the flames from spreading to other buildings. However, after about one and one-half hours of fierce fire fighting, and with the assistance of a very cold, high wind, the flames did succeed in reaching the eaves of our building.

While we did have an amount of damage, we were fortunate that the flames were quickly brought under control. We believe that the greatest amount of our fortune can be attributed to these brave, sincere and concerned firemen. We witnessed two firemen upon the upper portion of an ice-covered ladder, extending about two and one-half stories above the ground and in an almost vertical position, attempting to position another ladder up and over the roof. They succeeded, a feat that even an aerial acrobat might decline doing. Others were atop an aerial ladder with flames belching out at them, from the neighbors' building, while still others were groping their way through the dark, smoke-filled rooms of that house, not knowing what dangers could befall them there.

Let none of us citizens assume that a fireman's job is not much different than an average one. An opinion of this sort is a far cry of the true facts.

It takes real men, with a genuine affection and a heart for the citizenry and a great desire to save the lives and homes of us citizens. A plain thanks is not nearly enough for these fine men. All of us must recognize them for what they stand for.

We are also very proud of

Editor:

I can't tell you how disappointed I am that there was no editorial follow-up on your article of Tuesday, Dec. 23, 1969, titled "Scholar lives down his old kindergarten record" on page 2.

I have had the extreme privilege of employing David Lockwood on a part-time basis and find him conscientious and very bright. I was forced to replace him when he transferred back to Senn High School, Chicago, and quite possibly Maine West goofed! It's not often that we encounter students like David, and there is much that we can learn from individuals of his caliber.

As for my feelings about Maine West, they were the losers, not Lockwood; and believe me, it's "not academic." It's just poor policy.

the modern fire-fighting equipment that these men have at their disposal, and our city is to be commended for this.

We wish, as well, to thank the Police Department and any of the other city departments who took part in controlling the scene at this fire.

Editor:

As 1969 chairman of Operation Snowball for the Mental Health Assn. of Greater Chicago, I wish to express sincere appreciation for your editorial support of this program.

Patients in every Chicago area state mental hospital and nursing home received gifts prior to Christmas. Hundreds of volunteers wrapped more than 13,000 packages, while other volunteers distributed these gifts at the hospitals. Cash donations are still flowing into the Snowball Fund to help provide patient entertainment throughout the year.

These acts of charity could not have been accomplished without broad press coverage such as you provided.

On behalf of the mentally ill who benefit from Operation Snowball, thank you.

One day at a time

By Ron Swans

It's amazing what you can find out in newspapers. The other day I read a story about the Teamsters. They want some more money, and it will soon be contract time.

I don't blame them. It's expensive to live.

Then I started to think about suburban mothers. They need a Teamsters' contract of their own.

After all, they drive a lot more miles than truck drivers, and they are not even on an eight hour day.

It's no wonder every father wants his to become a two car family. With all the driving Mom does, he'd never have a car otherwise.

Kids have to be taken to school. High schoolers have to attend sports events.

Music lessons are always at the end of town. Choir meets at the church, and that's too far to walk.

Nobody carries groceries home from the store, because there's too much to carry, even in these times of inflation.

You'd think they'd learn to put shopping centers in your back yard, but they never do. They always build them out in a field someplace.

Pajama parties should be in the neighborhood, but they never are.

When your youngster gets a job, you'd think it would be close enough to walk, but it never is.

The Garden Club and Women's Association always hold their meetings at someone's house that isn't anywhere near yours.

Libraries and museums are always built where you don't live.

The Teamsters want $7 an hour.

If the housewives ever join the Teamsters, it means trouble.

Fathers of the world, arise. Otherwise, you won't be able to afford a wife.

DOCTOR SAYS

Several Causes Of Double Vision

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What causes a person to see double? When I watch television, I see two pictures in stead of one.

A—Double vision on one eye may be due to adislocation of the crystalline lens, corneal irregularities or partial retinal detachment. With both eyes open, double vision normally occurs if you hold a finger close to your eyes and look into the distance, and abnormally when one of the muscles that controls the movements of the eyeballs is paralyzed. If it occurs only when you watch TV, your antenna may need adjusting.

Q—Is nearsightedness inherited?

A—Nearsightedness may be hereditary or acquired through excessive use of your eyes for close work with poor illumination.

Q—Would reading while lying down or in a moving vehicle harm one's eyes? If so, how?

A—Reading while lying on your back or in a moving vehicle will probably do no permanent damage but will cause ocular fatigue and should not be done for prolonged periods.

Q—If the eyes are failing, would it help to have my glasses changed?

A—Since there are several causes for failing vision, you should have a complete eye examination, including ocular tension. A need for new glasses is only one of the possible causes.

Q—I lived in India for two years and contracted trachoma. Although I have been treating it for 18 months, it is not cured. What do you advise?

A—Such antibiotics as penicillin, tetracycline and erythromycin in eye drops used for two or three weeks usually cures this potentially blinding disease.

Q—With all the advances made in medical science, why is a broken hip still a permanent injury?

A—Great advances have been made in the treatment of all fractures, including those of the hip, so that in most victims the disability is farm from permanent. In elderly, and occasionally younger patients, however, such complications as nonunion, demineralization of the bone and infection in the marrow canal may cause an imperfect result.

Q—In a recent column you said that excessive coffee drinking could damage the heart. Is this due entirely to the caffeine in the coffee? Would drinking decaffeinated coffee eliminate the danger?

A—Yes to both questions.

Q—I have been working in a plant where the fumes from freon are constantly present because of inadequate ventilation. At night I feel exhausted and have a headache. Could these symptoms be caused by the fumes?

A—Although freon is harmless except in very high concentration, adequate ventilation is essential if the exposure is prolonged. The symptoms of freon poisoning include headache, fatigue and dizziness.

Mothers reveal their heart's desire

By Gerry Walsh

If you could choose just one evening to do whatever you pleased, what would be your choice?

I asked many mothers of all ages this question. Here is a sampling of their responses.

The quickest answers came from those who would like to eat out.

"Going out to dinner—what else? I love to eat!" said the mother of three pre-schoolers.

"Just eating out!" was the immediate response of an attractive mother of 10 children.

"DINNER uninterrupted—I mean not getting up five times during the meal. That would have to be dinner out," answered mother.

"Dinner and the theatre, preferably with another couple much younger than we are," said an older mother of four grown children. "I like to hear new ideas."

"A surprise—when hubby says, 'Let's go out tonight.' Especially after a day at the rummage sale, Girl Scouts, or when I've been housecleaning," said a dedicated community volunteer.

"A place to eat with atmosphere; that's more important than all the good food in the world to me," was another reply.

I TALKED with several older mothers. They preferred to have dinner parties in their own homes. They felt that it was "more fun, more intimate" and a "great way to get to know your friends and your children better." None were concerned about the work involved.

One said, "Everyone helps with the clean-up, and so I don't mind the work at all." Said another, "Company in my own home is my special treat."

I found a large group of very young mothers who chose "sleeping."

"I dream about sleeping until 5 p.m. in a quiet motel," said the mother of seven. Her oldest child is 10 years old.

"A night at the Marriott, not just any old motel," answered the mother of six. Their ages are six to 14 years.

"Everyone gone—and just me alone in the beautiful quiet. I'm afraid I'd sleep most of the time," responded a former model and the mother of two babies.

THERE WAS another group who were confused by the question. No one had ever asked them what they wanted to do.

"Who, me? You mean me all alone?"

"A treat for me?"

"I never thought about it; it's been so long—"

"You're kidding! Everything is too expensive. There isn't any money left for my night out."

A doctor's wife answered: "I'd love to go out and see a good movie; we always miss the best ones. It seems that we always have to go to a meeting instead of a movie."

A FEW admitted that it would depend on their mood at the time. "Right now I'm so exhausted from the holiday parties, I'm contented to stay home. But in another month, I'll be anxious to go anywhere."

"Sometimes I feel like staying home, getting comfy and watching the TV. At another time, I'd love something stimulating, like a good play."

All of this helps prove that women are unique, each with individual needs and desires. However, it does seem that the women in our town tend to yearn for two simple pleasures eating and sleeping.

Junior Volunteers honored at St. Alexius

Sixty-one girls and one boy, Robert Fleming, were honored for their volunteer work at St. Alexius Hospital last Sunday. These teen-agers are all Junior Volunteers who have contributed between 50 and 250 hours of service. During the presentation six girls were "capped," signifying they had accumulated 250 hours of volunteer service. They were Kathryn Fleming, Janice Tensendorf, Pat Rader, Linda Behlke, Nina Erhart and Sue Sisca.

The Junior Volunteer program began three years ago at St. Alexius and now has about 150 volunteers in service. The teens, between the ages of 14 and 18, represent a number of area villages, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows.

This year the program is guided by Brother Anthony Ragucci, volunteer co-ordinator; Mrs. Richard Dowdle, auxiliary junior volunteer chairman, and Mrs. Ralph Bosch, volunteer health careers chairman.

A new program soon to be made available to members of the volunteer group is a medical post of Explorer Scouts. Under special Scout provisions, this program will become available to girls also.

At the fashion show which accompanied the awards luncheon, Junior Volunteers selected their own costumes from the Daisy Boutique in Arlington Heights. Mariwyn Bosch (right) liked this three-color combo in deep purple, wine and white. Purple vest is suede. The Western look was favored by Marian Hinsberger, in denim accented with fringe.

Spares will hear story of evolution in communications

Robert Stenson of Northbrook, a professional speaker in the public relations division of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., will present "Mr. Penny-packer and His Talking Machine" at a meeting of The Spares at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 25, at the Glenview Community Church, 1000 Elm St., Glenview.

Through a dialog between Stenson and a fictitious screen character, a telephone installer named Jeremiah J. Penny-packer, the audience is taken on a light-hearted trip through the evolving world of communications.

A veteran of nearly 30 years in the technical end of the telephone business, Stenson has appeared before countless professional and civic groups to speak on the communications and research fields.

THE SPARES is a non-sectarian, non-profit organization for single, widowed or divorced adults and is sponsored by the Glenbrook Ministerial Council. The Spares meet on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Daisies begin luncheon story

The first meeting of the special projects committee took place recently to plan the March 14 annual luncheon and fashion show for the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club.

Marian Baker will serve as chairman of the event, "Daisies Do Tell."

Fashions by Saks Fifth Avenue will be shown.

Proceeds will help finance the club's philanthropic projects, one of which is now under way. Bernice Bosma and her committee are studying applications for scholarships to Harper College for women interested in continuing their education.

Huskies, Grenadiers steal MSL spotlight

A showdown between Hersey and Elk Grove, two of the top-rated teams in the state, highlights a full slate of gymnastics meets in the Mid-Suburban League tonight. In addition to the battle between the No. 2 ranked Huskies and No. 3 ranked Grenadiers at 7 p.m. in the Elk Grove gym, Arlington is at Forest View, Glenbard North is at Conant, Palatine is at Prospect and Fremd is at Wheeling.

EVEN WITH Arlington topping 130 last weekend, the Hersey-Elk Grove confrontation is expected to decide the champion of the MSL's dual meet season. The Huskies and Grenadiers are both unbeaten and the winner is expected to remain so the rest of the season.

Hersey has an edge in the average scores of the two teams in previous meets, but by just a slight margin. The Huskies top score is 136.1 against Cortant and the Grenadiers' peak has been 132.6 in a non-conference dual at Addison Trail.

Forest View coach Gay Hughes, one of the top mentors in the area, knows exactly how good Elk Grove and Hersey are. Hughes watched as the Huskies hit 120.17 and the Grenadiers hit 124.91 against his team during an eight-day stretch in December.

"IT SHOULD be a knock-down-drag-out meet," Hughes said. "If either team misses, the other will win. If they both hit, though, it'll really be close. They both have great teams and great individual performers."

"It's my opinion that, with all the pressure and every coach in the state watching to see what happens, that one of the two teams will blow it. I hope it doesn't happen, because I'd like to see both teams hit their peak. If they do, the margin between them will be very small."

"We're going into the meet with the right attitude," Elk Grove coach Fred Gaines said. "A lot of our boys have seen Hersey and they think they can beat them. But it's going to take a team effort with our second and third men doing well enough to offset Gary Morava."

BUT UNFORTUNATELY for the Huskies and their supporters, Morava will not be anywhere near full strength and will participate in a maximum of two events, the free exercise and the trampoline.

"He can't support himself on any of the apparatus because of his shoulder injury," said Hersey coach Don Von Ebers. "I'd rather lose the meet than risk hurting him seriously, although I must say this came at a terrible time with our toughest meet of the season coming up."

So the highest scorer in the state will not be able to go in the all-around, and that practically insures a victory in that department for talented Benny Fernandez of Elk Grove. The Huskie all-around man will be Jeff Farris, who averaged 5.25 last week against Lake Forest.

"BUT I still think we have a chance to take the meet," said Von Ebers. "If everyone can come up with a good performance. We're better man for man on each piece, but of course it depends on everyone doing his job."

If Morava is unable to participate on the trampoline, sophomore Pat Tracey will be brought up to replace him. But Von Ebers hopes that won't be necessary even though Tracey has been getting 6's on the sophomore team, because then he'll have to stay with the varsity the remainder of the season.

Even if Hersey should lose this one, Von Ebers feels that Elk Grove can still be beaten, possibly by Arlington.

HUGHES HIMSELF has a tough meet against Arlington tonight. The Cardinals are undefeated this season in dual meets and will be hard for the Falcons to cut down.

"We just don't have the power Arlington has, and I can't see much chance of beating them," said the Forest View mentor. "The only thing our kids can do is go out and look good; all I ask of them is that they do their best."

Hughes is shooting for fifth place in the conference, and that is probably where the Falcons will end up. But Arlington is one of the teams that will finish ahead of them, and the Cardinals' 130-plus scores will be too much for Forest View's 90's.

CONANT HAS a great chance to pick up its second straight win tonight and go even with the league at 2-2. The Cougars were close to 80 last week in an exciting win over Wheeling, and visiting Glenbard North has yet to clear 60 this year. The Panthers are winless in the MSL.

Prospect, which was supposed to be one of the challengers for the title, has lost three of four meets to the three top teams in the league and are now pretty much out of the picture.

But the Knights have been scoring in the 120's, and they should be able to coast through the rest of their schedule with no trouble. This evening's contest with Palatine is no exception.

THE PIRATES are 1-3 in conference competition, and should be no match for Prospect. The Knights are without a doubt the best fourth-place team in the state, and they will be out to prove that the rest of the year.

Falcon star Meier gets AOW nod for heroics at Hersey

By Mike Imrem
And Jim Stuart

It's been said that a great athlete puts out his best efforts when the chips are down, and that's exactly what Wayne Meier did for Forest View last weekend.

Cagers re-open

After a three week holiday layoff, the Des Plaines Park District basketball program geared up for action

In the fifth grade Rand Park Northern Conference, North beat Central 16-7. The sixth grade result was Central 44, Immanuel 25.

THE SOUTHERN Conference fifth grade play saw the South Lakers crush the Plainfield Panthers, 47-10, and the Orchard Bullets edge the Plainfield Pythons, 12-8.

Four games were played in the sixth grade division of the Southern Conference, as the South Pistons edged the Orchard Knicks, 20-18, St. Stephens 76ers crushed the Orchard Warriors, 18-2, the South Bulls beat the Plainfield Pythons, 25-4.

Forest View had its Mid-Suburban League title hopes on the line in road games against conference contenders Fremd and Hersey, and the Falcons met the challenge by stopping the Vikings Friday, 68-61, and the Huskies Saturday, 52-51.

A BALANCED attack was once again the key for coach Ken Arneson's club, which has three men in double figures in both games, but Meier still managed to steal the show and earn Athlete of the Week honors.

"There is no doubt that those were real big games for us," Meier said. "We know we have to win 'em all now if we're going to have a chance for the conference title. And we especially wanted revenge against Hersey after they beat us last year."

Meier paced the Forest View attack in both games with 20 points against Fremd and 15 against the tough Hersey defense. On the other end of the court, the 6-2½ senior played tenaciously in both the man-to-man defense the Falcons used Friday and the zone they used Saturday.

TO CAP his weekend adventures, Meier scored the winning points under tremendous pressure at Hersey. With just eight seconds on the clock and the Huskies ahead by a 51-50 count, Wayne calmly sank two free throws on a one-and-one situation to win the game.

"I just tried not to psych myself out on those free throws," Meier said later. "They didn't seem any different at the time than any other of the free throws I shot that night. I didn't realize until after the game what I had done and how big those free throws really were."

Meier might have looked like the coolest man in the gym during those pressure-packed seconds, but Arneson claims he was just as cool. The veteran coach had that much confidence in his talented forward.

"MEIER KNOWS right now that me can't miss free throws," Arneson said. "because he's been shooting them so well lately. Confidence is one of the biggest things when it comes to free throws and he's got it. And I didn't think the pressure would bother him because of the experience he has."

Meier does have that all-important experience, having played varsity ball during his junior season. He was forced to play center most of that campaign, mostly because of Arneson's problems at the position, but he's a forward now.

"I like playing forward a lot better than center," Meier said. "You don't get the ball as much at center, and when you do you usually have your back to the basket. I like the wing because you have everything in front of you when you get the ball."

ARNESON, THE man who engineered Meier's move from the pivot to the wing, couldn't be happier with the way things have been working out. He says Wayne has improved the areas of his game that needed it most, namely passing and ball-handling.

"Wayne and Dave Long, our other forward, aren't smooth ballplayers," Arneson said, "but they're the type that keep pounding away until the ball goes in. Meier works hard and plays hard, and that's one of his biggest assets."

In addition to his basketball heroics, Meier was an end on coach Paul Jordan's football team and earned all-conference and all-area honors. Wayne insists, however that neither sport is his best.

"I THINK my best sport is golf," he said. "I averaged 40 for nine holes last season and my lowest score was a 35. I like all three sports, though, and each one is good in its own way."

And to complete the story, Arneson says Meier is a straight-A student in the classroom. The three-sport star plans on putting his academic abilities to good use at Western Illinois University beginning next fall.

Mat talk

By Dick Mudge

Wrestling official

Before our coming district tournaments, and before most conference tournaments that will be held the week before the districts, the coaches involved will have a meeting and try to decide who the best wrestler, the second-best wrestler, etc., are in each of the 12 weight classes. In doing this, they will, thereby, seed the better boys and leave the average-to-poorer wrestlers to be drawn as their opponents.

THIS IS ROUGH!! Sometimes there are outstanding wrestlers who can be seeded easily; however, many times it is hard to get the coaches involved to agree on whether one wrestler is better than another. Coaches will, of course, stick up for their own boys if they have faith in them and yours truly has witnessed many a heated argument before the dispute was settled. Ideally, of course, it all should be left up to the boys on the mat.

Some principles which are considered in trying to seed wrestlers are: 1. A boy's won-lost record; 2. How each wrestler fared against a common opponent; 3. Previous years' records and how he placed in last year's tournaments.

Now come the questions—who did the wrestler compete against in establishing his record? What if there are very few or no common opponents? Should a boy live on last year's laurels? And so on.

CONCERNING THE won-lost record, you come across such problems as the number of bouts a wrestler has wrestled (the Interim Association only allows a school to compete in a given number of dual meets and tournaments, whereas a school coming from outside our area may wrestle in any number of meets he wishes), is a 24-2 record better than an 11-1?

With regard to the common opponent principle, some coaches will contend that their boy was not feeling well that day or that it was in early-season match.

THIS WILL give you a brief idea of how involved these meetings can get. When you have schools coming from some distance away, there is sometimes very little to go on. These seeding meetings take many hours and, because most are held after all boys are weighed in the day of the tournament, they may even delay the starting time of the tournament.

When there are eight wrestlers involved, the No. 1 seeded wrestler is placed in the upper bracket and Nos. 2 and 3 are placed in the lower bracket. The No. 4 wrestler is placed in the upper bracket and would have to wrestle No. 1 in the semifinals, providing they both win their opening matches. Keeping in mind that only the first and second place wrestlers advance to the sectional, you can understand why a coach fights for his boy to be seeded No. 1.

WHEN A BOY had qualified for the sectional tournament, seeding him is no longer necessary due to a system the state has employed which is commonly called "wrestling back." This means that a boy who has lost in the first round could still have a chance for second place, and advance to the state tournament, if the wrestler who beat him goes on to win the championship. All boys who were beaten by the champion are put in a separate bracket and wrestle back to second place, thus qualifying for the state tournament.

While this has presented problems, too, which we will not go into at this time, on paper, it is the fairest way to advance the top two boys.

BASKETBALL teams are seeded in similar seeding meetings when it comes around to tournament time. Keep in mind, however, that when the basketball coaches finish seeding once, they are FINISHED. Wrestling coaches must hash and re-hash won-lost records twelve times, once for each weight class.

Next week we will discuss referee's decisions.

MW jayvees lose twice on mat

Maine West's jayvee grapplers were plagued by defeat this weekend as they dropped two matches. The Warriors were beaten by Deerfield, 29-20, and by Evanston, 29-17.

At 98 Ken Gustafson won by forfeit against Deerfield and pinned his Evanston opponent in 1:55.

At 107 Bruce Hillner recorded two pins, sticking Deerfield in 1:49 and Evanston in 1:07. Fred Triebke split for the weekend: blanking the Kit, 3-0, and losing to his Warrior adversary, 6-3, at 115.

AT 123 Keith Fehrenbacher tied Deerfield, 4-4, but lost at Evanston by a 6-2 margin. Mike Bistany showed great grappling prowess over the weekend, pinning Deerfield in 1:44 and blanking the Wildkit in a 5-0 match.

At 137 Chuck Rucker also won twice, sticking his Warrior adversary in 3:55 and whipping his Evanston counterpart by a 4-2 gap.

Mike Palazola split for the weekend, losing to Deerfield by a 9-2 margin and edging Evanston, 7-5. At 155, Leon Papowski dropped both matches. Papowski was slighted by his Deerfield opponent, 3-2, and walloped by Evanston, 11-4.

Maine West was forced to forfeit both nights at 165. Steve Bednar also split, being pinned in 1:10 by Evanston and beating Deerfield, 6-5. Dennis Mattini was clobbered both nights by 14-5 and 12-2 scores from Deerfield and Evanston, respectively. The Warriors forfeited the heavy-weight match both nights.

Something for the birds

Talk with a teacher

By Esther Culton

Dear Boys and Girls:

Today I am worried. It is very, very cold outside and snow covers the ground as far as I can see. I don't see the birds. I wonder if they have enough to eat.

Birds must have food and consume great amounts of it. Mostly they eat things that man wants to get rid of, especially insects, mice, and the seeds of many weeds.

Even though birds sometimes destroy some of our good fruit and eat some of our good seeds the small damage they do is nothing compared with the great value they have in keeping down the population of pests in the world. Life could be difficult and uncomfortable without birds.

If you attract winter birds to your bird feeders, as we should all try to do, this would be a good time to watch and find out what foods different birds are eating. Some would probably prefer insects if they could find them but insect eaters will eat nuts and corn if their favorite food is just not there.

WE ALSO have seed eaters, fruit eaters and flesh eaters, but the flesh eaters, I am sure you could not find in this part of the country. Eagles, hawks, vultures, and owls are flesh eaters and eat mice, bats, and other rodents.

During the winter months birds have a hard time to find enough food and those that prefer seeds, insects and fruit would probably be glad for dry bread. What is there in your yard for the birds to eat?

When we talk about feeding stations we probably make them sound complicated but this need not be so. The simplest feeding station can be any small old table, shelf or platform high enough off the ground so that cats and dogs cannot reach it. I once saw a bird feeder made from a shoe box put on a window ledge.

FOR FOOD try different things -- dry bread, dry cake, doughnuts or ripe apples chopped fine. Squash and melon seeds, a few shelled nuts and raisins would also be good.

One dear little boy I know watches very carefully to see that Mother does not throw out left-overs that his bird friends could eat. He even told me very confidentially that he saved some rice from his plate to see if the birds would like it.

He also confided that he wanted to give them his salad but his mother said, "No!"

By attracting birds to your feeding station they will stay in or near your yard and will sing, fly, build nests and raise their babies when spring comes.

Offer trailer booklet

A brighter outlook for folks in search of low cost housing is offered by Chicago-based Mobile Home Manufacturers' Assn. with its new yearbook, "Mobile Homes," issued just in time to usher in the new year with vistas of all phases of life in a mobile home.

The richly illustrated, 72-page magazine presents many features written by mobile home owners, others by members of the industry that last year provided more than 90 per cent of all the single family homes built for less than $15,000.

COMFORTS, economies, financing, mini-care maintenance and construction designs are just a few of the themes covered, with sidelights on pets and children, yards and gardens, plumbing, electrical and heating tips, insurance and everything that pertains to the modern home.

For those who like to pack up and go, there are obvious advantages in the mobile home. This and other benefits are discussed, and if you have the "vertical" preference, you'll even find the article on "Modular Homes" by Herbert Behrend, provocative in its description of the current stacking of mobile homes to make urban townhouses and apartments.

The present record of more than 400,000 units sold across the nation in 1969 is expected to be surpassed in 1970, according to Jerry Bagley of the MHMA. Bagley quoted MHMA president Edward A. Dickman's latest report that close to 40,000 homes were shipped in October alone, and stressed that present sales are running 31 per cent over last year's tally.

THE FAVORABLE impact on local officials in granting zoning approval for planned mobile communities which is being achieved through the MHMA educational program, called Operation Push-Up, headed by Robert DeRose, has already resulted in more than 4,000 government inquiries processed by the trade association.

Single copies of "Mobile Homes" are available at 75 cents each by mail from the Mobile Home Manufacturers' Assn., Dept. PRD, 20 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago 60606.

GLAMOUR-BEAD NECKLACE!

By Cappy Dick

The poet who said "all that glitters is not gold" probably did not think of the glamour beads that are today's fun-project for boys and girls. However, he could have included them because when you sprinkle ordinary squash seeds with tinsel they will sparkle so beautifully you could hardly guess what they are.

The next time you have a big squash at your house, ask for the seeds so you can make a string of glamour beads. The first thing to do after you have cleaned them is to string them on a length of silver cord like that used to tie Christmas packages. Thread the cord into a needle of medium size. Push the needle through a seed near the pointed end and carefully pull the cord through (Figure 1). Then press the needle through the same seed again and once more pull the cord through. This will deep the seeds flat. Add enough seeds to form a necklace, spacing them about three-fourths of an inch apart.

Spread the necklace flat on a piece of paper. Place a drop of glue on each seed and smear it over the surface. Then sprinkle each seed with a little tinsel. Let the glue dry.

Another necklace can be made by stringing half-inch cubes of styrofoam as shown in Figures 2 and 3.

HELPFUL PARTY STUNTS BOOKLET!

Mothers! If you are looking for new ideas to entertain your children's parties or scout meetings, you'll find 45 good ones in Cappy Dick's "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coin, plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK BOOKLETS, P.O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Ill. 60642.

Nixon To Speak Today

WASHINGTON — Crime, inflation and a "do-it-yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation this afternoon.

Nixon will deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 11:30 a.m.

Bill Delayed Again

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action was further delayed yesterday on a $19.7 billion money bill, which President Nixon has threatened to veto, when the Senate voted to delete an amendment dealing with antipoverty spending.

The compromise appropriations measure was returned to the House which had to decide whether to accept the Senate position on the provision or request a new negotiating conference on that one item. The delay does not affect Congressional approval, but delays sending the bill to the White House.

Warn Against Pill

WASHINGTON — Three medical professors testified yesterday women should be told in simple language their birth control pills could cause death by high blood pressure and stroke. But none proposed the pills be withdrawn from the market.

The three educators testified before the Senate small business monopoly subcommittee, which opened its second round of hearings on possible health hazards of "The Pill."

U.S. Bases Shelled

SAIGON — American forces received the heaviest shelling since September when Communist gunners fired rockets and mortars into 18 U.S. bases in key provinces around Saigon, military spokesmen said yesterday.

The huge Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, and the U.S. Army headquarters at Long Binh, three miles away, were among the targets. The shelling reportedly killed two Americans and wounded 23.

Nixon: Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew yesterday for all Americans to tighten their belts to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes.

"The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

Asks 'Full Story'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Henry C. Schaderberg, R-Wis., charged yesterday U.S. officials are not telling the full story of starvation and other ordeals being suffered by the people of Biafra.

Schaderberg said he talked with Catholic priests who fled Biafra shortly before it gave up its secessionist fight and said "their story is terrifying."

TOM MCCABE, center, of 1317 E. Cumberland Circle, gets set for a face-off at a scrimmage for an Elk Grove Village hockey team. More than 200 boys participate in the park district sponsored program at the Cypress Lane rink south of Kennedy Boulevard. McCabe coordinates the program and coaches a team along with 25 other adults who volunteer their time. McCabe coaches the Bruins.

A Bobby Hull In Our Midst?

by TOM JACHMIEC

Times have changed and so have people's attitudes toward ice hockey.

When Tom McCabe, 36, of Elk Grove Village was a youngster growing up in Oak Park, hockey was looked upon not only as a dangerous sport, but it was illegal.

"It was against the law to carry a hockey stick in the parks," recalled McCabe. "I guess the game was considered dangerous when I was a kid."

That has all changed, however, and a large portion of the credit is due to television, which has made a rough winter sport popular with both young and old, McCabe said.

In addition, people today have more money, leisure time and more facilities "than when I was a kid," he said.

A CIVIL ENGINEER for a local firm, McCabe is the coordinator of the Elk Grove Park District's hockey program, in teams. Twenty-five adults also participate as volunteer coaches, like McCabe.

With the assistance of Dan Sullivan, Mike Pecorelli and Ron Hayden, McCabe has set up an organized hockey program which sees every boy play.

"This is the first venture at organized hockey," said Jack Claes, park director. "Any kid who wants to play can play."

Youngsters began organized play in January and will skate "until there is no ice — about mid-February," said McCabe. "We're subject to the weather which can really kill us."

M McCabe fears that mid-winter thaw will hurt the program. Extreme cold does not hurt the boys, he said.

"WHEN WE HAD 10 below zero and 25-mile-an-hour winds, we had kids out there," he said.

Teams play five games, most of them on weekends, in the short season. During the week teams practice under the lights at the Cypress Lane rink near Salt Creek. Games are played between the teams and other park districts.

Each team has been set up on the basis of ability, McCabe said.

"We had them all come out and skate around the rink, and we tested their ability," he said. "We observed them and assigned boys to teams on the basis of their ability."

"Hockey is a sport boys like," McCabe said. "It's a way to get out of the house and have fun. It's doing things boys like to do — body contact, bumping each other and falling down."

"We've had one serious injury to my knowledge," said McCabe. "It was a broken collar bone."

"WE'VE MADE THE game as safe as we can," he added. "We require all boys to wear helmets, mouth guards, elbow pads, shin guards and hockey skates."

"If a boy is caught fighting he is suspended from the game being played and the next one." There is not too much fighting, said McCabe, despite all that is seen on television by professional players.

The cost for each boy is $5. It includes the price of a shirt and an accident insurance policy. The remainder of the equipment, valued at $25, must be furnished by the players, or more appropriately, by the parents. The park district does furnish protective gear for goalies, estimated by McCabe to cost as much as $100.

2 Boards? We Can Use 'em!

Hanover Park park directors plan to share a recent mistake with the village, The Herald learned this week.

Several months ago, park board members authorized purchase of a bulletin board for placement at a local shopping center.

Following authorization to buy the bulletin board, Mrs. Nancy Nielsen, park secretary, issued a purchase order to the supplier chosen by the park board. At approximately the same time, the park director who recommended purchasing the item in question also placed a telephone order for the bulletin board.

Several weeks later two bulletin boards were delivered to the park district.

THE COMMISSIONERS unanimously agreed Monday to install the extra board at the village hall and allow village officials to post notices along with park information.

In other action this week, park directors agreed to pay The Mark of Excellence, a local teen combo, $75 for providing music at a Jan. 31 teen dance to be held at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse.

Approval was also given to Tri-Village Theatre Guild for use of Longmeadows Activity Center for rehearsal four times within the next several months.

Drugs...And Misconceptions

"I thought the problem was worse," said Mrs. Sue Smith.

Mrs. Smith was one of several parents who commented on a talk on drug use Tuesday in Elk Grove Village.

After listening to the talk, by Police Det. John Landers, she seemed encouraged.

She said she had heard a similar talk several years ago by a former Chicago police detective, but that she learned more from Landers' talk.

VERNON SOMOGYI, an associate engineer, said he came from an area in Chicago that had a drug problem, but no one would admit it was a problem.

"At least here they admit it," he said.

Mrs. Marilyn Gillette said there are many misconceptions about drugs that she learned from the talk.

"I thought the problem was more serious than it was," she added.

FRANK STOMPANATO, president of the Byrd School Parent Teacher Organization, said:

"I hate to see drugs here because these kids got a tremendous chance out here."

Stompanato, a salesman, said he grew up on Chicago's West Side with many other youths who used drugs.

"I was born and raised with it but I never touched the stuff," he said. "Sports saved me," he added.

STOMPANATO said he had a friend who was on drugs from the time he was 9 years old.

"He was on the hard stuff," he said. "Marijuana was a joke to him." He added that his friend died because of drug use at 21.

"We've got to control it," he asserted. Don Javens, a public relations man, when asked to comment said: "The only time Paddock's interested is when it sells newspapers." He accused this newspaper of not reporting factually.

JOHN MYERS, an airline pilot, said there must be more to solving the drug problem than better communication between parents and youths.

"Perhaps a combination of law education, parent education, and teacher education. This has apparently worked here," he said.

Mrs. Frank Stompanato said she did not realize there were so many pills available to youngsters. She added she also thought the problem was worse than it was.

Youth Drug Abuse Down: Policeman

The drug abuse problem among youth in Elk Grove Village is on a downward trend, no where near what it was last year, according to a police detective for the Elk Grove Village Police Department.

John Landers, speaking before 30 members of the Admiral Byrd School PTO Tuesday, said youths are still abusing drugs, but that the glamour to use LSD and marijuana is not there.

"The problem at the high school is down," he said. "It's no where near where it was a year ago."

ASKED BY A PARENT to be specific about the number of students using drugs, Landers said: "More than one and less than 100." There are 2,700 students in the high school, he said.

Landers said there have been few cases of drug abuse at the junior high school level, with only one case reported this year.

"The drug problem is much lower than in surrounding towns," he said. "Our records show a great decrease in drug abuse arrests. They are not as plentiful as in the past."

Landers said he was hopeful the trend would continue.

He credited the drop in drug arrests to preventive police work, but more important, interest by parents in their children.

LANDERS NOTED THAT prior to a big drug arrest in 1968 there was a lot of apathy toward the community drug problem.

The arrest saw 19 suburban youths arrested, in addition to 14 Chicago arrests, and two residents from California who were flying in weekly with a supply of LSD, Landers said.

Landers indicated that the apathy may be returning, but said he hoped programs such as those offered by Community Services would reduce the drug problem still further.

COMMUNITY SERVICES, however, is in need of adult volunteers to work with youth, he said.

Landers also told of past cases of drug abuse in the village.

He said some youths have grown marijuana in their own gardens. Some have found that a heroin treatment on marijuana gives a better kick.

One high school student stole some tubing from the high school to make an elaborate water pipe enabling several youths to smoke marijuana from the same pipe.

"Most marijuana is bought in Chicago," Landers said, "and not in Old Town."

He said police have traced sales to Halsted Street and the University of Chicago, a heavy drug area where there are clandestine labs.

LANDERS SAID there was a very small problem with the professional pusher in the area. "The problem is with the opportunists at the high school level," he said.

The youngest victim of drug abuse in town was a 12-year-old who had access to drugs through a member of the family, Landers said.

Asked if there was a correlation between long hair and drug use, he said "no."

"This is not saying that no long hairs use drugs," he explained, but that many users are clean-cut looking youngsters.

A SIGN THAT a youngster may be using drugs is a change in personality, a drop in grades and school attendance.

Other drugs are dangerous, Landers said, naming LSD, speed, and heroin.

"In most cases use of heroin causes death in from five to eight years," he said.

Landers said he would not like to see marijuana legalized.

Scholars Chosen

The President's Scholars program at Southern Illinois University includes seven new members from this area.

They include Elk Grove Village residents: Dalene L. Box of 610 Pinewood Drive, Michael T. Carroll of 565 Gateshead St., and Kathy Jean McKelvey of 106 Essex Road, who is majoring in Spanish.

Also, Nancy Kay Peterson of 115 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, a sociology major; Michael K. Mitchell of 200 E. School Lane, Prospect Heights, a pre-law student; and Palatine residents Geoffrey K. Buettner of 638 S. Bennett Ave., a photography major, and Bonnie E. Burrow of 326 N. Elmwood Lane.

The Scholars are selected on the basis of college entrance test scores and predicted grade point average at SIU.

Who'll Be Jaycee 'Man'?

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees will name the "man of the year" Saturday at their annual banquet, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Maitre d' Restaurant.

The Jaycees, as a national organization, are celebrating their 50th anniversary this week.

Last Saturday, 10 local high school youths took over the operation of the village government during "Youth in Government Day."

THE ORGANIZATION'S biggest event of the year is the peony pageant, including a parade and carnival, in June. A service group, Jaycees sponsor the annual village map and directory distributed to more than 6,000 residents and merchants.

The group also sponsors Boy Scout Troop 284, Cub Scout Pack 246, a Little League baseball team, "Santa phone," an Easter egg hunt, a punt, pass and kick contest, outstanding young educator award, project Vietnam and other events.

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees received their charter in 1958 as an extension of the Villa Park Jaycees.

John Radzisz was the first president. Current president of the 45-member organization is Henry Greenhold.

Some of the past Jaycees, known as "old roosters" because of a requirement that members retire at 35, residing in the area include Jack Walsh, Charles Zetek, Carl Klehm, Bob Beaupre, John Antor, Radzisz and others.

MANY OF THESE men, charter members in 1958, were instrumental in establishing some of the organization's projects.

The first Jaycee peony pageant and parade in 1958 drew 5,000 people. The group also was responsible for providing the first American flag and pole in front of Rupley School.

The village flower, a red peony developed by nursery owner Carl Klehm, is another of the Jaycees' accomplishments. The Illinois Jaycees later adopted the flower as the "Jaycee Peony."

In addition, Jaycees have made other contributions to the community as part of fostering their goal — civic improvement through the actions of young men.

Hansen To Fill County Post

Rumors that Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect will become a Cook County commissioner were confirmed this week by several top level Republicans.

Hansen was unavailable for comment yesterday, but his appointment to the county board had been expected for several weeks. He will fill the vacancy created by the death of Joseph Kral of Cicero.

Hansen's term will be only 10 months. County Sheriff Joseph Woods has been slated to fill the vacancy in November, when he also will be a candidate for county board president.

ALTHOUGH THE county board normally includes 10 Democrats — elected from Chicago — and five Republicans — elected from the suburbs — a Republican will be appointed by virtue of a "gentleman's agreement" between the two parties.

Hansen is seeking re-election to a third term as Elk Grove GOP committeeman on March 17. He is unopposed.

His activity with the party in the Northwest suburbs began in 1959. In 1960 he was chairman of the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in six area townships. He earlier had served as chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans.

In 1968, Hansen was one of two 13th Congressional District delegates at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He is vice chairman of the county COP central committee and also serves as chairman of the Third Representative District committee for the GOP.

Hansen heads his own consulting firm, Chicago Associates Inc., which specializes in marketing services and market research.

He and his wife, Christl, live at 110 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect.

Randhurst Going Up

by GERRY DE ZONNA

The future of the Randhurst Corp. is up in the air with some concrete plans for the village's first skyscraper.

The Mount Prospect Village Board approved the corporation's request Tuesday to build a 10-story professional office building at Randhurst just south of Montgomery Ward.

"We submitted our request for a zoning variation to the board 14 months ago and the plans were finally approved last night. In view of the long delay involved, our initial plans and studies will have to be revised," Paul Dasso, general manager of Randhurst Corp., said yesterday.

"WE HAVE NOT HAD a meeting with our architects since the variation was approved, so there is very little to add at this time on our plans for the building, except we'll begin working on the project immediately," he said.

"The office building will be geared primarily for professional businessmen and at this point we anticipate that there will be more space rented for general offices than medical or dental offices. Studies, which were conducted about two years ago, indicate there is a very definite need for professional office space in the Northwest suburban area," Dasso said.

The Randhurst Corp. asked the village board to grant a zoning variation, approving the construction of a 10-story office building and preserve open space at the shopping center as well. According to the village ordinance, the maximum building height is 30 feet, and the corporation was seeking approval to construct a building 120 feet high.

The board voted three to two to approve the request because upward expansion would preserve open spaces in the Randhurst area more than outward expansion. Trustees Lloyd Norris and George Reiter voted to deny the request, while Trustees Daniel Ahern, Donald Furst and Jack Kilroy approved the variation.

"IF THE ZONING variation were denied, the Randhurst Corp. could still construct an office building with the same amount of space, only the building would occupy more ground space and eliminate most of the open space in the area. They could elect to expand outward and still meet all the other requirements in the ordinance," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

"Our next step, now that we've been granted the zoning variation, is to begin working out the details on the building. We have preliminary architectural studies, but now our architects need to prepare a set of working plans," Dasso said.

A. Epstein and Sons of Chicago is the architectural firm that will design the building.

The next step for the Randhurst Corp., as far as village officials are concerned, is to submit specific plans on the building to the plan commission and village board for approval.

According to conditions in the zoning variation, construction must begin within one year from the date of approval.

Theft Suspect Charged in City

Chicago police this week picked up a 21-year-old man wanted on a warrant for theft Jan. 16 by Elk Grove Village police.

Local police charged George H. Bowles, also known as Henry Brown, of Chicago, with the theft of a cash box from a catering truck parked outside Joseph T. Ryerson & Co. Inc., 2180 Pratt Blvd., where Bowles had been employed.

Raymond Jacobs of LaGrange reported that $100 was in the box at the time of the theft, witnessed by his wife.

Bowles, whose bond had been set at $10,000, was to appear in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court yesterday.

expert on hockey. Nevertheless, he said he likes to skate and enjoys the game, though he has never played at an organized level.

McCabe is also an avid jogger, having logged 370 miles last year, and bicycle rider, having ridden more than 600 miles.

HE SAID HOCKEY has even captured the enthusiasm of parents, especially mothers.

"The women are more enthusiastic about the boys playing hockey than baseball," he asserted. "It seems they are glad their kids are out blowing off steam after being cooped up in the house all winter."

"We've had the most enthusiastic support of any program in the village," he said.

"But, as yet, there have been no girl hockey players," replied McCabe when put the question. "But I understand there's a team in Marquette, Mich., with one."

Housing Evictions Planned

Tenants of substandard housing in Rolling Meadows could be living in new quarters within a week with the help of city officials.

Mayor Roland Meyer said the four buildings located at 1351 Algonquin Road were definitely found in violation of city building codes after inspection Tuesday afternoon.

Cease and desist orders were issued yesterday, according to the mayor.

"But we don't want to force eviction until we know the people have a place to go," he said.

Until late yesterday, temporary housing for the eight families still had not been found.

The mayor said he had contacted the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows for guidance and expected also to talk with county aid agencies.

"IT'S POSSIBLE we will have places for four of the families within the next couple of days," Meyer said.

City officials do not want to set an eviction date until they know there are new homes for the families.

"We're looking for places only on a temporary basis until a more permanent solution is found to accommodate the people,"

Meyer said.

The cease and desist orders issued mean the buildings must be vacated until they are brought up to city building standards.

"But we're sure there's no way the buildings can be put in order," Meyer said.

THERE IS NO running water or plumbing facilities inside the shacks and electricity comes from an extension cord, city officials reported after the inspection on Tuesday.

Cook County officials inspected the dwelling last week and found 52 violations of county building requirements.

Rolling Meadows officials were not aware the buildings were occupied until Tuesday when the mayor ordered immediate inspection of the location.

A couple of months ago, six locations of substandard housing were discovered in Elk Grove. Because of fire hazards all families were placed in motel rooms or given money to return to Texas if they desired. The housing was demolished by the Elk Grove Fire Department.

Tapes, Players Stolen From Cars

Nine cars were broken into Wednesday and more than $1,000 in tapes and tape players were taken, Elk Grove Village police reported.

All except one of the thefts occurred at Ampex Corp., parking lots at 2222 and 2201 Lunt Avenue in Centex Industrial Park. One theft was reported in a lot near 2483 Greenleaf Ave.

Want 10 Wild Days In Bear Country?

You can hear timber wolves howling in the night or run into an occasional black bear or even pull a 30-inch northern pike out of virgin lakes where moose drink.

It's all part of a deal Merv Miller, chairman of the physical education department at Conant High School, has had going for the last seven years.

Each summer Miller takes 40 to 60 high school boys into the wilds of the north for 10 days of fishing, hiking and all-around excitement.

It's Official: Football Talk

The NFL is coming to Elk Grove Village today and tomorrow.

Football talk will dominate the scene both days as two gridiron personalities visit the community.

Tony Sacco, a NFL game official, will speak at a Kiwanis Club smoker beginning at 7 tonight in the Maitre d' Restaurant. Football fans have been invited.

Chuck Mather, a scout for the Chicago Bears, will speak tomorrow at a 7 p.m. dinner sponsored by the Men's Club of St. Nicholas Episcopal Church. For reservations, also at the Maitre d', call Dick Mugavero, 439-8629.

Black Bear Lodge is situated 350 miles north of the Minnesota border near Red Lake, Ontario, Canada. And for the past seven summers Miller has been leading students and their parents, who provide the transportation, to the 11 cabins, blue lakes and unspoiled country at Black Bear.

THE FISHING EXCURSION is a cooperative effort of several local school districts, Miller said. The lodge is owned by Walter Rundle, a teacher at Fremd High School.

Black Bear Lodge couldn't have a more appropriate name. "Last summer we had to shoot two black bears who strayed too near the camp," Miller said.

The camp is nestled deep in the wilds. Campers can drive only so far, then the terrain dictates a 20-minute plane flight over the dense woods surrounding the site, he said.

Once there, campers find themselves on Red Lake, which is 16 miles long and filled with pike, walleye and lake trout, Miller said.

"An experience of this sort helps build a boy's confidence and gives him a chance to be away from home for a while and meet new friends in a new place," he said.

The cost for the trip is $120 for 10 days. This includes plane flight, fishing license, the use of boats and outboard motors, meals and lodging.

This summer two trips are planned, one for late June and another for early July.

Bacon Fired in Quick, Stormy MSD Session

Even the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) board standards, the Wednesday firing of General Supt. Vinton Bacon was one of the stormiest and quickest sessions on record.

In 10 minutes of ramrod action, Board Pres. John Egan led the firing of Bacon and the immediate appointment of an acting superintendent.

Ben Sosowitz, MSD engineer of maintenance and operations, was named acting superintendent above the roar of an angry crowd. John Guillou, chief engineer, Illinois Division of Waterways, reportedly is being considered for Bacon's $40,500-a-year job.

IN THE FOLLOWING statement, Bacon acknowledged he is through with the sanitary district, though he had earlier asked that charges against him be put on written record.

Asked if his firing would be a setback for intergovernmental cooperation, the superintendent noted it would be "gong back to the middle ages" not to incorporate multi-uses of MSD projects.

"To eliminate recreation from reservoirs would be one of the greatest mistakes the board could make," he said.

One reason for dismissal reportedly was the board's dissatisfaction with projects related to MSD operations. The Heritage Park retention basin in Wheeling can directly be related to Bacon's interest in multi-uses MSD projects.

DEMOCRATIC TRUSTEE Chester Ma-

jewski said after the meeting Bacon's dismissal was because of dissatisfaction with the progress of pollution control. Bacon accused the board of submitting to pressure of business not to enforce pollution control standards.

The board and Bacon have been locked in bitter dispute for several years. Although pollution control was blamed for Bacon's firing, it is believed the real reason remains a secret.

Only Republican Trustee Abe Eiserman

voted not to fire Bacon. Republican Trustee Eugene Dibble passed on the motion.

Board Okays Parents College Road Projects Course Open

The repavement and repairs of streets in the southwest section of Hoffman Estates Parcel C was approved Monday by the village board.

The upgrading will be done late in June as part of a continuing improvements program for the village. A $70,000 allotment has been set for the work.

The north-south streets including Pleasant, Princeton, Washington and Westview between Schaumburg Road and Oakwood Lane are included in the 1970 program, said Trustee Virginia Hayter, public works committee chairman.

The problem of open ditches in Parcel A will be taken up at the next public works meeting, she added. The ditches have to be closed off before further improvements can be planned there.

Parcel A is the original development in Hoffman Estates located between Golf and Higgins Roads east of the Hoffman Plaza Shopping Center.

An application to the state for $37,000 to be used for street maintenance in Hoffman Estates was also approved by the board. The funds are available as part of the village's share of motor fuel taxes.

For the third straight year "College Planning for Parents," a special night adult education course, is being offered by the Office of Continuing Education of Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211.

The three-week course is designed to inform parents of college-bound freshmen, sophomore and junior students of the many facets of the college admission process.

The course will be offered at both Fremd and Conant High Schools on Wednesday evenings. Each meeting will last for about two and one-half hours, beginning Jan. 28.

INTERESTED parents may enroll by filling out a regular course application form on the back cover of the Continuing Education brochure and mailing it to the District office, 1750 Roselle Road.

Parents who have not received this brochure in the mail and wish to enroll should call the continuing education office at 359-3300.

In addition to class discussions, many pamphlets, brochures and information sheets will be given to parents as supplementary reading materials.

'Thunder' Coming at Polls

The "silent majority" will make its presence felt at the polls next November, State Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, predicted yesterday at an Elk Grove Township Republican women's luncheon.

Graham, who will seek reelection next fall, issued a sharp rap at Democrats, hippies, some elements of the press and the "permissive attitudes, laxity and tolerance to pressure groups of the criminal element that are bringing this country to its knees in lawlessness."

He said Americans are "sick of being told we're a sick society," and that "those who disregard the silent majority should take notice."

THEY MAY NOT be seen on the streets with a placard or a bicycle chain or a gun, but we may hear the thunder of the common man at the polling places, casting his vote for liberty, independence and our nation's safety," Graham said.

He warned the Republican women 1970 is going to be a most interesting political year.

"It has already been declared wide open for incorrect statements and wild accusations leveled at the Republicans by the opposition party," Graham said.

He blamed the Democrats for deficit financing "and generally poor management during their time at the helm of the ship of state," and said Republicans, who have been in power for a year, will get most of the blame.

He predicted that Democrats would blame the Republicans for the Illinois income tax, but would not mention the needs of the Chicago school system for revenue from that tax.

GRAHAM'S SHARPEST criticism was directed at the "social revolution" going on in the country.

"Our forefathers would have called it tyranny and dealt with it accordingly," he said.

"So much has been done or proposed in the area of minorities that a new segment of our society has become a minority — the taxpayers," he added.

"I am sick of the cynical attitudes of many toward patriotism and our American institutions. I am sick of seeing law enforcement agencies and the laws of this land being emasculated by some of our courts and administrators who make their personal creed the law of the land," he said.

He criticized "dirty, unwashed hippies, yuppies or beatniks providing propaganda fuel to the fire which is helping to spread communism."

Executive Group Picks Walsh as Center COG

Arlington Heights Pres. John Walsh has been nominated to take the leadership position of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG) this year.

Walsh is expected to be elected chairman of the 20-man COG executive committee at the group's Jan. 28 annual meeting.

Roger Bjorvik, Palatine Park District secretary, is nominated as first vice chairman, a position he has held two years.

Walsh would succeed Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl, who has served as COG chairman since the association's formation in late 1967.

Andrew H. Watters, Oak Park Township supervisor, is nominated as the second vice chairman. E. S. Castor, Palatine School Dist. 15 superintendent, has been newly nominated to serve on the COG executive committee.

OTHER NEW MEMBERS nominated to serve on the panel are Robbins Village Pres. Marion L. Smith, Oak Park Pres. John J. Gearen and Niles Township Supervisor John Nimrod.

The structure for the association was set at the monthly executive committee meeting Wednesday. COG is an association of all governmental units inside Cook County. Its 20-man executive committee is elected from member governments and forms the operational body for its government representatives.

In last-minute planning for the annual meeting Wednesday, Walsh reported he will submit for study some bylaws amendments. The amendments cannot be acted upon until the General Assembly's next meeting — probably next year.

Proposed changes would transfer power from the General Assembly, made up of representatives of all member governments, to the executive committee, Walsh said. He said the change would, in effect, make the bylaws reflect the actual current functioning of COG.

by STEVEN GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the safest predictions that can be made about the new session of Congress is that freshmen members of the Senate will be much more in evidence than some of their elders would prefer.

Ancient tradition prescribes that a first-term senator should be seen but not heard.

But the 16 freshmen senators of the 91st Congress made clear at least year's session that they have no intention of lying low and avoiding the spotlight.

They took over chairmanships of subcommittees, floor-manager legislation, offered far-reaching resolutions, challenged entrenched elders with amendments, debated with the abandon of veterans, and paid little heed to party discipline.

In an earlier era, they would have been put down for their temerity. But customs change with the times—even in the Senate.

On the three big issues of the 1969 session, the freshmen voted 9 to 6 against deployment of the anti-ballistic missile system (ABM); split 8 to 8 on the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to the Supreme Court, and approved 12 to 4 passage of the Senate tax bill.

Underscoring their independence, five Republicans deserted President Nixon on the ABM votes; five turned down on the Haynsworth nomination; and seven voted for the tax bill in a form which the President called inflationary.

Many of those who bucked Nixon one, two or three of these issues were leaders in the "Wednesday Club"—a loose federation of younger liberal moderate Republicans who spent a good part of the year trying to find their way into the graces of the White House.

Of the 16 freshmen senators, 11 are Republicans and 5 Democrats.

All but three — Ralph T. Smith, R-Ill., Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Ted Stevens, R-Alaska — are safely in office until 1973. Smith, Goodell, and Stevens have to run in 1970, because they were appointed to fill out unexpired terms.

None of the freshmen has broken the rule of silence and subservience with more gusto than Goodell.

The New Yorker is easily the most visible of the freshmen senators. Within a year after being named successor to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Goodell turned from a conservative member of the House into a bona fide liberal; tried a lonely revolt against the late Senate OP Leader Everett M. Dirksen; involved himself in the troubles of Biafra; and topped off his efforts by introducing a bill that would cut off funds for American troops in Vietnam after the end of 1970.

Three freshmen democrats became subcommittee chairmen, an unusual, but not unheard of plum. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., became chairman of the veterans subcommittee; Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a cured alcoholic, chaired a panel of alcoholism and drugs; and Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., headed a subcommittee on the finances of the District of Columbia.

The Vietnam War and military spending — two of the sessions' big issues — attracted the freshmen.

Cranston, Hughes, Eagleton, Goodell, and Sen. Charles C. McMathias, Jr., R-Md., introduced resolutions dealing, in one way or another, with the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam. None of the resolutions cleared the Foreign Relations Committee but neither did those offered by Senate leaders.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., neophyte on the Armed Services Committee, challenged Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., on the floor and won acceptance of quarterly reports by the General Accounting Office (GAO) on defense contracts. The provision was later dropped in a Senate-House negotiations on the defense authorization bill.

Similarly, Eagleton took on Stennis over the MBT70 tank and before he was through, the Armed Services Committee chairman and to promise an immediate GAO review.

Although many of the first term Republicans were at odds with the White House, some emerged as leading defenders of President Nixon's positions.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas defended Nixon's Vietnam policy and Sen. Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky was the chief GOP defender of the Haynsworth nomination.

Stevens was so vehement in his defense of Nixon's choice of his fellow Alaskan, Walter J. Hickel as interior secretary he had to be admonished to wait his turn for questioning during the confirmation hearings.

Nor were the freshmen Republicans shy about asserting themselves in the fight to succeed Dirksen as GOP leader.

Sens. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., teamed up as campaign managers for Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., and almost put him across. The campaign manager for the winner — Sen. Hugh Scott — was another freshman, Schweiker.

Opens Center in Home

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, is making her home office available as a referral service for physical and mental health and welfare needs.

Mrs. Chapman, who holds periodic open houses in her home to meet with constituents and discuss their problems, said her decision to expand the use of her office "comes as a direct result of a meeting in my home recently."

She said the meeting, which was devoted to health and welfare needs, "offered an opportunity to any Third District citizen to voice opinions and pose questions concerning welfare agencies." Several people referred to services available to the public which seemed generally unknown, Mrs. Chapman said.

HER OFFICE, in her home at 16 S. Princeton Court, Arlington Heights, is presently in the process of setting up an in-depth file to contain all services available for the public health and welfare of the district, she said.

Mrs. Chapman's next open house meeting will be at 10 a.m. Jan. 29. Focus of the meeting will be adequate moderate-cost housing for low-income families.

The public is invited, but reservations should be made by calling 392-7957, she said.

Civic League Leaders Installation Planned

Officers of the Schaumburg Civic League in 1970 will be installed 8:30 to-night in the Great Hall in Schaumburg.

The officers for the coming year include: John Neldviecky, president; Robert Downing, vice-president; Joyce Downing, secretary; and Mary Shields, treasurer.

Newly-elected members of the board of directors are Mrs. Mary Mamach, a two year term; and David C. Dougherty, a one year term.

Committee appointments for 1970 will be announced at the regular meeting tomorrow night.

Robert Downing served as president of the Civic League last year.

Defensive Driving Course Is Planned

A defensive driving course, designed by the National Safety Council, will be held at the Farm Bureau Building, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights in February.

The first half of the eight-hour course will take place from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Feb. 3. The second session is scheduled for the same hours on Feb. 10.

THE COURSE is open to any adult driver in Cook County, but the course is limited to 50 participants. The classroom-type program is aimed at adult licensed drivers interested in the prevention of accidents, but will also help residents who will take driver's license tests soon.

Instructors are Country Companies Insurance Co. personnel who have received special training and are approved by the National Safety Council. Defensive driving will be taught by movies, visual aids, lectures and discussion.

The course is sponsored by the Cook County Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Illinois State Police and Country Companies.

Cost for the two sessions is $1 to cover costs of materials used in the program. A free lunch will be served on both days.

Persons interested in taking the course should call the Farm Bureau office, 233-6441, for a reservation.

McCabe Names Two

Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James L. McCabe has named two campaign managers to direct his campaign for reelection this spring.

McCabe said Donald Norman and David Griffin "have worked with me since 1967 in building an active and broad-based Democratic organization for Wheeling Township which offers to all of the voters in the township the opportunity of choice, something they can only enjoy under a true two-party system."

Norman, who is a Democratic candidate for Cook County commissioner, credited McCabe with the "terrific growth" of the Democratic Party in the two and a half years since he took office.

"The strength of the Democratic Party in this township has never been greater and this is attributable to the hard work of its members inspired by the leadership of McCabe," Norman said.

GRIFFIN, WHO IS secretary of the local Democratic organization, said he is confident McCabe will win his race with Herman Koenenman on March 17.

"The Democratic Party is firmly established in Wheeling Township as a vibrant political force," he said. "This is a real benefit to all the people in the township."

"There is a spirit of unity in the party organization which has made it a highly efficient team of hard working men and women and the credit for that unity goes to McCabe, who has labored long and hard toward that end," he said.

McCabe was appointed committeeman in 1967 when James Stavros resigned due to poor health.

Walkin' the Sidelines

Recruiting and athletic scholarships — they go hand in hand with winning in major college athletics.

But what place have they in the two-year college?

I think they have a place, but only on a local or community level. When recruiting and giving monetary aid leaves the school district, the school is defeating the purpose of the junior college — to assist the local student-athlete.

That happened in my old hometown — Burlington, Ia. Burlington Community College — as anyone who has followed mid-west junior college basketball knows — is a recognized basketball power. Why? Because of a well-oiled recruiting system.

The Burlington team has been to the national tournament a half dozen times in recent years due to the feeder system that the college coach has worked out with two different universities — Iowa and New Mexico. Talent from such states as Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Illinois and even Iowa came to Burlington to play ball.

Such names as Sam Williams (Iowa star), Mel Daniels (standout at New Mexico and now in ABA) and Bobby Joe Hill (leader of the Texas Western team that won the NCAA title in 1966) led Burlington to several fine finishes at the junior college tourney, including a second place and a pair of fourths.

But how can my old hometown take pride in the team's accomplishments when the homegrown talent was usually only good enough to make one of the starting positions and the rest rode the bench? To me this wasn't why junior colleges were first instituted. Instead of serving the student-athletes locally, places like Burlington have turned into a stopping off point for some out-of-state athletes as they bettered their grade points or got more experience before heading elsewhere.

Harper College and most of the schools in the state are seeking to keep the junior colleges from becoming Burlingtons. And their effort was brought out even more so after the majority whip of the state senate — Sen. Robert Coulson (R-Waukegan) — introduced a bill last fall designed to halt widespread recruiting for junior college athletes in Illinois.

Coulson's measure would prohibit students at state-supported junior colleges from participating in interscholastic athletic competition unless they were bona fide residents of the district for the junior college they attended.

"The junior college program (in Illinois) was conceived only to permit a youngster to attend college close to home at a considerable savings to himself and the taxpayers," Coulson said.

"The idea of nationwide recruiting of athletes, housing them and subsidizing them at taxpayers' expense is foreign to that concept and I intend to stop it!"

But, instead, his bill was stopped by lobbyists for the junior colleges. In simple language, the bill was killed with the understanding that the colleges would form an association that would unite to prevent out of district recruiting and extensive aid-giving to athletes.

Out of this, the Illinois State Junior College Athletic Association was born — an association whose objective is to provide the necessary rules and regulations governing the administration of inter-collegiate athletics in Illinois' public and private junior colleges.

Two of the articles of the association's constitution deal directly with the major problems facing the institutions — recruiting and scholarships. The articles state: "Recruiting from another junior college district is prohibited," and "Athletic grants-in-aid and scholarships are not permitted."

The association's commission — a 16-man membership which is geographically representative of the state — may suspend, place on probation, or otherwise penalize a member institution if the commission considers an infraction to be severe enough to warrant such action.

But those who seek to make the association strong are hopeful that this hold the association will have on the colleges will make a would-be violator think twice. For if a college is caught, it could be forced to play its games or hold its meets with schools outside the association — out-of-state schools. Few schools could possibly afford to make trips to nearby states to hold all their games or meets.

The big question is this — can the schools be policed well enough to uncover any foul play? Only after the first year or two of the association's existence will this be determined. If it is found that the association can't enforce its rules, a commissioner may be appointed to oversee the colleges, such as in the Big Ten.

And if all else fails, the ever watchful Sen. Coulson is waiting to try again with his bill. Hopefully, the association will iron out its flaws and become a strong governing body — a showpiece for the rest of the states in the country to follow.

The Elk Grove gymnasium will be the scene tonight of perhaps the biggest and best gymnastics meet of the season.

Elk Grove, tied for first place in the Mid-Suburban League, will host Hersey, which is also tied for first place, at 7 p.m. in a crucial meet which should go a long way in deciding the outcome of the MSL gymnastics race.

What gives the meet added appeal is that Elk Grove and Hersey are two of the best gymnastics teams in the state. Hersey is ranked second in Illinois with an average of 126.66 points per meet while Elk Grove is third with an average of 126.51. Since both teams are separated by just .15 points per meet, it is impossible to forecast a winner.

In other Mid-Suburban League gymnastics action, Arlington will attempt to stay with the leaders as the Cardinals visit Forest View, fourth place Palatine will travel to state-ranked Prospect, fourth place Conant will entertain Glenbard North and Fremd will be out to get its first MSL win of the season at Wheeling.

Arlington is rated fifth in the state with a 122.89 average and must beat Forest View to remain in first place. The Falcons, who will be the home team at 7 p.m., feel that this could be the week that they go over the 100-point mark.

Prospect is just 1-3 in the league and 1-5 overall, but the Knights have met the stiffest schedule in the state. Prospect's schedule has included fifth ranked Arlington, second ranked Hersey, third ranked Elk Grove and fourth ranked Evanston.

Palatine is 2-2 in the league and has won three meets without a loss outside the MSL.

Hersey Gymnasts Add to Win Skein

Hersey's gymnastics team extended its string of dual victories to ten in a row without defeat by overpowering Barrington and Lake Forest in a non-conference double dual meet on the Bionco apparatus Friday.

Coach Don Von Ebers also kept one of his own former students in check while his Huskies toppled Barrington 122.59 to 77.74 and the Scouts 120.95 to 62.67. Lake Forest mentor John Brinkworth was coached along during his prep days at East Leyden by none other than Von Ebers.

Except for the side horse, where a performer for the hosts stepped in to wrest first away from Kyle Wooldridge, Hersey snagged the top slot on each event against both teams.

Gary Morava added a new move, a double full twist, to his free exercise routine but still was beaten out for the first time this season when teammate Ron Robbman collected a 7.9. Morava was awarded a 7.45 for second and as a team the Huskies polled 21.35 to easily out-distance both opponents.

On the side horse Hersey came up with three improper dismounts but Wooldridge still recorded a 7.55, taking a first against the Scouts and a second against the Broncos.

Hersey's poorest overall showing was on the horizontal bar with Morava's 6.45 the best anyone could do and Dan Covelli only rating a 4.7. The other squads failed to hit well either however and the Huskies walked off with a 1-2-3-4 rating against both enemies.

John Weaver took first on the tramp at 7.05 with Morava getting a 6.65 and Doug Hartl a 6.9. Morava came off quite a bit better on the parallel bars, collecting scores of 8.1 and 8.8 from the judges for a potent winning 8.45 tempo.

On the rings Sjogren was first both ways at 7.7 while Morava was edged out of one second by a Lake Forest performer who hit a 6.95.

Morava captured all around honors in the Barrington phase of the meet with a 6.88 average. Jeff Farris earned similar honors against Lake Forest with a 5.25 mark.

Hersey also came up with a 43.9 in the frosh-soph struggle bettering both Barrington at 32.3 and the Scouts at 28.1. Pat Treacy led Hersey's soph assault with a 6.0 rating on the trampoline.

pair off with Sandburg this Saturday at 10:45 a.m. after MacArthur and Jack London have tangled in a 9:30 showdown. The two teams emerging triumphant will clash the following Saturday for championship honors in the 12-team gathering.

Sandburg earned its berth in the semi-finals by just nudging St. Mary 29-25. Other contests saw MacArthur ripping St. Raymond 41-23 and London crushing Central of Mount Prospect 62-24.

All games are being conducted in the Hersey High School gymnasium.

Cage Tourney Continues Saturday

MacArthur, Jack London and Carl Sandburg were all winners on the second weekend of Hersey High School's Eighth Grade Cage Tournament Saturday.

MacArthur, of Prospect Heights, and Jack London, of Wheeling, rolled over their opponents while Rolling Meadows' Sandburg just edged its foe as all three winners along with Lady of the Wayside moved into the semi-finals of the four-session tournament.

Wayside, of Arlington Heights, will now

Conant is tied with Palatine and Forest View with 2-2 marks while visiting Glenbard North has yet to win a meet in four tries. Conant has a good shot at having fourth place all to itself.

Wheeling has 1-3 league record and is 1-4 overall while Fremd is 0-4 in the loop and 2-5 overall.

The state rankings remained the same this week with Hinsdale Central first, Hersey second, Elk Grove third, Evanston fourth, Arlington fifth and Prospect sixth. Against opponents outside the league, MSL teams are 17-5. In fact, the top six teams in the league have a combined 15-1 record.

But the MSL will find it rough this week-end to keep up such an impressive record.

Friday night Arlington will be home with Evanston in what promises to be an extremely close meet. In meet averages this year, Evanston is .1 better than Arlington. The Arlington-Evanston encounter will get underway at 7 p.m.

New Trier East, the seventh ranked team in the state, will be home with Wheeling on Saturday.

Palatine will be involved in a double dual with Niles East and Lake Forest at Lake Forest at 2 p.m.

Conant will visit Wheaton North Saturday at 1 p.m.

And Prospect will be the host school as the Knights take on Maine West at 2 p.m.

NO YOU DON'T! That's the look Fremd center Randy Hague reflects as he blocks the arm of forward Wayne Meier instead of the ball last Friday night at the Viking gym. The 6-2 Falcon jumping jack pumped in eight of 12 from the foul line and six field goals to lead his team to a 68-61 triumph. Hague put in nine markers and grabbed down 23 rebounds, but it wasn't enough. Ed Banskfield (23) helplessly watches the action. He contributed three-for-three from the field in a valuable reserve role.

Conant Matmen Top Fremd

First, it was feast for Fremd and famine for Conant. But then a complete turnaround took place and it was Conant which ended up digesting a victory, 28-18, over Fremd in Mid-Suburban League wrestling last week.

Fremd seemed on its way to victory when it won the first three matches — though by very close scores — and tied in the fourth.

But starting at 130 pounds, the Cougars turned into tigers. They won the next six matches in a row and seven of the last eight to claim the victory.

There was no indecision about the way Conant charged back. It won three bouts by pins, three by shutouts, and two others by wide margins.

The highlight for Fremd was at 185 pounds, where John Dykstra earned a pin in 3:54. The Vikings' other wins were by 90-pounder Lenny McGuinn (on a disqualification), 107-pounder Jeff Alvis (3-2), and 115-pounder Ken Glueck (4-2).

At 123, Fremd's Steve Olson and Conant's Scott Hendricks battled to a 4-4 draw. After that, it was all Conant, except for Dykstra's pin on Fremd's behalf.

For Conant, Dennis O'Malley won 7-0 at 130, Curt Burns gained a pin in 3:18 at 137, Brian Rucks got a 13-0 shutout at 145, Ron Ortworth romped at 155, 15-1, Mark Bello ended his 165 match with a pin in 4:37, Warren Kastning also pinned his foe at 175 in a lightning-fast 26 seconds, and Dick Heisel blanked his man 4-0 in the heavy-weight bout.

Three Elk Grove Wrestlers Keep League Marks Intact

Elk Grove's top three wrestlers all remained undefeated in Mid-Suburban League competition last Friday, but that still wasn't enough to keep the Grenadiers from dropping a 25-17 decision to visiting Glenbard North.

Jerry Ancona at 98 pounds won his sixth conference bout without defeat, 107-pounder Craig Mann made his record 3-0 and 145-pounder Jeff Froisland ran his to 4-0-1. But Elk Grove won only two other matches and wasted an early 8-0 lead.

Highlight of the meet for the Grenadiers was a pin by Mann in a snappy 1:15, the hosts' only pin of the evening. That win, which followed Ancona's 11-2 opening success, gave the Grove a lead it didn't lose until late in the meet.

But Elk Grove's problems in the heavier weights continued, as it lost four of the last five matches to surrender.

Ron Kotal recorded a 9-7 win at 130, Froisland romped 15-2 at 145 and Bob Glejs carved out a 6-3 triumph at 185 for

Improved Hoo-Hoos Ahead

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New products to look forward to in the 1970s:

Self-cooking hot dogs—Gone will be the need for pots, pans or grills for cooking frankfurters. These delectable sausages will come equipped with tiny filaments interlaced throughout the casings.

Plug the frankfurters into any convenient wall socket and the electric current will burn up the filaments, heating the meat in the process.

Remove from socket and served in a bun, with mustard.

Metal hoo-hoo—Back in the days before somebody invented plastic, a consumer could buy an item in the durable goods lines with the reasonable expectation that it would be fairly durable.

Times have changed.

Durable goods now are made with new metal alloys guaranteed to last 1,000 years. But in order to save 5 cents on a $700 item, the manufacturer uses little plastic hoo-hoos to hold it together. The hoo-hoos either break or wear out within two months and you are stuck with a $700 lemon. Before this decade is over, science and technology should be able to develop a metal hoo-hoo, and civilization will be saved.

The portable civilization-saver—Civilization will not be saved by little metal hoo-hoos alone, of course. Science and technology also will develop a lightweight, four-power civilization-saver that works on ordinary house current. Completely portable, it can be rushed anywhere in the world anytime it is needed. Which is frequently.

Prescription window panes—Have your eyes tested and then take the prescription to a glazier, who will install the corrective panes in your window frames at home. This will eliminate the necessity of putting on your glasses every time you want to look outside.

In some cases, bifocal panes will be needed, with the upper sash for myopia and the lower sash for astigmatism. Depends on whether the thing you are looking at is close by or in the distance.

Smog removers—Machines that remove smog from the air will be in use in most major cities by the end of the decade. Their development will be spurred by the discovery that when smog is condensed to a solid and then pulverized, the tiny particles make an ideal covering for the bottoms of canary cages.

Non-skid ice—By "seeding" clouds with salt and sand before a blizzard, meteorologists will produce snow that isn't slippery. Prevents traffic tie-ups but takes a lot of the fun out of skiing.

ROOSEVELT UNIVERSITY development director Wendell H. Arnold (right) of 2336 N. Lafayette, Arlington Heights, accepts $11,000 People's Gas Company grant from district sales manager Victor Levin.

The Way We See It

Antiflooding Guide

Soil mapping may not sound very exciting to the average suburbanite, but if that suburbanite has ever been flooded out in the spring, he might appreciate its value.

Soil mapping is the scientific way of getting the "lay of the land," and a prescription for the best possible use of the land.

By drilling into the earth, checking the depth of top soil and its color and texture, and matching that with results of topographic maps, soil experts can get a pretty good idea of what should or shouldn't be built on a particular plot of ground.

They can tell, for example, if that piece of land would be best suited for homes, for apartments, for sewage facilities, for farming, for parks and playgrounds — and whether it might flood during wet periods.

The application is obvious: a thorough soil mapping job can serve as a sound guideline to planners and even as the basis for strict zoning codes.

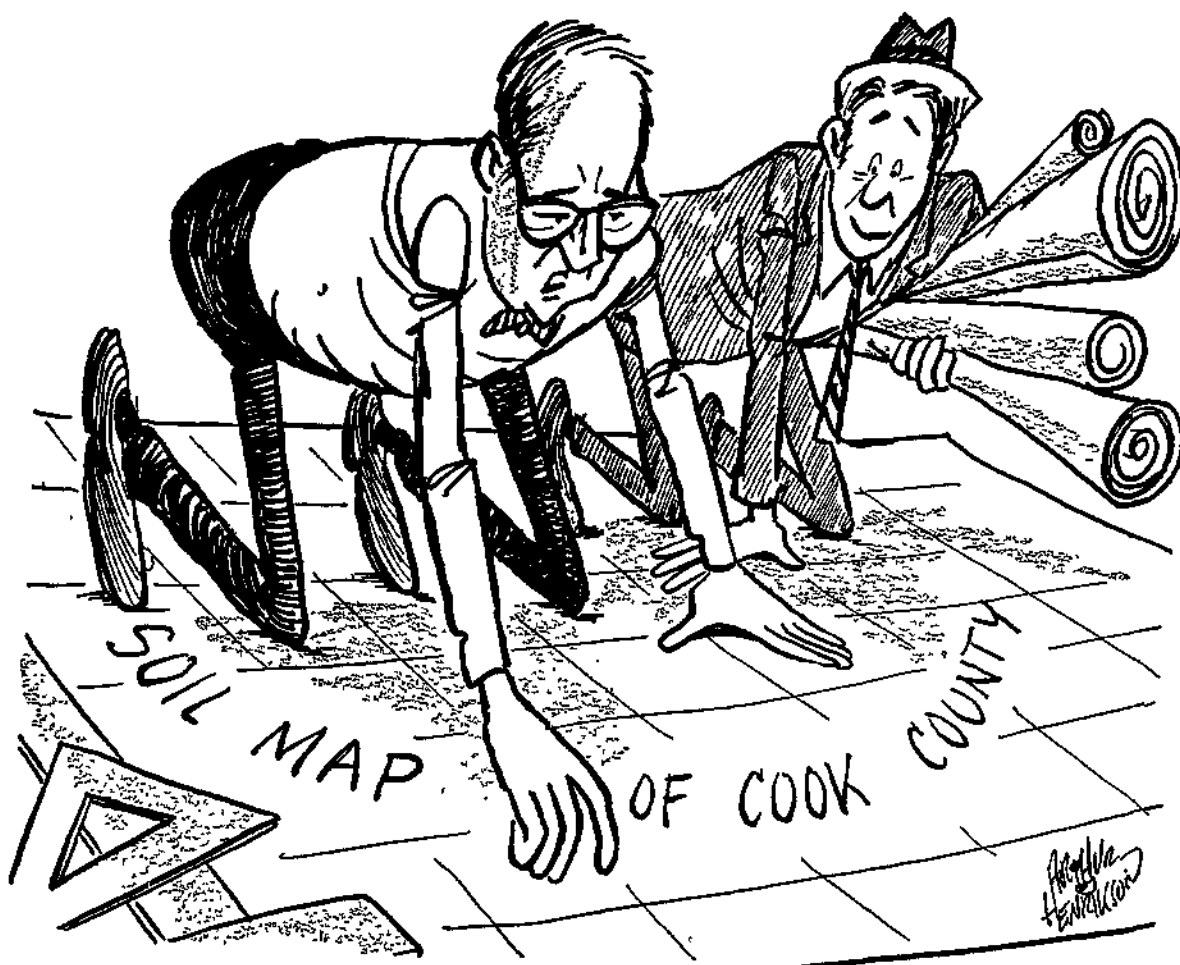

Thus, Cook County is to be commended for contracting with the Soil Conservation Service to have soil mapping started this summer, with Northwest suburbs particularly benefiting.

These suburbs are likely to be the first area in the county to be mapped, according to word last week from an SCS soil scientist. The Northwest area is considered one of the "hot spots" of the county with their rapid development, and high on the list of areas needing sensible planning.

Soil mapping isn't a total solution. Under the county-SCS agreement, only the 130,000 unincorporated areas can be mapped. Local communities and townships must arrange for separate mapping, as Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships already have accomplished.

And the soil maps aren't much good unless used to advantage. That is the county's responsibility — to use the information to anticipate problems, to help resolve zoning decisions, and, ideally, to draw a blueprint for all the land in the county that hasn't yet felt the bulldozer.

Jaycees Impact Is Local, National

Today is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the United States Jaycees. Throughout the United States, more than 6,000 local chapters and 300,000 men aged 21 to 35 are celebrating the occasion with their annual "Jaycee Week."

Similar celebrations are being held here and throughout the Northwest suburban area where more than a dozen Jaycee chapters have been contributing to their communities in a number of ways.

Every year, the variety of Jaycee projects in this area is almost limitless.

Fourth of July celebrations, Christmas parades, Little League baseball programs, junior football leagues, sponsorship of youth organizations, service to retarded children, fire prevention and safety campaigns, Vietnam package campaigns. These and many more are some of the activities presented as a community service by the Jaycees during the past year.

On a state-wide level, the Illinois Jaycees were one of few organizations to hold a model Constitutional Convention to draft ideas for the Illinois Con-Con now in session.

Jaycee members are not paid for their contributions, and rarely do they ask for contributions to finance their projects. Instead, they raise the funds themselves through Christmas tree sales, sand sales, charcoal sales and a handful of other projects.

The Jaycees are an organization truly dedicated to improving their communities.

We salute them on their 50th birthday and wish them well in their next 50.

Between the Lines

Compromise? Everyone Lost

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

Clapping and cheering because oak trees, more than 100 years old, may be removed? It sounds incongruous for tree starved suburbia. But it happened.

The place was Schaumburg and clappers were Timbercrest subdivision homeowners who said the stately oaks should go to give them more privacy in their backyards. For if the trees are removed, or at least some of them, proposed apartment buildings can be moved further away from the single family lots.

The nemesis for homeowners is apartments. Especially if the apartments are going to be visible from your home or yard.

ONE MAN EXPRESSED the thoughts of many: "I have my life's savings invested in my home. Nobody told me apartments would be built here when I bought the house. I don't want 55 feet of glass and brick in my backyard."

The oak trees in jeopardy are the large cluster on the south side of Schaumburg Road west of Roselle Road. They're sort of a landmark for Schaumburg Township. Development has skirted them until now. They remain a small piece of untouched nature in burgeoning Schaumburg.

The trees, as I recall, cover about five acres. If the apartments are built, (there now appears to be some question on village board approval) the developer plans to preserve the trees for an unfenced private park.

But he did agree to give the homeowners more buffer zone between backyards and the apartment property. More buffer zone means at least some of the trees will go. And that would be a shame.

Mary Reifschneider

NATURE HAS created five acres of beauty on Schaumburg Road. Why should an apartment building or for that matter even a home be built at the expense of the trees? Why do we clear land, put up new buildings on that land and then plant two inch thick maple or oak trees for landscape? Why don't we preserve what's there before progress starts?

It's everyone's loss that the oak trees were used as a compromise between the homeowners and apartment developer. Should the apartments not materialize, it's up to conservation-minded residents to preserve the oak grove permanently. As for the 100 plus that clapped and cheered, I don't think you really meant it.

City Beat

If You've Got It, Flaunt It

by MARTHA KOPER

At the peak of suburban population explosions, it's amazing a town wants to advertise for more residents.

Not only is it amazing, it's worthy of praise and to the credit of some far-seeing city officials.

WORK HAS BEGUN on a Rolling Meadows brochure. It's being created primarily to attract new people to the city. It will contain pretty pictures and appealing prose. It will point out all the reasons living in Rolling Meadows is enjoyable.

But more than attracting new residents, it will put a city together on paper. Undoubtedly, the book will be useful to everyone.

People who have lived in Rolling Meadows since the city was incorporated probably will learn some new facts about their hometown.

The book also will provide a handy guide for industry. To prospective employees, an employer can show the brochure while explaining the community in which he'll be working.

ASIDE FROM attracting new homeowners, the brochure also can be used to point out the city's assets to potential business and industry. If they're impressed and decide to locate in Rolling Meadows, the book will pay for itself by the increases in the city's tax base.

But most importantly, a Rolling Meadows brochure will give foundation to the pride everyone should feel for the town where he lives.

That's something a lot of people tend to forget, especially in the transient suburbs. A new homeowner thinks he'll only be living here for a couple of years and he doesn't bother to know his community. Worse yet, he decides not to become involved in any of the town's activities.

It seems to be a phobia of our society that everything must be in black and white. So with appealing descriptions of civic groups, community organizations or social clubs, the reader will have food for thought and might even decide to become involved.

With all the obvious benefits, it's amazing more towns didn't think of advertising their assets years ago when they were struggling for survival because no one wanted to live there.

Spotlight:

Unincorporated Town Needs a Goal

by BETSY BROOKER

The incorporation-annexation question has taken the spotlight once again in unincorporated Prospect Heights.

The community is confronted by an expanding population, hard pressed services, lack of planning and the threat of annexation by neighboring villages.

As a result, several community leaders are supporting an economic study of incorporation and an opinion study as to how residents feel about incorporation.

More than a third of a century ago, Prospect Heights was just a small rural community nestled in the lap of an agrarian society.

THROUGH THE YEARS, Prospect Heights grew and developed into a suburban area. As community affairs increased in complexity, more voices were heard on what was best for Prospect Heights. But there was no central body to coordinate them.

As a de-centralized unincorporated community with a weak political voice, Prospect Heights has been vulnerable to the more aggressive and powerful municipalities surrounding it. Each year has witnessed the slow erosion of the area, as growing villages have grabbed parcels of land.

Moreover, the state hasn't been very sympathetic to unincorporated areas. Legislation passed in recent years has indulged the more politically visible municipal bodies, at the expense of the inconspicuous unincorporated areas. One example is Senate Bill 349 which requires an unincorporated area over four square miles seeking incorporation to secure the approval of all incorporated areas within 1 1/2 miles.

House Bill 1241, stopped in the state Senate last year for further study, would have permitted involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas by municipalities.

THE TIME HAS come for Prospect Heights to move from short range goals to long range goals, and to take a mature role in the Cook County family of municipalities. Incorporation or annexation? It is the duty of every Prospect Heights resident to consider the choice. And their decision should be based on a thorough knowledge of the community's economic and legal position.

If Prospect Heights residents choose to be annexed to a neighboring village, they must be willing to accept the special assessments that in all likelihood will be levied to bring the community up to the standards of certain village codes.

If Prospect Heights residents choose to incorporate and govern themselves, they must be willing to work to establish an effective municipality.

If Prospect Heights residents continue to live in the comfortable limbo of unincorporation, they may lose the chance to determine the future of their community.

The Fence Post

It's 'Dream Born of Need'

Recently Arlington Heights' village president, John Walsh, tempered the dreams of interested citizens at the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission meeting, by saying "the critical question . . . is to find the funds." The proposed cultural center for Arlington Heights is a dream born of need by a rather limited number of talented and enthused residents in our area.

The word "cultural" can mean many things to many people. The term is an ambiguous one. In the past, most cultural centers were related to the upper echelons in society — those who had the time and money to further progress in arts. With this interpretation in mind, the majority of those who could benefit the most could be denied the opportunity to experiment and cultivate that which would enable further growth as individuals . . . only because the term "cultural" seemed beyond their reach. An uncultured center would have more appeal to most people!

SINCE MOST of our civic-minded groups, which includes the churches and schools in Arlington Heights, basically seek to meet the needs of their fellow men and inform all as to their purpose and goal in the community — most results attained by these individual organizations prove to be more social in nature and philanthropic endeavors become less significant and spasmodic. A united effort by all groups could produce a more constructive and lasting product for all and would still fulfill the goals of each organization including the social benefits.

Talents and energy lay dormant for many until motivated toward a worthwhile purpose. The uniting of these forces can produce a community cultural center that would stimulate duplication by other communities. The needs of our youth, teens and elderly are sadly neglected — the adults are looking for ways to expend their pent-up energy and make it purposeful. Another area to consider is acquainting the Spanish-speaking Americans to the culture in the area they have chosen to live for they need and want more than handouts as they yearn to become a part of our society and need the opportunity to adapt to a foreign situation.

The teens in our community should be given the opportunity to contribute toward a "place of their own" that would by nature allow them to express and communicate their ideas and feelings. The elderly haven't given up on "living and learning" — they too need a place in our society to nourish, produce and give more meaning to life.

THE OPPORTUNITY to build a center centrally located in Arlington Heights should stimulate most of our residents if it includes the ingredients most required by the majority . . . a community-cultural structure that would provide the material and incentive for cultivation in all fields of art — music, art, social, business, sports, education, science and communication to name a few. Isn't this the goal of most of our community groups?

Dress Protest Figure 'Too High'

I was most disturbed when I read your article "Dist. 211 Approves Dress Code" (Jan. 13). What I found most outrageous though was the statement at the conclusion which said "Students expressed their dissatisfaction with the old code last October when 1,800 Fremd High School students threatened a walkout to protest the now void code."

I really don't understand how you could print such a statement. First of all they were not threatening to walk out just because of the dress code alone, there were many demands which I won't begin to list. Second of all and most disturbing was the number of students you stated threatened to walk out. I am a student at Fremd, and to my recollection there was no petition passed around in the effect of how many would be willing to walk out, so I really don't know how you arrived at that figure. But I can assure you it was nowhere near 1,800. It was more like 40. I am sending you a picture of the gathering of protesters the day of the walkout. It sure seems to me it shows a pretty small crowd of 1,800.

I know pretty much the thinking of the kids at Fremd since I am a student and go to school with them, and I can assure you that 85 per cent of the students would not walk out to really and truly protest the dress code. So that is why it disturbs me to see statements like 1,800 Fremd students threatened to walk out, I think it is unfair to the students of Fremd High School. I also think it is unfair to your readers who deserve to know the truth.

Trustee Presented Their Viewpoint

We would like to publically thank Mr. Donald DeVale of the Schaumburg trustees for his independent and intelligent stand on the issue of rezoning land for apartments in the Timbercrest area. ## The Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1970 with 343 to follow.
The moon is full.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, and Jupiter.
The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789 the first American novel, "The Power of Sympathy," by Sarah Morton, was published in Boston.

In 1952 former Secretary of War Robert Patterson was killed when an airliner crashed into a row of apartment houses in Elizabeth, N.J.

In 1963 French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer signed a treaty pledging cooperation in foreign policy, defense and cultural affairs.

In 1968 Communist North Korea seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in the Sea of Japan and took 83 crewmen captive. One man was killed in the seizure and the rest were held prisoner for eleven months. The ship was not returned.

A thought for the day: British scientist Havelock Ellis said, "A man must not swallow more beliefs than he can digest."

For Busy Homemakers

Recipes That Mix in a Jiffy

by LOIS SEILER

Ideally suited to the role of a minister's wife is Mrs. Larry D. Cartford of Arlington Heights. Her husband is pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Cross on Goebbert Road.

Full of vitality and enthusiasm, she enjoys the fellowship of Rev. Cartford's parishioners, often entertaining them at home.

Coffee parties are common in the parsonage, and Deone Cartford has a number of favorite recipes to use for these occasions.

All of them are quick and easy to make, as Deone's many interests and activities keep her on a tight schedule.

Mother of two little girls, Sally, 6½, and Jane, 4½, she also substitutes teaches at Dunton and Dryden Schools, directs the church's nursery school, teaches Sunday school and is active in Lutheran Churchwomen. When time permits, she likes to do decoupage and crewel work. Her latest hobby is gilding plaster of paris figurines and picture frames.

THUS, ON busy days a Jiffy Cake recipe is one which she relies on often to fulfill her needs.

"Four minutes is all that is required to beat the batter for this cake," Deone said. "It simply consists of packaged lemon cake mix, lemon pudding mix, water, eggs and oil."

Baked in a tube pan, it is similar to a pound cake, but is lighter in texture and very lemony.

Ideal for coffee parties or a brunch, the Jiffy Cake is also good served as a dessert topped with strawberries and whipped cream.

She acquired this recipe when the Cartfords lived in Tenafly, N.J., while Rev. Cartford worked on his master's degree at Union Seminary.

However, Deone gives credit to the good cooks of Geneseo, Ill., for the majority of her best recipes.

"IN THE three months my husband served an interim pastorate there, I acquired more recipes than any other time," she exclaimed.

Her Danish Coffee Cake came from this town and has been in regular use for the past nine years.

Easy to mix together, the batter contains sour cream which gives the cake a moist and light texture. A cinnamon and sugar topping seeps into the batter, adding to its flavor.

"This cake makes an appealing accompaniment for a breakfast of scrambled eggs and sausage or ham," she said.

Both this and a Quick Blueberry Coffee Cake have been used often by Deone to entertain church circles.

The blueberry cake doesn't require any special attention, either. All the ingredients are measured into a mixing bowl and beaten together. The flour needn't even be sifted.

FRESH BLUEBERRIES are folded in, and this cake, also, has a cinnamon topping which complements the blueberry flavor of the cake.

Regardless of the season, Deone always has blueberries on hand. The family goes to Chesterton, Ind., yearly on a blueberry-picking expedition, and last year they picked 80 pounds. From this Deone made 27 blueberry pies, quantities of blueberry jam, and still had an ample supply of whole berries for her freezer.

She simply rinses them and freezes the berries in milk cartons. They stay firm and are readily available for pancakes, muffins and this coffee cake.

The blueberry coffee cake may also be served as a dessert, topped by whipped cream or ice cream.

The versatility of these recipes makes them easily adapted to any occasion. In addition to the coffee parties, Deone uses them for the yearly smorgasbord the Cartfords give for the church board, and for entertaining new parishioners at the parsonage on Sunday nights as well.

Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over batter. Mix into the top of the batter a little with a spoon. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

A MERE FOUR minutes is all the time it took Mrs. Larry D. Cartford of Arlington Heights to prepare the batter for this high and handsome cake. Using two packaged ingredients and a few fresh ones, the cake is light and lemony in texture and flavor.

2 cups fresh blueberries
Put all the ingredients except the blueberries into a mixing bowl. Beat thoroughly with an electric beater. Fold in the blueberries.

ture. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Turn into 4-cup mold or individual serving dishes. Chill until firm. Yield: 8 servings, 110 calories per serving.

It's a Treat To Eat Italian

by MARY ELLEN POURCHOT

Next to money, the most useful item in any country (if you don't speak the language) is a phrase book. It is essential if you wish to eat.

You can't even order spaghetti in Italy without Italian. You'll have to choose from spaghetti bolognese, or al pomodoro, or carbonara, or a dozen other varieties.

Our 9-year-old Regan often took the easy way to dining. He just ordered steak in every country. There's enough similarity in each language (bifteck in French; bistecca in Italian; biefstuk in Dutch) that he was pretty certain to get what he ordered. . . providing he added two more magical words. Out of the phrase book he learned "muy hecho," "ben cotto," "Gut durchgebraten" or "bien cuit," — all ways to say well done. Even with that instruction, the steak often arrived medium rare.

REMEMBERING ITALY, it seems to have been the country most gastronomically satisfying to the whole family. From the first, we enjoyed the restaurant chains scattered along the Autostrada. To boys weary of historic inns and meals heavy on decor and regional fare, these roadside restaurants offered a taste of the familiar (turkey and mashed potatoes) in foreign surroundings.

Spaghetti and boys naturally go together. It was their "fun food," although the youngest declared he could enjoy it better if he had all day to eat it. By the time they had left Italy, both boys had mastered the twirl and were impressing other tourists with their proficiency. On most tables were packages of bread sticks, long thin pipes which they enjoyed sticking in their mouths. A filling plate of spaghetti might cost 150-220 lire, or between 25 and 36 cents.

TO DINE PROPERLY in Italy, one eats pasta as a second course, following soup or antipasto (hors d'oeuvres). After that come the veal, chicken or steak and a vegetable of spinach, potatoes or peas. A dessert of gelato (ice cream), pastry or fruit concludes dinner.

Rome has many self-service cafes called "Tavola Calda" (hot table) and "Rosticceria," where tourists can have a quick snack. Ristorantes offer evening meals, serving from 7 o'clock on. The rooms are plain, with little decoration except for a beeping basket of fresh fruit. The tables are covered with white linen cloths (which usually were covered with tomato sauce before we departed). I often wondered what miracle bleach the laundrymen used on Italian tablecloths.

Hello Hostess

The Blaze Craze

by MARY KAY MARSH

If cooking gets a little dull at your house, add one vitalizing ingredient: a seventh grade son who's taking home economics at school. Our own Tall Twelve is a regular Galloping Gourmet, specializing, at least at home, in what might be called the Pyromaniac School of Cuisine.

This craze for blaze always makes us just a bit nervous. We feel as though we need a fire extinguisher handy, along with the matches. Still, it is fun, if you're careful. So we thought we'd pass along a couple of ideas to help you amuse your older children on a dreary afternoon, or to dress up a dull winter meal.

The desire for fire is easy to satisfy if you have some sugar cubes and flavoring extract in your kitchen. All you do is dip the cubes in orange or lemon extract, then set them aflame.

BUT DON'T TAKE vanilla if you want to try this idea at your house. A glance at the labels tells you why: the pure lemon extract in our kitchen is 84% alcohol, while the pure vanilla extract is only 35%.

And what do you do with this stopper topper? Well, don't try to set the cubes afloat in a liquid because they sink. But you're ready to serve, dip six or seven cakes or candles — try them instead of birthday candles for a spectacular effect.

Flaming Cubes also add a touch of drama to a fruit topping for ice cream. Here's one easy recipe for such a Flaming Saucer Sauce:

Thaw a package of frozen mixed fruit. Mix it with a small can of drained pineapple chunks in a serving bowl. When you're ready to serve, dip six or seven sugar cubes in lemon extract, arrange them on top of the fruit, and ignite cubes with a match. (Remove the sugar cubes or stir them into the sauce before spooning over the ice cream.)

MORE HOT IDEAS for cold weather cookery: If you've failed with previous attempts at flaming foods, a home economics major shares this idea for sure-fire success. The secret, she says, is to pour the liquor of your choice into a little metal cup or whatever, and warm it before setting it aflame. You don't want it boiling, or even too warm — just about 100 degrees. It's dramatic to do the warming over a candle flame at the table, or on an electrically heated tray. Then set fire to the warmed liquor in the cup, using a fire-place match or a long taper. Quickly and carefully pour the flaming liquor over your crepes suzette, plum pudding, or what-have-you, for a theatrical blaze.

What liquor do you use? Any type of spirit or cordial will burst into flame, using this method. Of course, spirits with higher concentrations of alcohol produce the brightest flames.

FROM THE GAME ROOM: "Reactions" is a popular ice-breaker with our local teens these days. Before your party, write a command on a sheet of construction paper for each expected guest. These sheets should contain such instructions as, "Laugh at everything I say," "Flatter me," "Be in awe of me" and other stereotyped reactions. Come party time, you pin one on the back of each guest. The idea is to mix and carry on conversations reacting as directed, while each player attempts to guess what instructions are written on his or her sign.

TABLE TALK: If you don't plan games or other entertainment, sometimes just a simple trick or bit of magic can work wonders when conversation lags. That's the purpose of this no-practice, no-equipment, no-talent-required trick for your emergency file. All you do is challenge your friends to make eight eights total 1,000. No, it's not the New Math. Give up? Arrange them like this: 8 plus 8 plus 8 plus 8 plus 888. The answer, of course, is 1,000.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Traveling through the Amish area near Arthur, Ill., I stopped at a small butcher shop to purchase a fresh, sweet pork tenderloin. This one weighed just under 2 pounds, perfect for dinner for 4.

Because it has such natural flavor cooking a pork tenderloin is no trick. Pat with a little flour, season with salt and freshly ground black pepper, place on a rack in a baking pan and bake 45 minutes per pound at 300 degrees.

To go with the tenderloin I planned a couple of unusual dishes, one with sweet potatoes and the other a crisp salad with ingredients which are quite unusual.

The sweet potato recipe is called Plantation Sweet Potato Pone. Peel 2 large yams and grate. Add grated peel from half a lemon and about half as much grated orange peel.

IN A BOWL BEAT 1 egg with ¼ cup dark brown sugar. Add the sweet potato mixture then stir in ½ cup real dark molasses, ½ cup milk, ½ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves.

Pour mixture into a lightly buttered casserole and bake at 300 until the top begins to crisp, about 30 minutes, then cover and bake for another 30 minutes.

The salad is my version of a Korean dish called Sook Choo Na Mool. Because of crispness and distinctive flavor, it's wonderful with the pork and sweet potatoes.

Advance preparation is to chill a 16-ounce can of bean sprouts and a 7-ounce can of bamboo shoots. Also wash and stem 8 to 10 fresh mushrooms. Only the caps will be used.

IN A BOWL mix ¼ cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, (no substitute), ¼ cup finely chopped little green onions, a 2-ounce jar of sliced pimiento, well drained, ½ teaspoon garlic powder, and 1 tablespoon sesame seeds. Blend.

About an hour before serving time, place the bean sprouts and bamboo shoots, well drained, in a wooden salad bowl along with the mushroom caps sliced thin. Pour the dressing over the vegetables and toss gently. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour.

Serve on chilled plates atop crisp endive or bibb lettuce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Diet Happily — Without Cyclamates

It may be a lot easier to diet without cyclamates than most people realize. Let's face it — one of the smartest ways to diet is to use the foods that are naturally low in calories.

To stay slimmer, you just have to change your way of eating—period. Fortunately, there is one food that helps you accomplish this without drugs or starvation. That food is sparkling Knox Unflavored Gelatine. Beautifully low in calories, only 23 to an envelope. But the important fact that this unflavored gelatine is all protein (adding nutrition and bulk to an incredible variety of dishes), with not a grain of sugar or sweetener in sight, makes it the greatest ally a dieter can ever have.

Drinks made with Knox Unflavored Gelatine, taken three times daily before meals — or any time you want a "sneak snack" — provide a protein supplement and cut down mealtime appetites. Just sprinkle an envelope of unflavored gelatine into a six-ounce glass of grapefruit juice, tomato juice or other liquid, stir briskly and drink at once.

Here are tempting slim-line recipes for Tomato Aspic, Chicken Buttermilk Loaf and Chocolate Chiffon Dessert to get you started on a positive approach to dieting. The chiffon dessert, deliciously satisfying, calls for only a small amount of sugar. However, if you are on a diabetic regimen, you can, of course, substitute whatever artificial sweetener your doctor recommends.

TOMATO ASPIC

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- ¾ cups tomato juice, divided
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- ¼ cup lemon or lime juice.

Sprinkle gelatine over 1 cup of the tomato juice in saucepan.

Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, 4 or 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining ingredients. Put into 4-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold; garnish with salad greens. YIELD: 8 servings, 28 calories per serving.

CHICKEN BUTTERMILK LOAF

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1 cup cold chicken bouillon
- ½ cup buttermilk
- 2 to 3 teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- 1 cup diced cooked chicken
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Sprinkle gelatine over bouillon in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir until gelatine dissolves, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in buttermilk, lemon juice, rind, salt and Tabasco. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in chicken, celery and parsley. Turn into a 2½-cup mold or small loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold. Yield: 3 servings, 84-calories per serving.

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON DESSERT

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup sugar, divided
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 1/2 cups skimmed milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together gelatine, 1/4 cup sugar, salt and cocoa in saucepan. Beat together egg yolks and milk; stir into gelatine mix-

A Romance with 'Foreign Intrigue'

There's a bit of "foreign intrigue" to the romance of Jacqueline Locke, daughter of the Marvin R. Lockes of Franklin Lakes, N. J., and Donald Robert Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald G. Smith, 1415 Michele Drive, Palatine. The couple, both graduates of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, became engaged in Hamburg, Germany, and while visiting in Stockholm, Germany, Jacqueline purchased her bridal headpiece, an open crown of miniature white roses and baby's breath.

To complement the special headpiece, Jacqueline chose a peau de soie modified A-line gown trimmed with Alecon lace featuring long, full sleeves, long bodice, high neckline and a chapel train. Her veil was of French illusion with lace trim matching her gown, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

THE CANDLELIGHT wedding service took place at 6 p.m. Dec. 13 in Judson Baptist Church, Oak Park, Ill., with the groom's father officiating. A reception followed in Neilsen's Village, Elmwood Park.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Ray Randall of Athens, Ga., and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Denise Locke of Franklin Lakes, Mrs. David Ritzenthaler of Des Plaines and Mrs. Dan Brown of Dalton, Wis.

All wore identical empire gowns of pink silk with short sleeves, large back bows and trim of white Swiss lace. They also wore pink velvet bow headpieces, and carried colonial bouquets of deep red roses with pink streamers.

Mrs. Locke chose a green silk, floor-length gown with corsage of pink roses and Mrs. Smith chose a pink silk worsted floor-length gown with white orchid corsage.

BEST MAN to the groom was David Ritzenthaler of Des Plaines. Ushers were Dan Brown of Dalton, Carl Carlson of New Lenox, Ill., Dennis Anderson and Robert Strodman of Oak Park, Lincoln Hurst of

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Smith

Deerfield and Don Skinner of Rolling Meadows.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Williamsburg, Va., and are now making their home in an apartment at 2200 Parkside Ave., Des Plaines. The new Mrs. Smith is secretary to the executive director of Greater Chicago Sunday School Association, and the groom is senior vice president of sales for Success Associates, Inc. He is also a student at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus.

Big Daddy Pays the Most

"It's the little guy who pays" didn't hold true when Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club held its annual Husband's Night. The bigger the husband the more he paid the night of Jan. 13.

Drawing from a large pocket, each husband received instructions to pay a penny per inch for either his waistline or height measurements or a penny for each pound of his weight. The $40 collected will go toward the Juniors' contribution to Project Concern, a non-profit organization providing medical care and education and supplementary self-help programs in Hong Kong, South Vietnam and Mexico.

THE EVENING also included entertainment provided by Art Henrikson, cartoonist, who spoke on "Cartooning Is a Funny Business."

During the business portion of the evening, the Juniors announced that the club had contributed $1,100 this year toward federation philanthropies, Brain Research and Scholarships for Exceptional Children, both Illinois Federation projects, each received $400. Others receiving donations were retarded children, Indian student

Sorority Activities

Handwriting To Tell All

GAMMA PHI BETA

Gamma Phi Betas in the northwest suburban area will learn more about themselves as handwriting analyst Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl speaks to the alumnae group next Wednesday. Mrs. Bergdahl, a graphoanalyst of Rolling Meadows, says a person's handwriting can tell almost all there is to know: characteristic traits, sensitivity, will power, discipline, compatibility and creativity.

Besides analyzing individuals' handwriting, she has worked for private industry and police departments in the area.

Gamma Phi alumnae will meet at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Allan Edwards, 127 S. Lancaster, Mount Prospect. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. George Mithos of Glenview and Mrs. Robert Fawcett of Arlington Heights.

New alumnae in the area may call the chapter president, Mrs. R. F. Hacker at 595-9447 for more information or to make reservations for the January dessert and program meeting.

BETA SIGMA PHI

"The Many Ways With Pearls" was the topic discussed by a representative of Priscilla Pearls and Byirling Jewelry Co., Palatine, at last night's (Wednesday) meeting of Lambda Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Vince Humphry of Arlington Heights was hostess for the meeting and Mrs. Al Zurawski of Palatine was co-hostess. Members brought children's books, games and magazines for Little City in Palatine.

Floral Workshop For Garden Club

A workshop on basic flower arranging is next for Wheeling Garden Club, and for this meeting members are asked to bring along a notebook and pencil. They will be taking notes on the program to be given by Mrs. Ann Schmidt and Mrs. Ann Coolidge next Tuesday.

The meeting takes place at 8 p.m. in Heritage Park Building, Wheeling. Guests are welcome.

MRS. SCHMIDT and Mrs. Coolidge will use as their reference "A Handbook for Flower Shows," handbook of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

For further information concerning the garden club, Mrs. Schmidt may be called at 945-9365.

'Involved' Women Tell Experiences

An "Encounter with Three Involved Women" focused on the experiences of local women and their efforts to serve others and better their community at last night's meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Prince of Peace Methodist Church, Elk Grove Village.

The program was planned by Mrs. John Bickford, secretary of Christian Social Concerns, and members of Lydia Circle were hostesses.

Hickory. The meeting will start at 8:30 and members are invited to bring guests.

Mrs. Hopkins was educated at Cornell College in Iowa and at The American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. She has had her own television series in Washington, D.C. and wrote newspaper columns in Virginia.

In February instead of the usual meeting, members and their husbands will dine out and attend a play. Mrs. Richard Ragone, program chairman, will have details at the January meeting.

Medical Students Married 'No Place To Hide' for Alcoholics

The Eugene A. Rose family of Rolling Meadows traveled to St. Louis the week-end before Christmas for the wedding of Mary Patricia Rose and Leonard Michael Glode, son of Mrs. L. M. Glode of Chardon, Neb., and the late Mr. Glode. The ceremony took place in Graham Memorial Chapel at Washington University, where the bride and groom are second year students in the School of Medicine.

They met while attending the University of Nebraska for three years. The bride was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi Sorority there.

The newlyweds will both receive the degree of Doctor of Medicine from Washington University in 1972.

FOR THE DEC. 21 wedding, the chapel was decorated with bouquets of red poinsettias and white mums. The bride carried a single white poinsettia and her attendants carried pink poinsettias in keeping with the holiday theme.

To contrast their bouquets, the girls wore floor-length empire gowns of red velvet accented with red and green brocade trim.

The bride chose a full-length white satin gown, empire styled, with a bodice of lace. The lace formed a standing collar, short puffed sleeves and edged the hemline of the A-line skirt and the chapel train. A petal headpiece encrusted with crystals held the bride's elbow-length illusion veil.

MATRON OF HONOR was Mrs. Jan Elbert Rose of Mesa, Ariz., the bride's sister-in-law, and Terry Christopher of Chardon, Neb., was best man. Also attending the bride were Carolyn Eldred, Scottsdale, Ariz.; Mrs. Gail Hughes, Anderson, Ind.; and Dee Dee Rooney, White Bear Lake, Minn.

Ushers were Larry Robinson, St. Louis; Gene Rose, brother of the bride from Mesa, and T. E. Beck Jr., Lincoln, Neb.

The groom's niece and nephew, Heather Campbell, 6, and Brent Campbell, 8, of Fort Logan, Colo., served as flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Heather wore a miniature of the adult attendants' gowns and carried a basket of red rose petals.

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING the double ring ceremony there was a reception for 75 guests at the Cheshire Inn in St. Louis. After a week's honeymoon in Lake of the Ozarks, the newlyweds are back to medical school and living at 1055 S. Taylor in St. Louis.

For the two o'clock ceremony and the reception, the bride's mother, of 4738 Arbor Drive, wore a pale green ensemble with a white gardenia and holly corsage. The groom's mother chose a maroon silk dress and wore a gardenia and holly at her shoulder.

The bride is a '65 graduate of Palatine High School.

by PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—This is Alcoholism Information Month—but don't drink to it if you're a problem imbiber.

You are, if you brace yourself with booze for mini and maxi crises throughout the day—even inventing a crisis if none exists. You're on the express track to alcoholism if you can't stop the sipping.

Dr. Luther Cloud, president of the National Council on Alcoholism, estimates that 2.4 million females are among the nation's 6 million alcoholics.

No one can say there are more female alcoholics this year than last—or more than this time last decade, according to the authority. But it may seem that there are more because there's less of a tendency to hide the female alcoholic these days.

HER HUSBAND tries to get her into Alcoholics Anonymous. Her children join Alateen—the organization for teenagers with alcoholic parents.

Dr. Cloud, whose organization sponsors Alcoholism Information Month, said the housewife so inclined has more opportunity to drink these days. Husband goes off to work early because of a long commute. For the same reason, he returns quite late in the evening.

She's home alone until the children return from school. She usually starts sip-ping after lunch and continues until the cocktail hour. If she can't handle booze, she's either passed out or roaring drunk by then—often weepy or screaming.

THE BEST THING that's happened on the alcoholism front in the last decade, says Dr. Cloud, is the widespread acceptance of the fact that alcoholism is a disease—and not a sign of a weak will.

"It is no less responsible to be an alcoholic than it is to be diabetic or have cancer," Dr. Cloud said.

In the treatment of alcoholism, Dr. Cloud puts more faith in membership in Alcoholics Anonymous than he does in psychiatric treatment. In Alcoholics Anonymous the effort is to stop drinking—breaking the addiction.

But with psychiatric treatment, patients frequently continue to drink until the doctor uproots the reasons for the dependency on alcohol.

"Meanwhile the patient who continues to drink gets sicker and sicker," Dr. Cloud said. "It doesn't make for a good bathing average."

Elk Grove Village Newcomers Club is giving members a chance to show off the fancy figures they can cut on the ice. The club is hosting a skating party for couples Saturday evening from 8 to 10 at the Polar Dome in Santa's Village, Route 25, East Dundee.

Admission may be paid at the door, and skates can be rented for a nominal fee. Social chairman Mrs. Leslie Majer may be called at 593-5078 for details.

Maternity Center Aids Fund Drive

Mrs. John W. Glueckert, 2002 N. Verde Drive, and Mrs. Jack Whisler, 1413 E. Wing St., both of Arlington Heights, are co-chairmen of a group of local volunteers who will work on the 1970 annual enrollment drive of The Chicago Maternity Center.

The campaign, extending from Feb. 5 through mid-March, seeks funds to help meet the 1970 operating budget of $445,000. Nearly 300 volunteers from all over the Chicago area will serve as team members for the traveling maternity hospital.

Organized 75 years ago, the Maternity Center has become known for the work of its doctors and nurses who attend needy mothers at childbirth in their homes. The Center offers clinic care for the expectant mother and for the mother and baby after delivery. In addition, doctors, medical students and nurses receive training and research projects are conducted.

Nixon To Speak Today

WASHINGTON — Crime, inflation and a "do-it-yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation this afternoon.

Nixon will deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 11:30 a.m.

Bill Delayed Again

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action was further delayed yesterday on a $19.7 billion money bill, which President Nixon has threatened to veto, when the Senate voted to delete an amendment dealing with antipoverty spending.

The compromise appropriations measure was returned to the House which had to decide whether to accept the Senate position on the provision or request a new negotiating conference on that one item. The delay does not affect Congressional approval, but delays sending the bill to the White House.

Warn Against Pill

WASHINGTON — Three medical professors testified yesterday women should be told in simple language their birth control pills could cause death by high blood pressure and stroke. But none proposed the pills be withdrawn from the market.

The three educators testified before the Senate small business monopoly subcommittee, which opened its second round of hearings on possible health hazards of "The Pill."

U.S. Bases Shelled

SAIGON — American forces received the heaviest shelling since September when Communist gunners fired rockets and mortars into 18 U.S. bases in key provinces around Saigon, military spokesmen said yesterday.

The huge Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, and the U.S. Army headquarters at Long Binh, three miles away, were among the targets. The shelling reportedly killed two Americans and wounded 23.

Nixon: Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew yesterday for all Americans to tighten their belts to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes.

"The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., charged yesterday U.S. officials are not telling the full story of starvation and other ordeals being suffered by the people of Biafra.

Schadeberg said he talked with Catholic priests who fled Biafra shortly before it gave up its secessionist fight and said "their story is terrifying."

Hint Future Merger of Villages

"Children yet unborn will merge the villages," Schaumburg Trustee Sig Thorsen said Tuesday at the close of the second joint meeting between the Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates village boards.

Here's One Vote For a Nursery

Establishment of a nursery facility might encourage more interest in park district sponsored recreational activities, Mrs. Sherry Nucci of Hanover Park believes.

The only resident of Hanover Park Park District appearing at this week's special meeting called to explore community interest in park sponsored programs, Mrs. Nucci also suggested scheduling weekend cartoon showings for grade schoolers.

Called at the request of Park Director Jim Kamradt, the special meeting was to have been an attempt to discover types of programs residents would like the park district to offer.

SEVERAL TIMES during the past year, extensive programs have been scheduled and abandoned due to lack of response.

During the winter recreational program, scheduled to begin next Monday, the park district is offering four programs — yoga, baton, dance and a tiny-tot program.

Mrs. Nucci, who is also active in community affairs and PTA work, cited lack of transportation as a possible major factor in the low registration trend.

Major park facilities are presently located at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse, on the western end of the village, and at Longmeadows Center, east of Barrington Road and south of Route 19.

SINCE BOTH areas are heavily traveled arterials, Mrs. Nucci's parents are reluctant to permit smaller children to enroll in programs offered at locations requiring such travel.

She maintains that mothers who want to enroll in activities can usually get to park locations with neighbors, but the problem of small children remains with them.

Mrs. Nancy Nielsen, park secretary, said the district does not have sufficient space for nursery facilities accompanying adult programs. She explained, however, that the yoga class always has had a nursery for children of mothers enrolled in the activity.

Mrs. Nielsen said park directors have taken Mrs. Nucci's suggestions under advisement and probably will refer both to committee study.

Since major expansion is planned at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse where Emil J. Rinne Community Pool is to be built this spring, additional space may be available for nursery groups next year, Mrs. Nielsen indicated.

Parcel Near A 'Gold Mine'?

by STEVE NOVICK

Residents in Hoffman Estates Parcel "A" could be living on little gold mines.

The original Hoffman Rosner development is located east of the Hoffman Plaza Shopping Center between Golf and Higgins roads.

If residents would permit the parcel to be rezoned commercial, a half-acre lot could be sold for more than $100,000. Some say the lots would be worth $100,000.

The possibility was brought forward at Tuesday's joint board meeting of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg by Mayor Robert Atcher.

"The idea has been talked about for years," said Hoffman Estates Trustee James Kopp.

KOPP REPRESENTS the village board on the Hoffman Estates Business Council, where quiet discussion has taken place recently on feelers from interested commercial developers.

"When the people living there are ready, the property could be rezoned," The village would not force this on anyone, Kopp told the Herald yesterday. He estimates a minimum of five years will pass before the rezoning takes place.

"We have sufficient land now for businesses wishing to locate in Hoffman Estates," Kopp said. Each of the village developers now working in the major are planning a commercial area.

"We'd like to rezone the whole parcel at one time," Kopp added.

THE AVERAGE prices of Parcel "A" homes in 1965 was $16,500, according to Art Kelter of Hoffman Home Values. Today, their average worth is estimated at $24,000.

The initial reaction would be opposition, most officials agreed Tuesday night, but once people saw what profits could be made their minds would change.

The Herald talked with some of the residents yesterday.

Mrs. Ernest Lambert said, "I want to live here the rest of my life and I'm 55." Her family lives in Parcel A's only all brick house, she added.

"It sounds like an easy buck, but I still don't like it," she added.

MRS. LAMBERT is opposed to "creeping zoning," where one home at a time is picked off for commercial use.

"If it worked out so we could all go at one time it would be a different picture, but I'm still reluctant," she added. "There might also be a chance I could buy another house for cash."

When told her homesite might be wanted for commercial development in a minimum of five years, Mrs. Mathew Enecker said, "That's kind of soon. We've heard this before, but were told 10 years."

"I think it would be for the betterment of the community, but it would put a hardship on some residents who would have to relocate. We've been here 14 years, and were one of the first 200 families to move here," Mrs. Enecker said.

CONSIDERING the possible financial benefit, she added, "We like our half-acre lot; a price can't be put on certain things." The Eneckers live at 331 Azalea Court.

Mrs. Thomas Stocco calmly said, "That's fine," when told her move may be worth more than $60,000 five years from now. She seemed skeptical.

"Since you say a minimum of five years, I'd like to see what happens then," she said. The Stoccos have lived at 514 Hawthorne Lane for six years.

"We don't intend to stay very long," Mrs. Stocco added. When asked if she'd consider holding onto the house for a possible larger profit, she answered, "I don't know."

$2 Million for Fun?

Proving that elected officials can, and often do, exercise the prerogative of changing their minds, Hoffman Estates park directors have decided to take another look at two sets of plans for a $2 million recreational complex designed for Vogel Park.

This week, park commissioners erased the stamp of approval put on a plan last Saturday which had been created by Jack E. Barclay & Associates, Oak Park architects.

With last week's approval of the Barclay plan, a second design by Roland Schapanski, a local architect with whom the park board had contracted for plans for the recreational complex, was rejected.

PRESENTLY Schapanski is also under contract to the park district for renovation of a barn on the 10-acre site at Higgins and Jones roads which is to be used for a variety of recreational activities. No move has been made as yet, however, to terminate Schapanski's services, and he plans to attend a series of twice-weekly committee meetings to be held by the park board over the next four weeks.

Park directors will meet as a committee-of-the-whole tonight at 8:30 in Vogel Park offices to review both designs. Final approval of a plan is expected during a special park board meeting scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday.

Over the following three weeks, commissioners will continue to meet in committee each Thursday evening and Saturday morning to finalize details of the general site plan chosen.

Schapanski evidenced concern over the temporary rejection of his plan and told board members he will be in attendance at each of their special or committee meetings during the next few weeks.

He has been attending park board meetings for the last several months and has reported progress on a regular basis. A more detailed design was submitted to the board by Schapanski earlier this month.

Barclay appeared before the park board last month and presented his plan at that time. According to a spokesman for the park district, Barclay was not contacted regarding last week's approval of his design and plans do not call for a message to the architect regarding directors' decision to rescind that action.

THE SPOKESMAN also pointed out that board members have not formally adopted a plan for Vogel Park. Schapanski has also assured park directors of his willingness to revise areas of his design along lines indicated.

Reportedly, park directors felt Barclay's plan indicated better utilization of the total site than schematic designs submitted by Schapanski.

Park commissioners hope to complete preliminary work on the development program, which when completed will provide additional ball diamonds, a swimming pool and a number of other recreational facilities, in order to present their proposal to the community within the next sixty days for approval.

Want 10 Wild Days In Bear Country?

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher said contracts will be let in the next few weeks for the expansion of Schaumburg's water line up to Golf and Higgins roads. The extension will mutually provide for multiple-family, industrial and commercial development in areas northeast of Golf and Higgins roads, he said.

Extensions will then be added to allow tie-ins for businesses on the north side of Golf Road west of Roselle Road and up to the Schaumburg State Bank.

EXISTING DEVELOPMENTS on Golf west of Roselle Road are currently tied into Hoffman Estates water lines or are operating on their own wells and septic systems.

Fred Downey, Hoffman Estates mayor, told of costly legal problems that ensued from the 7-Eleven Store and the Midas Muffler shop proposed on the adjoining property.

Downey said Hoffman Estates has borne the headaches from Schaumburg businesses in that area. He added they are patronized mostly by Hoffman Estates residents.

"With Schaumburg getting some of the larger shopping areas, why not let Hoffman Estates annex the 7-Eleven Store and some of the smaller businesses in that area," Downey said.

"Every square foot of your municipality is an asset, and you 'never' give away assets," Atcher answered.

Atcher then suggested Hoffman Estates allow Schaumburg to take over Nicholson Road and allow Schaumburg Development Co. to improve it to four lanes with curbings. Hoffman Estates is currently in litigation for a right-of-way on Nicholson Road for an extension of Hillcrest Boulevard.

Atcher said the road would be maintained with Schaumburg motor fuel tax money and could be planned to serve Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

INITIAL OBJECTIONS were voiced by Hoffman Estates Trustee James Kopp. He later said it might be feasible and suggested one man from each village be designated to work out the details.

At the meeting Atcher disclosed that plans are being considered to build fire stations simultaneously at Roselle and Golf roads and at Roselle and Wise roads. Roselle and Wise roads.

Schaumburg Trustee Ray Kessell said that now that a full-time fire chief, Lloyd Abramsen, has been hired, regular liaison is taking place between him and Chief Carl Selke of the Hoffman Estates Fire District.

Youth in the two villages will be discussed at the next joint meeting in Schaumburg April 7.

Representatives from the village's youth commissions are to attend and a recent survey on youth problems of teenagers and adults in the communities will be taken in.

In the interim a joint meeting of the village's plan commissions will be scheduled. Downey sent out a letter Jan. 9 requesting the meeting. Further consideration will be given to thoroughfares extending throughout the villages.

Once there, campers find themselves on Red Lake, which is 16 miles long and filled with pike, walleye and lake trout, Miller said.

THE FISHING EXCURSION is a cooperative effort of several local school districts, Miller said. The lodge is owned by Walter Rundle, a teacher at Fremd High School.

K&B Planning One School Site

Officials of the Kaufman and Broad apartment development in Hoffman Estates have told Dist. 54 officials that one school should provide adequate space for children coming from their development. Consequently, the donation of only one school site is planned by the developer. Kaufman and Broad, based in Southfield, Mich., is planning to build a large townhouse complex in the northwest corner of Hoffman Estates. Approximately 1,500 townhouse apartments will be built by K&B, according to present plans.

Dist. 54 officials do not agree on the number of children likely to come from the K&B development, but, according to Marvin Lopicola, business manager, "we don't want to make a big fuss about figures."

PRESENTLY, Dist. 54 intends merely to keep the door open for a second school site in the Kaufman development, if needed. Mrs. Bonnie Hannon, building and sites committee chairman, said she would write a letter to K&B officials, stating that if the developer's estimates on pupils produced is too conservative, then serious thought should be given to a second site.

In a letter to Dist. 54, W. N. Kennicott, vice president of Kaufman and Broad, said an estimated 290 elementary pupils would come from 1,448 townhouses planned by the developer.

"Even if we were to double this figure," Kennicott said, "it would create a need for only one elementary school to serve our development and still leave sufficient capacity to serve approximately 125 students which would come from our apartment development north of Hassell Road."

velopment north of Hassell Road."

KAUFMAN AND BROAD has proposed an apartment mix of 40 per cent three-bedroom, 55 per cent two-bedroom, and 5 per cent one-bedroom in the developer's Barrington Square townhouse complex.

Dist. Could Reduce Tax Levy If . . .

Marvin Lopicola, Dist. 54 business services director, said this week that Dist. 54 may be able to reduce its tax levy for transporting pupils to school in the future if additional funds are provided Illinois school districts under new legislation.

The new transportation aid plan, part of a bill approved last year by the State Legislature, calls for the payment of 60 per cent of a school district's transportation costs. The state previously paid an average of 30 per cent of transportation costs.

LOCAL TAXPAYERS could see a reduction in tax bills in 1971 if Dist. 54 is able to reduce its transportation levy, according to Lopicola. The Schaumburg Township elementary district now levies a transportation tax of 13 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Additional funds from the state would more than pay the cost of transporting Dist. 54 pupils, making it possible to reduce the levy for this purpose.

Under the new legislation, the state would pay a district's transportation costs up to 80 per cent, minus a fixed percentage of the district's assessed valuation. In the past, the state paid a flat grant of $16 per pupil based.

Water For Subdivision

Schaumburg water can be provided to Knightsbridge subdivision by late fall when the development will be ready for move-ins, Mayor Robert Atcherson said Tuesday at the joint board meeting with Hoffman Estates.

His comment was in answer to a proposal by Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey that Knightsbridge tie into his village's water on a long-term contract.

The availability of water to Knightsbridge by Schaumburg means the Churchill subdivision will be able to disconnect from Hoffman Estates and tie on to Schaumburg.

Both subdivisions are located within Schaumburg's boundaries in the section northwest of Higgins and Jones roads.

ON SEVERAL occasions Knightsbridge representative, Atty. Lemoine Stitt, said no water is expected from Schaumburg for up to two years.

At a joint meeting Tuesday of the Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg village board, Mayor Fred Downey told Atcherson he would like a profitable long term contract with Knightsbridge if Hoffman Estates were to allow the tie-in.

At stake are several concessions offered to the Churchill School and Dist. 54 in exchange for the tie-in to Hoffman Estates.

Included is a sidewalk to be built by Knightsbridge on the west side of Jones Road. The walkway will provide a safe route to school for Hoffman Estates children living west of Jones Road and north of the Knightsbridge property.

A ONE-ACRE extension for Churchill School's playground, and a $50 charge per home being built in Knightsbridge, also were offered.

No one from Knightsbridge was available to comment on whether the offer to Dist. 54 will hold if Schaumburg water becomes available.

Atcherson was asked what cautions Schaumburg takes to assure schools are property provided for by developers. The question came from Hoffman Estates Trustee Virginia Hayter.

Atcherson reviewed sizeable land contributions made by the major Schaumburg developers. The school district is represented at meetings where the developers are dealt with, and no dissatisfactions have been voiced, Atcherson added.

The Hoffman Estates board recently withheld occupancy permits from an apartment developer until pledged funds were delivered to Elementary Dist. 54.

DOWNEY ASKED Atcherson if he ever applied similar pressures.

Atcherson said the large amount of assessed valuation coming to Dist. 54 makes it a day of the past when such pressure needs to be applied by Schaumburg.

Downey said the schools are in dire need of money now and are not receiving all they should.

Mrs. Hayter and Downey are both past board presidents in Dist. 54.

Bond Sale Firm Wants to Assist

A presentation on assistance in selling municipal bonds was made Monday to the Hoffman Estates Village Board concerning the upcoming referendum for a new municipal building.

Thomas Hawkins of Paul D. Speer and Associates told the board his firm could successfully plan, promote and consummate the sale of bonds. He contended that the firm's $3,500 fee could be more than saved by the advice it offers.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert and Village Clerk Virginia Netter both backed Hawkins' claims and told of their own previous experience. Hofert had worked with Speer and Associates during bond referenda in Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Netter said she has seen them operate for Itasca.

TRUSTEE BRUCE Lind, chairman of the municipal building committee, told the Herald Tuesday that Speer and Associates will probably be contracted for the referendum. He termed the Speer reputation "excellent and beyond reproach."

Speer and Associates recently were retained to sell bonds for the Hoffman Estates Park District referendum for which no date has been set.

"Having the same firm work for both the parks and the village is advantageous," Lind said. "To try to sell the bonds at the same time will be disastrous." Lind feels Speer and Associates can successfully market the bonds for both referenda.

A date for the municipal building referendum is indefinite until a site for the proposed building is secured, Lind said.

Three locations are being considered by the village board, working as a committee of the whole.

"At this point there is better than a 50-50 chance that the cost of the site will be included in the bonds," Lind added.

The referendum date depends on how the architect, Otis & Associates, proceeds after the site is secured. Lind estimates the referendum could be ready by June or July of this year.

Still Opening In Rec Class

A limited number of openings remain in a few of Schaumburg Park District's winter recreation classes, Mrs. Elaine Bond, park secretary, reported this week.

Additional enrollments can be taken in organ classes which are offered to adults and children each Monday at 7 p.m. Openings also remain in beginners and advanced baton instruction held at 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Arts and crafts, this year offering a new selection of projects and materials, offered to fourth through eighth graders at 9 a.m. each Saturday and to kindergartners through eighth grade students at 10:30 a.m. can also take more pupils.

All levels of dancing instruction given each Saturday morning have space for a few more students. Tiny tot ballet, for girls and boys from 3½ through 5, offered at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. Thursdays also has openings.

REGISTRATION FOR beginners bridge instruction held each Wednesday morning is also open.

Presently all instructional activities offered by the park district meet at Jennings House Youth Center, Civic Drive, Schaumburg.

Park Board Waives Nonresident Fees

All persons enrolling in Hanover Park park district recreational programs now will be required to register and pay appropriate fees at park district offices.

Park directors this week unanimously waived nonresident fees for those enrolled in a yoga class now in progress for the present 10-week session only.

Mrs. Nielsen, park secretary, said the decision was made when members of the park board discovered a predominant number of yoga students reside outside of the park district.

This occurred because registration was taken by the instructor who apparently was unaware of the park ordinance requiring double fee payment from persons living outside of the district.

MRS. NIELSEN said that park directors will study the problem when the current session ends and then will agree to amend their ordinance or call for strict adherence to present rulings.

"However, from now on either adults or children enrolling in any park recreational activities must come into the Longmeadows Center office to register," Mrs. Nielsen said.

Mrs. Nielsen is a member of the park district office staff is available for registration between 1 and 3 p.m. each Monday, between 1 and 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays or from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. every Saturday.

Courses included in the winter recreation program are scheduled to begin next week and a limited number of vacancies exist in all programs.

For additional information contact Mrs. Nielsen at 837-7789.

Hover Over Law

Once again the possibility of helicopter landing areas is hovering over Wheeling.

By a 5 to 1 vote Monday the village board directed the zoning board to hold public hearings on a proposed ordinance to allow heliports and helistops on properly zoned land within the village.

The proposed ordinance differs from one voted down by the board less than two years ago because safety aspects in addition to regulations on locations of heliports

Heliport Law Tests Its Wings

Wheeling's heliport ordinance is trying its wings before the village board one more time, and at least one of the trustees who voted down the ordinance two years ago, would like to see it remain earthbound.

Trustee Ira Bird, who originally led the opposition that defeated the measure in May 1968, reaffirmed his stand Tuesday.

Bird, who went along with other board members recently in having a new ordinance drafted as long as safety standards were included, cast the only negative vote on holding additional public hearings so the ordinance allowing heliports could be passed.

Tuesday, however, he told the other board members that he still objected. "I still feel this just adds to the hazards, noise, and safety problems in the Village of Wheeling," he said.

The trustee said he had no objections to a zoning hearing. He also noted Earl Reynolds of Asplundh Tree Expert Co. had demonstrated the need for the heliport as part of his business.

"Still," he noted, "the residents who live in the flight pattern of Pal-Waukee are not satisfied with the noise and safety hazards from airplanes, despite precautions taken by the Pal-Waukee tower."

"Wheeling can't control the flight patterns of helicopters, and despite the strong ordinance it will be noisier and less safe," he said.

are included in the new version.

In the new ordinance, a heliport is defined as a ground-level landing area for helicopters. The facility includes such services as hangars, waiting rooms and fueling equipment.

A HELISTOP is defined under the proposed law as a ground level facility for landing helicopters without any of the additional facilities included in a heliport.

The proposed ordinance makes no provisions to allow heliports with fueling and other facilities in the village. It would allow helistops within the industrial zoning classifications sections of the village.

Moreover, "off-heliport landing sites" or helistops designed "for temporary or occasional use" would be allowed on property with any zoning classification provided a special use classification is first granted by the village board.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden explained Tuesday that one particular heliport within the village, the one proposed by the Asplundh Tree Expert Co. already has approvals from the Illinois Department of Aeronautics and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Other aspects of the proposed ordinance include regulations concerning sizes and safety standards in heliports. It also restricts use of helistops to "private, personal, or business use" rather than public or commercial uses.

THE ORDINANCE calls for approach and departure routes to be over waterways, parks, golf courses, industrial open space and vacant land. It would require helicopter operators arriving at or departing from helistops in Wheeling to "avoid residential areas, schools, playgrounds shopping districts and other highly populated areas."

It also says noise must be kept from being "an excessive disturbance to surrounding neighbors."

A three-foot-high fence would have to surround landing and takeoff areas.

Although one hearing on such an ordinance was held two years ago, a new hearing is necessary because of the safety requirements included in the new proposed ordinance.

Drug Watch-- Police Stalk

(Editors note: In this, the third part of a series on teenage drug use in the area, Wheeling policemen define the problem as they see it.)

by ANNE SLAVICEK

If Wheeling and Buffalo Grove have a "drug problem," Wheeling police were probably the first group to know about it.

Wheeling police were one of the first departments in the state to have liaison officers in the local high school and said they were first to use officers at the junior high level. The police say they also have watched the drug problem grow from what seems to have been its inception in the area in 1965.

To find out what the police know about the drug problem, the Herald talked to Chief M. O. Horcher and Sgt. Ted Bracke, head of the department's detective division. In a second interview three members of the department who have served as school liaison officers, Jack Kimsey, Ted Homeyer and Clarence Trausch, discussed their view of the problem.

ALL THE POLICEMEN were emphatic about the impossibility of securing accurate estimates on the amount of drug use in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community. Homeyer ventured a guess, however, estimating that perhaps as much as 15 percent of all youths in the two villages have tried some sort of drug, as much as 10 percent use drugs occasionally, and as much as 5 percent are regular users.

There are no statistics available for the two communities, and even Horcher, who has dealt with the problem repeatedly, says there is no accurate answer. "I would suspect that you could get a better and more accurate answer on that by interviewing the kids. If we could have the knowledge our kids have, it would be tremendously helpful to us," he said.

Although the police don't know how many youths are taking drugs, they do know who is taking them as far as types of youths are concerned.

Trausch said that within "society" at the high school there are three groups. He noted that by far the large majority are the "straight" students who do not become involved with drugs. A second group is the one which, while they do not take drugs, will sell and deal in drugs because of the lucrative profit involved. Horcher said the profit per pill could be as much as 1,000 percent.

The third group, which Trausch calls "hippies," are the primary drug users.

WITHIN THE "hippie" group, he noted, there are divisions by the type of drug used.

There are also the students who overlap the three groups and may play roles in each group and have friends in each, he noted.

Better known than many drug users there are, or who they are, is the type of drugs the youths are taking.

All the policemen agreed that amphetamines and barbiturates, commonly known as "uppers and downers" or "speed" are the most prevalent drugs in use in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. Marijuana and LSD were listed as being used by a smaller number of the users.

The police have had cases involving heroin however, and they admit that this "hard narcotic" may become more prevalent.

Once heroin starts showing out in the suburbs in an isolated case or two, I think it is really a sign that it is coming because obviously somebody in this area is a supplier or has access to it and heroin is not an easy thing to come by," Bracke said.

Other cases have involved injections of various drugs into the veins including boiled residues of amphetamines, and smoking cigarettes doctored with a liquid form of marijuana which has no odor.

Trausch, who currently acts as liaison officer at Wheeling High School, said pills—amphetamines and barbiturates — are "the thing."

Kimsey said, however, that many of the youths who think they are taking drugs are "getting high" psychologically rather than physically. "The other policemen admit that often the 'drugs' they collect are so diluted with talcum powder or oregano that they can hardly prove that the substances are narcotics."

WHAT DRUGS The youths take may vary, but their motivation is much the same.

In a society where many adults take one pill to get up each morning and another to put them to sleep at night, the police see conflicting values facing the adolescent.

Bracke blames the inception of the problem partly on the availability of youths to pushers because they are brought together at a high school. "This is a place where 3,500 people congregate, it's an outlet for anyone who has illegal activities on his mind. They're going to mingle with these students, if not in school, then wherever students go for coffee or cigarettes," he said.

The sergeant noted that the youths are in a quandary of whether to take drugs and whether to report a friend who takes drugs to police or school officials. "How can a young person decide if even people who are in great positions of authority really differ as to its use being bad or good?" he asks.

THE CONFLICT is evidenced by one Wheeling High School girl who turned in a sack of more than 300 pills to Bracke after taking them from a friend's locker. She told him "I didn't think it was right for her to be taking the pills." The girl refused to reveal her friend's identity, however, Bracke said.

"Let's face it, what are the acceptable standards of society?" Horcher asked. The chief pointed out that whenever someone is found not guilty of an act they actually committed, "it justifies that the act was not improper because it is within the acceptable standards of society regardless what the written law says."

Trausch emphasized that group loyalty keeps the youths from reporting users and pushers to police and also encourages them to take drugs.

Homeyer said that adults have to give youth credit for being able to think. Trausch added that a youth "who gets a raw deal from the 'establishment'" can be driven to drugs.

The source of drugs in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is as varied as the number of municipalities in the metropolitan area. Police say there are patterns, however.

HOMER SAID drugs are much easier for a youth to get than alcoholic beverages. Bracke estimated that a youth who is well established in his peer group can order drugs in the morning and receive them the same afternoon.

Some Wheeling and Buffalo Grove teens get drugs from their parents, unbeknown to the parents who take the drugs themselves for various legitimate reasons. Other youths who are being treated with the drugs may obtain them legally under a prescription and then sell the drugs to other youths illegally.

Some youths write "bad script" (phony prescriptions) while others may steal prescriptions.

Older brothers or sisters may bring drugs home from a college campus or a youth may find a source in Chicago.

Pushers within and around the schools are a source, while some users claim their supply comes from a friend or relative who works in a hospital or pharmaceutical company.

Drugs which are illegally trafficked can come from other cities across the nation, from foreign countries, and even come from one Northwest suburb which the police refused to identify.

TESTING A SAMPLE of suspected marijuana, Wheeling Sgt. Ted Bracke notes that the drug is mixed with impurities. Wheeling police often find that drugs used in the area are mixed with talcum powder or oregano and that the actual drug content may be small. The field test is used by officers only for tentative identification, but "it's good enough at 4 p.m.," Bracke said.

200 See Sewer Easement OK'd

Nothing more than the question of granting an easement along township property for a pair of sewers was the reason for the special Wheeling Township electors' (registered voters) meeting Monday night.

And yet, almost 200 Wheeling Township residents, many of them from the villages of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, braved the cold to attend the meeting, held at Wheeling High School.

Following about 1½ hours of discussion, the easement, to be used for a storm sewer and a sanitary sewer, was granted by electors. The vote was 132 to 12 in favor.

THE EASEMENT is located on the township garage property on Hintz Road just east of Buffalo Grove Road. The easement runs along the west side of the garage south to Hintz Road.

What made the easement important to Buffalo Grove and Wheeling residents was that the storm sewer to go in the easement will be part of a drainage system to handle several subdivisions and apartment developments along Buffalo Grove Road. Included in that list of developments is Buffalo Grove's flood-plagued Cambridge.

Flooding from Cambridge had resulted in controversies and lawsuits among villages, contractors and residents. Finally, in a series of pretrial negotiations on the matter last summer, a solution for the flooding problem was devised among those involved in the suits.

THE SOLUTION AGREED upon consists of several retention basins and sewer pipes running south from Cambridge, through other developments to Hintz Road. There the system will curve east toward the Des Plaines River.

The system is designed to end the flooding along University Drive in Buffalo Grove's Cambridge that has occurred there more than a year.

Another part of the flooding problem concerning the Middlesex Drive area as well as the Anthony Road area in Wheeling, will be solved in connection with the construction of the Husky Park detention basin.

Speaking to the electors about the easement, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said "The construction would be within five feet of our building (garage). We are concerned with your problem, but we are also concerned with our property. Our driveway (under which the sewer would be installed) is used daily. We have a lot of traffic, and they would have to tear up our driveway. This would paralyze our operations for some time."

As soon as Chesterfield secures Wheeling's approval, the firm has 30 days, according to the judge's order, in which to begin construction of the drainage system.

Hillman said, "The engineers estimate it will take 60 to 90 working days to complete the work."

Village officials from both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove as well as Wheeling Township officials were at Wednesday's meeting.

School Puts On the Heat!

It was not only a blue Monday, but a cold one for some of the students at London Junior High School in Wheeling this week.

Temperatures in parts of the school dropped to 58 degrees after a water circulating pump failed, causing heating pipes to freeze in the western portion of the building.

Kon Gill, Dist. 21 superintendent, reported yesterday that repairs have been made and the building is warming up again.

As of yesterday it was a sweltering 60 degrees.

Road Clear For Station

Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird believes many citizens are upset because there are gas stations "on every corner" in the village. Nevertheless, five Wheeling trustees apparently think the village needs another service station.

By a 5-to-1 vote Tuesday, the village board directed Village Atty. Paul Hamer to draw an ordinance allowing a zoning change for a Martin Oil Co. station to be built on the south side of Dundee Road just east of a franchise carryout restaurant near the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

Although a final vote on allowing the station will not be made until next week, preparation of an ordinance in final form is usually only done if the board expects to approve the ordinance.

THE BOARD ACTION followed a recommendation of the zoning board of appeals, but contrasted with recommendations by the village manager.

In reports by both the manager and the zoning board chairman, it was pointed out that the essential question was "whether Wheeling needed another gas station at that location, or at any location, in the village."

The trustees seemed to agree with zoning board members that the proposed Martin station, which will have no service bays and will sell nothing but gasoline and oil, is the type of station the village needs.

Currently Wheeling has 15 stations operating and four inoperative stations, which zoning board members described as "abandoned."

IN A WRITTEN report to the board, Village Mgr. Matthew Golden recommended that the zoning change be denied. Golden's reasons included that "the areas to the west, east and south of the proposed station site are totally saturated with gas stations," and that the area will become a major intersection with the extension of Wheeling road.

The manager noted that the saturation might cause the station to fail because of the competitive atmosphere, and that it would be to the "future benefit of the village to attempt to establish more diversified types of commercial development along Dundee Road."

Bird, who voted against the ordinance, explained that the issue had seemed to revolve around the type of station. The trustee noted, however, that "the main things I've heard privately and in political campaigns is the question 'what can be done about filling stations,' not 'what can be done about the abandoned filling stations' in Wheeling."

Nixon To Speak Today

WASHINGTON — Crime, inflation and a "do-it-yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation this afternoon.

Nixon will deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 11:30 a.m.

Bill Delayed Again

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action was further delayed yesterday on a $19.7 billion money bill, which President Nixon has threatened to veto, when the Senate voted to delete an amendment dealing with antipoverty spending.

The compromise appropriations measure was returned to the House which had to decide whether to accept the Senate position on the provision or request a new negotiating conference on that one item. The delay does not affect Congressional approval, but delays sending the bill to the White House.

Warn Against Pill

WASHINGTON — Three medical professors testified yesterday women should be told in simple language their birth control pills could cause death by high blood pressure and stroke. But none proposed the pills be withdrawn from the market.

The three educators testified before the Senate small business monopoly subcommittee, which opened its second round of hearings on possible health hazards of "The Pill."

Nixon: Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew yesterday for all Americans to tighten their belts to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes.

"The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

STRUMMING ON his banjo, John Carbo sings with a group of first, second and third-grade children at Prospect Heights Euclid School. Carbo, who is a music teacher, film editor and nightclub performer, performed as part of the school's cultural arts program. The program is coordinated by principal Matthew Meisterheim and PTA committee chairman Mrs. Carol Meiner.

'Piper' Pipes, Children Flock

by BETSY BROOKER

He may not be the Pied Piper, but when he pulls out his banjo and starts to sing, children are just as captivated.

John Carbo is a man of many talents. Not only does he teach in the Old Town School of Folk Music, edit film for Bill Birch & Associates, and own half of the 5th Ped Old Town nightclub, but he also takes time out once a month to give a musical performance for school children.

From the second he walked out on the floor and said "hi," the kids at Prospect Heights Euclid School were with him.

After a few minutes of information about his five-string banjo, which is "just like the one on the Beverly Hillsbillies," Carbo began to sing "the wheels on the bus go round, round."

It's a song the kids know, and everyone joins in, breaking into giggles at the line "the baby on the bus goes wah-wah."

THE STORY ABOUT the farmer at the party in the store with the bullfrog hushed the children to a still quiet, interrupted with laughter when Carbo imitated a cow, chickens, and a bullfrog.

Children are great mimics and they responded with enthusiasm to the "finger on the ear" song. The entertainment closed with a booming "He's got the whole world in his hands."

Carbo enjoys working with children. For one thing, he has a 6-year-old son who likes music, but can't play the banjo yet.

"The trick is to get the children to perform," says Carbo. "This is usually one of the earliest experiences the children have with a live performer."

CARBO HAS BEEN performing for 10 years. He began full-time with a folk music group called the "Frets." Then he moved to a group of four banjo players called the "Banjo Rascals." With both groups, he has performed on TV, in commercials and in night clubs.

Carbo's performance was arranged by Prin. Matthew Meisterheim and Mrs. Carol Meiner, PTA cultural arts chairman.

"We have a continuing program for the children," said Meisterheim. "Last month we had a naturalist from the forest preserve department and next month we hope to have a man who draws to music."

Randhurst Reaches for Sky

by GERRY DE ZONNA

The future of the Randhurst Corp. is up in the air with some concrete plans for the village's first skyscraper.

The Mount Prospect Village Board approved the corporation's request Tuesday to build a 10-story professional office building at Randhurst just south of Montgomery Ward.

"We submitted our request for a zoning variation to the board 14 months ago and the plans were finally approved last night. In view of the long delay involved, our initial plans and studies will have to be revised," Paul Dasso, general manager of Randhurst Corp., said yesterday.

"WE HAVE NOT HAD a meeting with our architects since the variation was approved, so there is very little to add at this time on our plans for the building, except we'll begin working on the project immediately," he said.

"The office building will be geared primarily for professional businessmen and at this point we anticipate that there will be more space rented for general offices than medical or dental offices. Studies, which were conducted about two years ago, indicate there is a very definite need for professional office space in the North-west suburban area," Dasso said.

The Randhurst Corp. asked the village

board to grant a zoning variation, approving the construction of a 10-story office building and preserve open space at the shopping center as well. According to the village ordinance, the maximum building height is 30 feet, and the corporation was seeking approval to construct a building 120 feet high.

The board voted three to two to approve the request because upward expansion would preserve open spaces in the Randhurst area more than outward expansion.

Trustees Lloyd Norris and George Reiter voted to deny the request, while Trustees Daniel Ahern, Donald Furst and Jack Kilroy approved the variation.

"IF THE ZONING variation were denied, the Randhurst Corp. could still construct an office building with the same amount of space, only the building would occupy more ground space and eliminate most of the open space in the area. Theyone year from the date of approval.

could elect to expand outward and still meet all the other requirements in the ordinance," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

"Our next step, now that we've been granted the zoning variation, is to begin working out the details on the building. We have preliminary architectural studies, but now our architects need to prepare a set of working plans," Dasso said.

A. Epstein and Sons of Chicago is the architectural firm that will design the building.

The next step for the Randhurst Corp., as far as village officials are concerned, is to submit specific plans on the building to the plan commission and village board for approval.

According to conditions in the zoning variation, construction must begin within

Should We Incorporate? — Two Views

(Editor's Note: In the third part of a series dealing with the incorporation-annexation issue in currently unincorporated Prospect Heights, two men who have dealt with the question for more than a decade discuss their views.)

by BETSY BROOKER

More than 10 years ago, when the incorporation issue came up for a vote in Prospect Heights, John Haas, now an attorney for the Prospect Heights park and library districts, supported the issue. A Prospect Heights physician, Dr. M. P. Meisenheimer, was against it.

Today, the two men hold some of the same opinions on the incorporation issue that they had in 1958.

"Incorporation is the most desirable state for Prospect Heights, but I don't think we can meet the criterion now," Haas said. "Since the referendum on incorporation in 1962, state legislation has been passed requiring an area over four square miles seeking incorporation to secure the consent of any municipality within 1 1/2 miles of the proposed boundaries. Our incorporation would thwart the growth of neighboring villages, so I don't think they would agree," he added.

ACCORDING TO Meisenheimer, on the other hand, "The best thing for Prospect Heights at this time is unincorporation. To incorporate on our own would be sheer folly. It would tax people out of their homes because we have no significant tax base."

Do Meisenheimer or Haas regret having taken the positions they still hold today when the first referendum for incorporation was defeated in 1958?

"No," says Meisenheimer. "The dire predictions of the people in favor of incorporation in 1958 have not come true. Our community has not fallen apart."

However, Haas said if Prospect Heights had incorporated it would be better off today because of zoning controls it would have had. "We haven't been able to set aside property for industry and we haven't been able to maintain the one-half acre lot character of the area." "WE HAVEN'T HAD any problem with zoning," argues Meisenheimer. "Cook County has been reasonably good in this area. The only trouble is when adjacent municipalities put up apartments, but if we were incorporated we still couldn't change that."

John Haas

"If Prospect Heights had incorporated in 1958, we could have annexed Randhurst, which would have boosted the tax base," Haas said. "At the time the Randhurst Corporation was negotiating with Mount Prospect concerning annexation, they were having problems. They would have preferred to come into a new community."

However, Meisenheimer said, "You're fooling yourself when you say Randhurst could have been annexed to Prospect Heights. The owner of the farm on which Randhurst now stands, Henry Beimeister, was a patient of mine. He was the first sewer commissioner of Mount Prospect and on the board of trustees of the Mount Prospect Park. The last thing he would have done is let his property go to Prospect Heights."

An official of Randhurst Corporation said the decision of which community should annex the center was the responsibility of the purchasers of the land — either Carson Pirie Scott & Co. or the Randhurst Corporation.

IN LOOKING BACK to 1958 from the present, Prospect Heights has seen land develop and population grow. According to Haas the community had only 400 homes and everyone knew everyone else in 1948, when he moved to Prospect Heights.

Accompanying the growth of Prospect Heights has been an increase in the complexity of the operation or functioning of the community. "Prospect Heights can handle its own problems. We can't solve all of them, but other communities can't either. Some people feel we have to have our own local government for an identity, but this is not true," Meisenheimer said.

"Even though we are isolated we are in pretty good shape," he added. "We have our own park, school and library districts. We are constructing our own sanitary system."

But Haas said many services in Prospect Heights are not adequate for the growing suburban area. He cites as one problem the difficulty even some municipalities have encountered in securing sufficient tax monies.

ARE THE CHANCES of annexation more probably than incorporation for Prospect Heights? According to Meisenheimer, Prospect Heights will eventually be annexed to Mount Prospect. "It is only a matter of time before another group of residents approach Mount Prospect requesting annexation, as they did in 1965."

200 See Sewer Easement OK'd

Nothing more than the question of granting an easement along township property for a pair of sewers was the reason for the special Wheeling Township electors' (registered voters) meeting Monday night.

And yet, almost 200 Wheeling Township residents, many of them from the villages of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, braved the cold to attend the meeting, held at Wheeling High School.

Following about 1½ hours of discussion, the easement, to be used for a storm sewer and a sanitary sewer, was granted by electors. The vote was 132 to 12 in favor.

THE EASEMENT is located on the township garage property on Hintz Road just east of Buffalo Grove Road. The easement runs along the west side of the garage south to Hintz Road.

What made the easement important to Buffalo Grove and Wheeling residents was that the storm sewer to go in the easement will be part of a drainage system to handle several subdivisions and apartment developments along Buffalo Grove Road. Included in that list of developments is Buffalo Grove's flood-plagued Cambridge.

Flooding from Cambridge had resulted in controversies and lawsuits among villages, contractors and residents. Finally, in a series of pretrial negotiations on the matter last summer, a solution for the flooding problem was devised among those involved in the suits.

THE SOLUTION AGREED upon consists of several retention basins and sewer pipes running south from Cambridge, through other developments to Hintz Road. There the system will curve east toward the Des Plaines River.

The system is designed to end the flooding along University Drive in Buffalo Grove's Cambridge that has occurred there more than a year.

Another part of the flooding problem concerning the Middlesex Drive area as well as the Anthony Road area in Wheeling, will be solved in connection with the construction of the Husky Park detention basin.

Speaking to the electors about the easement, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said "The construction would be within five feet of our building (garage.) We are concerned with your problem, but we are also concerned with our property. Our driveway (under which the sewer would be installed) is used daily. We have a lot of traffic, and they would have to tear up our driveway. This would paralyze our operations for some time."

A REPRESENTATIVE of Baxter and Woodman, an engineering firm retained by the township, told electors that construction of the sewer next to the garage was possible, but he had reservations. He also said he thought alternate routes for the southbound sewer were possible.

Chesterfield Development Corp is responsible for construction of the system. After it is complete, it will be turned over to the Village of Wheeling.

Chesterfield's Tahoe subdivision which includes homes and apartments, is one of those developments along Buffalo Grove south of Dundee Road that will use the drainage system.

As soon as Chesterfield secures Wheeling's approval, the firm has 30 days, according to the judge's order, in which to begin construction of the drainage system.

Hillman said, "The engineers estimate it will take 60 to 90 working days to complete the work."

Village officials from both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove as well as Wheeling Township officials were at Wednesday's meeting.

School Puts On the Heat!

It was not only a blue Monday, but a cold one for some of the students at London Junior High School in Wheeling this week.

Temperatures in parts of the school dropped to 58 degrees after a water circulating pump failed, causing heating pipes to freeze in the western portion of the building.

Ken Gill, Dist. 21 superintendent, reported yesterday that repairs have been made and the building is warming up again.

As of yesterday it was a sweltering 60 degrees.

Road Clear For Station

Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird believes many citizens are upset because there are gas stations "on every corner" in the village. Nevertheless, five Wheeling trustees apparently think the village needs another service station.

By a 5-to-1 vote Tuesday, the village board directed Village Atty. Paul Hamer to draw an ordinance allowing a zoning change for a Martin Oil Co. station to be built on the south side of Dundee Road just east of a franchise carryout restaurant near the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

Although a final vote on allowing the station will not be made until next week, preparation of an ordinance in final form is usually only done if the board expects to approve the ordinance.

THE BOARD ACTION followed a recommendation of the zoning board of appeals, but contrasted with recommendations by the village manager.

In reports by both the manager and the zoning board chairman, it was pointed out that the essential question was "whether Wheeling needed another gas station at that location, or at any location, in the village."

The trustees seemed to agree with zoning board members that the proposed Martin station, which will have no service bays and will sell nothing but gasoline and oil, is the type of station the village needs.

Currently Wheeling has 15 stations operating and four inoperative stations, which zoning board members described as "abandoned."

IN A WRITTEN report to the board, Village Mgr. Matthew Golden recommended that the zoning change be denied. Golden's reasons included that "the areas to the west, east and south of the proposed station site are totally saturated with gas stations," and that the area will become a major intersection with the extension of Wheeling road.

The manager noted that the saturation might cause the station to fail because of the competitive atmosphere, and that it would be to the "future benefit of the village to attempt to establish more diversified types of commercial development along Dundee Road."

Bird, who voted against the ordinance, explained that the issue had seemed to revolve around the type of station. The trustee noted, however, that "the main things I've heard privately and in political campaigns is the question 'what can be done about filling stations,' not 'what can be done about the abandoned filling stations' in Wheeling."

Cold Exposes the 'Gap'

Winter Many Things To Young, Old

by TOM ROBB

It's the coldest month of the year, and everybody, youngsters and grownups alike, knows that it's no fun getting out of a warm bed in the morning.

But at the start of each day the old and the young in Palatine Township rise, shiver a little and look Old Man Winter right between the eyes.

And, just as subzero temperatures might separate the men from the mice on a hockey rink, the wintry weather seems to separate the young from the old in suburbia.

A look around Palatine or Rolling Meadows on a cold, cold morning is pretty revealing.

FOR EXAMPLE, take Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. People bundled up are running to and fro, stomping their feet and rubbing their hands together frantically to beat the cold.

But around the corner at Kimball Hill School three unconcerned school boys are playing on the swing set, sailing through the frigid air wearing coats that are wide open and smiles that are full.

One thing is fairly obvious: winter creates a generation gap, and it shows.

To a grownup, cold weather might mean clothes over the pajamas and a early morning dash to a car that won't start.

Or maybe it's just little things like a slip on the ice, or letting the dog out and the cold air in. Maybe it means kids with running noses.

Whatever it means, most of us over 21 don't seem to like it.

MRS. L. G. ROGERS of 327 S. Plum Grove Road, Palatine, is one of those people.

"I will never like the cold weather. All those modern conveniences like cars that won't even start, and that never would have happened in the caveman days," she said.

Mrs. Carl W. Swann of 220 Grouse Lane, Rolling Meadows, had a different interpretation of the cold weather.

"It's healthy. The coldness kills all the germs in the air. And for this reason I welcome it — that is, as long as I don't have to go out in it," she added.

But kids don't think that way, and they certainly don't think of January's weather in terms of its medicinal benefits.

TO THEM IT means ice skating, tobogganing or sledding. Or, as a group of third graders at Kimball Hill School described it, winter is "fun," "exciting" and "beautiful."

Eight-year-old Jimmy Hutchins of Rolling Meadows had his own idea of winter and the problems it presents.

"I like winter best because we get to have snowball fights, because it's Christmas, and because it's my brother's birthday. But Mom makes me wear three coats sometimes — geez."

Jimmy's classmate, Nick Bertzord, felt a little more poetic about the situation.

"In the mornings I hate to get up. I like to lay there and look at the snow and things. It's beautiful."

And down on the corner from the school, 11-year-old Linda Sielig is standing perfectly still waiting for kids returning from their lunch hour to cross the intersection. She's a patrol girl, "and I don't mind the cold weather at all. I don't even feel it."

DURING THE LUNCH hour the playground is barren. Only two bikes stand in the rack and only a couple of boys are playing on the swing set. But the snow is filled with the prints of hundreds of little feet that previously that day ran and played in the cold.

To kids winter is just Jack Frost, a happy time.

But to those grownups around the corner shopping, winter is a bothersome thing. And after the freeze will come the thaw and the problems go on.

Or, as Ezra Pound put it, "Raineth drop and stineth slop, and how the wind does ram. Skiddeth bus and sloppeth us . . ." and winter is here.

Nixon To Speak Today

WASHINGTON — Crime, inflation and a "do-it-yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation this afternoon.

Nixon will deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 11:30 a.m.

Bill Delayed Again

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action was further delayed yesterday on a $19.7 billion money bill, which President Nixon has threatened to veto, when the Senate voted to delete an amendment dealing with antipoverty spending.

The compromise appropriations measure was returned to the House which had to decide whether to accept the Senate position on the provision or request a new negotiating conference on that one item. The delay does not affect Congressional approval, but delays sending the bill to the White House.

Warn Against Pill

WASHINGTON — Three medical professors testified yesterday women should be told in simple language their birth control pills could cause death by high blood pressure and stroke. But none proposed the pills be withdrawn from the market.

The three educators testified before the Senate small business monopoly subcommittee, which opened its second round of hearings on possible health hazards of "The Pill."

Nab 3 In UMW Slaying

CLEVELAND — The FBI arrested three men last night in connection with the slaying of United Mine Workers official Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The three were identified as Paul E. Gilly, 37, a house painter; Aubran W. Martin, 23, a laborer; and Claude E. Vesley, 26. They were charged with interfering with the rights of a union member by force of violence; obstruction of justice and conspiracy to interfere with a union member's rights.

Nixon: Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew yesterday for all Americans to tighten their belts to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes.

"The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

Asks 'Full Story'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Henry C. Schaderberg, R-Wis., charged yesterday U.S. officials are not telling the full story of starvation and other ordeals being suffered by the people of Biafra.

Schaderberg said he talked with Catholic priests who fled Biafra shortly before it gave up its secessionist fight and said "their story is terrifying."

City Plans Housing Evictions

Tenants of substandard housing in Rolling Meadows could be living in new quarters within a week with the help of city officials.

Mayor Roland Meyer said the four buildings located at 1351 Algonquin Road were definitely found in violation of city building codes after inspection Tuesday afternoon.

Cease and desist orders were issued yesterday, according to the mayor.

"But we don't want to force eviction until we know the people have a place to go," he said.

The Randhurst Corp. asked the village board to grant a zoning variation, approving the construction of a 10-story office building and preserve open space at the shopping center as well. According to the village ordinance, the maximum building height is 30 feet, and the corporation was seeking approval to construct a building 120 feet high.

The board voted three to two to approve the request because upward expansion would preserve open spaces in the Randhurst area more than outward expansion.

Trustees Lloyd Norris and George Reiter voted to deny the request, while Trustees Daniel Ahern, Donald Furst and Jack Kilroy approved the variation.

"IF THE ZONING variation were denied, the Randhurst Corp. could still construct an office building with the same amount of space, only the building would occupy more ground space and eliminate most of the open space in the area. They could elect to expand outward and still meet all the other requirements in the ordinance," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

"Our next step, now that we've been granted the zoning variation, is to begin working out the details on the building. We have preliminary architectural studies, but now our architects need to prepare a set of working plans," Dasso said.

A. Epstein and Sons of Chicago is the architectural firm that will design the building.

The next step for the Randhurst Corp., as far as village officials are concerned, is to submit specific plans on the building to the plan commission and village board for approval.

According to conditions in the zoning variation, construction must begin within one year from the date of approval.

Until late yesterday, temporary housing for the eight families still had not been found.

The mayor said he had contacted the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows for guidance and expected also to talk with county aid agencies.

"IT'S POSSIBLE we will have places for four of the families within the next couple of days," Meyer said.

City officials do not want to set an eviction date until they know there are new homes for the families.

"We're looking for places only on a temporary basis until a more permanent solution is found to accommodate the people," Meyer said.

The cease and desist orders issued mean the buildings must be vacated until they are brought up to city building standards.

"But we're sure there's no way the buildings can be put in order," Meyer said.

THERE IS NO running water or plumbing facilities inside the shacks and electricity comes from an extension cord, city officials reported after the inspection on Tuesday.

Cook County officials inspected the dwelling last week and found 52 violations of county building requirements.

Rolling Meadows officials were not aware the buildings were occupied until Tuesday when the mayor ordered immediate inspection of the location.

A couple of months ago, six locations of substandard housing were discovered in Elk Grove. Because of fire hazards all families were placed in motel rooms or given money to return to Texas if they desired. The housing was demolished by the Elk Grove Fire Department.

'The Absent Minded Professor' At Church

All area children are invited to attend a Walt Disney movie to be shown in Palatine, Jan. 30, according to Tony DiCello, director of recreation for Palatine Park District.

"The Absent Minded Professor" will be shown next Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Church, 144 E. Palatine Road. There will be a 50 cents admission charge.

After the two hour program the Jaycee Annex will serve refreshments.

Hope To Clear The Air On Pollution

There are some people in Palatine who are looking for ways to do something about pollution, even if it's just telling residents of the dangers.

So a public education seminar has been called for Thursday, Feb. 26, in Palatine High School's Cutting Hall.

Organized in December, PEP (Pollution and Environmental Problems) hopes to arouse every citizen's interest in the growing problem of air and water pollution.

"The goal of PEP is that all members of the community and all organizations will join together to learn about the problem on the state, national, and local level — most importantly to learn what we can do to end this serious problem," Mrs. Clayton Brown, co-chairman explained.

PEP WAS ORGANIZED by an interested Palatine housewife, Mrs. Clarence Quain, who believes pollution control is the responsibility of every citizen, not just two experts are scheduled to speak at governmental bodies.

The seminar in February. Dr. Bertram Carnow, associate director of preventive medicine at the University of Illinois and Robert Herbst, executive director of the Izaak Walton League will be the featured speaker.

In addition, the group hopes to bring more pollution experts to the public seminar by the time of the meeting.

A PLANNING session before the February meeting is scheduled for Tuesday at the Palatine Community Council meeting in the Village Hall at 8 p.m.

Letters have been sent to all community organizations urging their attendance. It will be the only planning meeting before the seminar.

Jaycees: 13 And Growing

It's appropriate to review Jaycee contributions to Palatine as the group observes Jaycee Week and is about to celebrate its 13th birthday in the community.

Beginning with the most recent activities, the local service organization was a vital cog in the wheel of holiday events.

Cooperating with other civic groups, the Jaycees organized Palatine's first annual Christmas parade on the Saturday after Thanksgiving. The group already has promised to take the responsibility again in 1970 with added performers and attractions for the second annual event.

As usual, Palatine residents had a convenient place to buy their Christmas trees, with the Jaycee tree sale at Community Park.

And thanks to the Jaycees, requests to Santa Claus received speedy action when they were dropped in Santa's Mailbox in front of his headquarters.

THE LOCAL GROUP also honored homeowners with holiday-decorated houses by awarding three plaques during Christmas week.

Just before the holidays in December, several members of the Jaycees spent all day Saturday and Sunday helping the village. With village-wide conversion to garbage bags scheduled for Dec. 15, village officials needed help in distributing all the new materials.

So, along with teens from the Palatine Township Youth Organization, the Jaycees distributed 6,000 bags and holders to the citizens of Palatine.

In the fall, the group again sponsored the Junior Football League and sponsored a father and son football banquet at the end of the season.

EVERY YEAR, the Jaycees also treat the town to Fourth of July activities including a parade, art fair, fireworks, and Miss Palatine contest.

Carrying their enthusiasm one step farther, the Jaycees sponsor Miss Palatine's entry into the Miss Illinois contest in July. Peggy Cliggett, Miss Palatine of 1968, was second runner-up in last year's contest.

In a year when Illinois history is being made at the Constitutional Convention, the Palatine Jaycees had one of their members, Ed Murnane, elected vice-chairman of the Illinois Jaycees Model Constitutional Convention held in November.

DURING THE PAST few years, the service organization has worked closely with Palatine Park District officials to expand recreational activities. Last year, they donated funds for trophies awarded to winners of the turkey trot contest.

Working with the Jaycee Annes, the group also assisted in the local cystic fibrosis campaign.

Funds from a booth sponsored by the Jaycees were donated to Countryside Center for the Handicapped.

And, of course, every year the Jaycees organized an awards dinner for presentation of the Distinguished Service Award to a deserving young man of Palatine. This year's dinner is scheduled for tomorrow evening at Uncle Andy's.

LOOKING AT COMING events, the Jaycees plan to conduct a medical survey for the Illinois Medical Society to determine the adequacy of services of the area of Palatine.

The group also expects to actively participate with a local group of citizens working against pollution and informing the public of its dangers.

While the Jaycees say thank you to Palatine, it's obvious Palatine should be thankful to them.

A Thank-You From Jaycees

(Editor's Note: During Jaycee Week, local members of the service organization realize the importance of the support Palatine citizens have given to the group and would like to express their gratitude.)

Dear Citizens of Palatine:

As president of the Palatine Jaycees, I would like to thank all of the citizens of Palatine for the support you have given to the Jaycees. In order for the Jaycees to be an effective organization in the community, we must run various fund raising projects throughout the year. We sell Christmas trees, fill your children's sand boxes in the spring during our annual Sand Sale and run children movies twice a year. These are just a few of the fund raising projects which you have supported.

What do the Jaycees do with the money they have raised? We give parties for the children at Clearbrook, Countryside and Little City. We send Miss Palatine to the Miss Illinois contest. We help build hockey rinks at the Park District, and, as always, we sponsor the entire Fourth of July activities in town. We have already arranged and allocated funds for five professional Drum and Bugle Corps to entertain you during the Parade in 1970. I also might add that Congressman Philip Crane will join us this Fourth of July.

The Jaycees are proud to serve the community of Palatine. As president of the Palatine Jaycees, I am very gratified to be leading one of the most dynamic and talented groups of young men in this community. The Jaycees serve the community and they build young men of action. I would like to invite all young men between the ages of 21 and 36 to learn more about the Jaycees and to become involved in their community.

Sincerely,
Kent Bradley
President
Palatine Jaycees

Still Some Room

Openings still exist in some of the Palatine Park District's winter recreational programs and classes for children and adults, according to Tony DiCello, director of recreation.

This is the last week registrations for the activities can be made, DiCello said.

Interested persons may register at the Administration Building in Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Road this week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Classes are limited in number and will be filled on a first come first serve basis, DiCello said.

"IT'S OVER THE CREEK and through the woods to who knows where for this brave cyclist at Kimball Hill Pond, Rolling Meadows. Bicycles are a rare sight this time of the year, and anyone who would ride one in the subzero temperatures is even rarer. Whatever his destination, this lad seems bent on getting there in a hurry. But even in this arctic weather his two wheeler has one big advantage — it starts every morning.

Hansen To Fill County Board Seat

Rumors that Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect will become a Cook County commissioner were confirmed this week by several top level Republicans.

Hansen was unavailable for comment yesterday, but his appointment to the county board had been expected for several weeks. He will fill the vacancy created by the death of Joseph Kral of Cicero.

Hansen's term will be only 10 months.

March 17. He is unopposed.

His activity with the party in the Northwest suburbs began in 1959. In 1960 he was chairman of the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in six area townships. He earlier had served as chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans.

In 1968, Hansen was one of two 13th Congressional District delegates at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He is vice chairman of the county GOP central committee and also serves as chairman of the Third Representative District committee for the GOP.

Hansen heads his own consulting firm, Chicago Associates Inc., which specializes in marketing services and market research.

He and his wife, Christl, live at 110 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect.

Carl Hansen

County Sheriff Joseph Woods has been slated to fill the vacancy in November, when he also will be a candidate for county board president.

ALTHOUGH THE county board normally includes 10 Democrats — elected from Chicago — and five Republicans — elected from the suburbs — a Republican will be appointed by virtue of a "gentleman's agreement" between the two parties.

Hansen is seeking re-election to a third term as Elk Grove GOP committeeman on

Wild Days in Bear Country

You can hear timber wolves howling in the night or run into an occasional black bear or even pull a 30-inch northern pike out of virgin lakes where moose drink.

It's all part of a deal Merv Miller, chairman of the physical education department at Conant High School, has had going for the last seven years.

Each summer Miller takes 40 to 60 high school boys into the wilds of the north for 10 days of fishing, hiking and all-around excitement.

Black Bear Lodge is situated 350 miles north of the Minnesota border near Red Lake, Ontario, Canada. And for the past seven summers Miller has been leading students and their parents, who provide the transportation, to the 11 cabins, blue lakes and unspoiled country at Black Bear.

THE FISHING EXCURSION is a cooperative effort of several local school districts, Miller said. The lodge is owned by Walter Rundle, a teacher at Fremd High School.

Black Bear Lodge couldn't have a more appropriate name. "Last summer we had to shoot two black bears who strayed too near the camp," Miller said.

The camp is nestled deep in the wilds.

Campers can drive only so far, then the terrain dictates a 20-minute plane flight over the dense woods surrounding the site, he said.

Once there, campers find themselves on Red Lake, which is 16 miles long and filled with pike, walleye and lake trout, Miller said.

"An experience of this sort helps build a boy's confidence and gives him a chance to be away from home for a while and meet new friends in a new place," he said.

The cost for the trip is $130 for 10 days. This includes plane flight, fishing license, the use of boats and outboard motors, meals and lodging.

This summer two trips are planned, one for late June and another for early July.

Which Park Dist. Will Have Ponies?

The attractiveness of the boost to tax revenue from Arlington Park Race Track was reiterated at a committee meeting of the Arlington Heights Park Board Tuesday night.

The park board will attempt to arrange a meeting with the Salt Creek Rural Park District, which presently includes the track.

Arlington Heights Park District could consolidate with the Salt Creek district if the action was approved by a two-thirds majority vote by each board. The vote would decide which park district would be the surviving one.

THE SALT CREEK district includes three small parks, one of which includes a small fieldhouse. Its assessed valuation in 1968 was about $14 million. This figure does not include the Arlington Park Towers Hotel which did not open until the spring of 1969.

The district also includes the Zayre's

Department Store on Northwest Highway east of Route 53.

If the Salt Creek Park Board agreed to the merger, the approximately 260 homeowners of the district would be able to use Arlington Heights Park District facilities which, by the end of this spring, will include five outdoor swimming pools and an indoor swimming pool.

Besides the race track, the Salt Creek Park District includes one parcel bounded by Northwest Highway, Wilke, Palatine, and Rohlwing roads and a second parcel bounded by Kirchoff Road, Route 53, Rohlwing Road and Euclid Street.

Nixon To Speak Today

WASHINGTON — Crime, inflation and a "do-it-yourself" approach to air and water pollution are expected to highlight President Nixon's first State of the Union address to Congress and the nation this afternoon.

Nixon will deliver his summation of America's domestic problems, and his proposed solutions, before a joint session of the House and Senate starting at 11:30 a.m.

Bill Delayed Again

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action was further delayed yesterday on a $19.7 billion money bill, which President Nixon has threatened to veto, when the Senate voted to delete an amendment dealing with antipoverty spending.

The compromise appropriations measure was returned to the House which had to decide whether to accept the Senate position on the provision or request a new negotiating conference on that one item. The delay does not affect Congressional approval, but delays sending the bill to the White House.

Warn Against Pill

WASHINGTON — Three medical professors testified yesterday women should be told in simple language their birth control pills could cause death by high blood pressure and stroke. But none proposed the pills be withdrawn from the market.

The three educators testified before the Senate small business monopoly subcommittee, which opened its second round of hearings on possible health hazards of "The Pill."

Nab 3 In UMW Slaying

CLEVELAND — The FBI arrested three men last night in connection with the slaying of United Mine Workers official Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The three were identified as Paul E. Gilly, 37, a house painter; Aubran W. Martin, 23, a laborer; and Claude E. Vesley, 26. They were charged with interfering with the rights of a union member by force of violence; obstruction of justice and conspiracy to interfere with a union member's rights.

Nixon: Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, expressing particular concern over the depressed housing industry, appealed anew yesterday for all Americans to tighten their belts to end inflation as the prime cause of U.S. economic woes.

"The decline in housing production must and will be stopped," Nixon said in a statement following a meeting with Housing Secretary George W. Romney and representatives of the National Association of Home Builders.

Asks 'Full Story'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Henry C. Schaderberg, R-Wis., charged yesterday U.S. officials are not telling the full story of starvation and other ordeals being suffered by the people of Biafra.

Schaderberg said he talked with Catholic priests who fled Biafra shortly before it gave up its secessionist fight and said "their story is terrifying."

Randhurst Takes to Sky

Village OKs 10-Story Office Bldg.

by GERRY DE ZONNA

The future of the Randhurst Corp. is up in the air with some concrete plans for the village's first skyscraper.

The Mount Prospect Village Board approved the corporation's request Tuesday to build a 10-story professional office building at Randhurst just south of Montgomery Ward.

"We submitted our request for a zoning variation to the board 14 months ago and the plans were finally approved last night. In view of the long delay involved, our initial plans and studies will have to be revised," Paul Dasso, general manager of Randhurst Corp., said yesterday.

"WE HAVE NOT HAD a meeting with our architects since the variation was approved, so there is very little to add at this time on our plans for the building, except we'll begin working on the project immediately," he said.

"The office building will be geared primarily for professional businessmen and at this point we anticipate that there will be more space rented for general offices than medical or dental offices. Studies, which were conducted about two years ago, indicate there is a very definite need for professional office space in the North-West suburban area," Dasso said.

The board voted three to two to approve the construction of a 10-story office building and preserve open space at the shopping center as well. According to the village ordinance, the maximum building height is 30 feet, and the corporation was seeking approval to construct a building 120 feet high.

The board voted three to two to approve the request because upward expansion would preserve open spaces in the Randhurst area more than outward expansion. Trustees Lloyd Norris and George Reiter voted to deny the request, while Trustees Daniel Ahern, Donald Furst and Jack Kilroy approved the variation.

"IF THE ZONING variation were denied, the Randhurst Corp. could still construct an office building with the same amount of space, only the building would occupy more ground space and eliminate most of the open space in the area. They could elect to expand outward and still meet all the other requirements in the ordinance," Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett said.

"Our next step, now that we've been granted the zoning variation, is to begin working out the details on the building. We have preliminary architectural studies, but now our architects need to prepare a set of working plans," Dasso said.

A. Epstein and Sons of Chicago is the architectural firm that will design the building.

According to conditions in the zoning variation, construction must begin within one year from the date of approval.

Folk-Gospel Group To Perform Sunday

The Park Version, a folk-gospel group, will perform for the general public at a free concert to be held at the Northwest Covenant Church, 300 North Elmhurst Road, Sunday at 7 p.m.

The musical group, consisting of four guitarists, a bass player, a banjo player and a vocalist, toured 10,000 miles last summer holding concerts at colleges and churches.

Students at North Park College, the group recently released an album titled "Agahe."

Skate 3,000 Meters to Glory

by DAVE POLERMO

Blinding speed. Maybe you've heard of it. Well, that's what members of the Mount Prospect Skating Club have . . . and some of the top speed skaters in the country belong to the group.

Every evening between 5 and 7 p.m. 30 members of the club congregate at the Lions Park rink, slip on their long-bladed racing skates, and do what comes natural.

Some of them can cover a 110-yard distance on ice in about 12 seconds, nearly as fast as Dallas Cowboy sprinter Bob Hayes can race down a football field in full uniform.

State championships come easy to a few members of the club and six of the members have qualified to compete in the National Outdoor Championships to be held in St. Paul, Minn. Jan. 31.

BUT SUCCESS didn't — and still doesn't — come easy to the club.

Since Herman Haenish formed the club in 1957, he has been complaining about a lack of facilities.

"There are more facilities in the city of Detroit than in the state of Illinois," said Haenish. "There's only one Olympic rink in the U.S. and that's in West Allis, Wis."

Members of the club, mostly youngsters under 18, must rise at 5 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays and travel to Park Ridge in their parent's cars in order to get an hour of indoor practice before school.

Other than the practice sessions at the Park Ridge rink, the club members can only get together on a daily basis at Lions Park between the hours of 5 and 7 p.m. The Mount Prospect Park District loans the rink to the club at this time on the theory that the ice is less-populated.

THE PRACTICE hours, the cold, northern Illinois climate and the lack of publicity given to the sport discourage residents to join the club.

Haenish, a short, heavy-set man in his 40s has been the backbone of the club since its beginning and one of his boys, 15-year-old Bob Jr., would have been competing in the nationals in the junior boys category at St. Paul this year, if he had not broken his leg earlier in the season.

An advocate of clean living, Haenish won the silver skates, a state championship event sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, in 1941. He details the goal of the club as developing speed skaters, "hopefully to the point of being Olympic caliber."

"WE SEE WHETHER or not a kid can live with the sport," explains Haenish. "If it looks like a kid's competitive, he can learn. A kid with no ambition — he's not gonna go anywhere."

Haenish is aided at the practices by Mrs. Mary Polaski who is the club's coach. Mrs. Polaski, 25, is an attractive woman who was once a national champion herself.

"Many years ago you could skate twice a week and still win," she explained. "Now you have to train all year 'round in order to keep in the running."

Mrs. Polaski is a rugged taskmaster and often checks a skater's pulse to see if the youngster is "putting out."

"A guy comes up and says, 'Oh boy, I'm tired,' and I look at his pulse rate and if it's not up, you know he can't be tired," she said.

THE DUO OF HAENISH and Mrs. Polaski has been quite successful in turning out top skaters and a few of them might be candidates for the 1972 U.S. Olympic team.

Most notable is Gary Jonland, a 17-year-old enthusiast who was practically skating before he was walking, having taken to the ice when he was 2½ years old.

Jonland has three national indoor championships to his credit, along with six national outdoor championships. He also has a trophy case full of medals from practically every skating meet in the state.

Jonland will compete in the nationals in St. Paul along with teammates Bob Knight and Tom Tangney. The three will compete against three other skaters in the intermediate boy's category, which includes skaters between the ages of 15 and 17.

Two other Mount Prospect skaters, Tom Grunah and Rich Vehe, will enter in the midget class event composed of youngsters between the ages of 10 and 12.

BARB WESTLAKE will compete in the intermediate girls event.

Qualifiers in each category are selected on the basis of total points earned in meets recognized by the Amateur Skating Association of Illinois (ASAI). Points are awarded to the top four skaters in each event. First place garners five points, second three points, third two points, and fourth one point.

Despite the lack of facilities, Illinois reigns as the skating stronghold in the country and there are 18 skating associations in the state with a membership of more than 700 skaters. Wisconsin is second, with approximately 500 skaters belonging to skating clubs.

Out of 16 skaters on the 1968 U.S. Olympic speed-skating squad, seven came from Illinois.

American style speed skating differs from the Olympic style in that all the competitors skate in the same race, which reminds one of the roller derby.

In the Olympics, two skaters go against the clock and the skater with the best total time in three events (the 500, 1,000 and 1,500 meters) is the winner.

American speed skating is similar to a track meet in that there are five running events covering 110 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards and five miles.

Bob Vehe, secretary of the club, said there is more strategy involved in the American style of speed skating.

"Sometimes it is a matter of courage," he said. "You have a certain position on the ice that's yours, and you must defend it."

"YOU HAVE TO wind through crowds that are like the rush hour at State and Madison," he continued. "Some like to skate in front, which is a hard pace. The fella in front is breaking the wind and making it easy on the other guys."

Vehe's theories are exemplified on the Lions Park ice as skaters sped around the track, while Mrs. Polaski shouted encouragement to them.

During practice, it was dark and cold and no one was on hand to watch the skaters. But they seemed to be skating for self-satisfaction and pride. And for the fun of it.

Suicide Unlawful

You can drink the water, but don't breathe the air, especially if you get your kicks from inhaling anything but fresh air. It's now against the law in Mount Prospect to "intentionally inhale vapors or fumes or any substance which induce euphoria, hallucinations or intoxication, except as otherwise provided by law," according to a disorderly conduct ordinance approved by the village board Tuesday.

Holiday Arts, Crafts Registration Today

Registration for the holiday arts and crafts program sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District is set today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at park district offices, 600 See-Gwun Ave.

Classes are scheduled to begin Feb. 4 and will be held on the first Wednesday of the month from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mount Prospect Community Center.

The fee for the five-month program is $4, which covers the cost of most of the supplies to be used in the course. Participants will be requested to furnish some of the supplies used for decorations.

The program is designed for women who enjoy making their own home decorations for the holidays. Class instruction will be in table, wall and door decorations and designs.

The new ordinance prohibits sniffing glue, inhaling "smoke" from a burning banana peel, inhaling marijuana smoke directly and indirectly and committing suicide by inhaling vapors, fumes or "illegal" smoke.

VILLAGE ATTY. John Zimmermann drafted the new ordinance, referred to as stop-gap legislation, because the old ordinance was "vague" in its definition of disorderly conduct.

"For all the words used in the old ordinance, which was passed in 1962, there wasn't really a definition of disorderly conduct. Like what's considered a 'tumultuous manner?' The ordinance needed to be redefined because it just wasn't very explicit," Zimmermann explained.

"The new disorderly conduct ordinance is in tune with the times now and I think it will cover anything that might come up in the future," he added.

Hansen To Fill County Board Seat

Carl Hansen

Rumors that Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect will become a Cook County commissioner were confirmed this week by several top level Republicans.

Hansen was unavailable for comment yesterday, but his appointment to the county board had been expected for several weeks. He will fill the vacancy created by the death of Joseph Kral of Cicero.

Hansen's term will be only 10 months. County Sheriff Joseph Woods has been slated to fill the vacancy in November, when he also will be a candidate for county board president.

ALTHOUGH THE county board normally includes 10 Democrats — elected from Chicago — and five Republicans — elected from the suburbs — a Republican will be appointed by virtue of a "gentleman's agreement" between the two parties.

Hansen is seeking re-election to a third term as Elk Grove GOP committeeman on March 17. He is unopposed.

His activity with the party in the Northwest suburbs began in 1959. In 1960 he was chairman of the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in six area townships. He earlier had served as chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans.

In 1968, Hansen was one of two 13th Congressional District delegates at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He is vice chairman of the county GOP central committee and also serves as chairman of the Third Representative District committee for the GOP.

Hansen heads his own consulting firm, Chicago Associates Inc., which specializes in marketing services and market research.

'Beauty' Light Chances Dim

The possibility that residents of the Fairview Gardens will get street lights with underground wiring looks dim.

Richard Hendricks, president of the Fairview Gardens Homeowners Association, and a handful of residents, met with the Mount Prospect Public Works Committee last night to see if the village had the "policing power" to make a special assessment for the new lights.

After Village Atty. John Zimmermann reviewed state statutes concerning special assessments, the committee made a tentative ruling that the assessment could not be made for "esthetic" reasons alone.

Street lights with wooden poles and overhead wiring are provided at no cost to residents by the village, but a survey conducted by the Homeowners Association reported that residents voted 2-1 for the installation of concrete poles and underground wiring.

COST OF underground wiring with the wooden poles would be about $13,087, according to Commonwealth Edison Co. figures. Concrete poles and underground wiring would cost residents about $15,000.

If the special assessment were passed, it would cost each of the 233 homeowners $47 for wooden poles, and $52 for concrete poles.

The committee, advised by Zimmermann, said the assessment could not be made because the project would be for "beautification of the neighborhood" and would not be a "necessary" project.

The Homeowners Association sent questionnaires to all 233 families in the subdivision. One hundred forty-five indicated they would be willing to pay the cost for the project, while 70 opposed the idea and 78 did not reply.

THE BOARD WILL look further into the matter, but chairman Lloyd Norris indicated that the chances of the village issuing a special assessment were "dim."

"This would have to be of a public benefit and we'd (the village) be hard pressed to issue a special assessment," said Norris.

"We would like a little more decorative pole, and to get those wires underground," said Hendricks. "Now it's up to the village. All I can do is report to the people."

GOP Board Backs Smith

The executive board of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization voted last night to recommend the endorsement of Sen. Ralph T. Smith for U.S. Senate following almost an hour of discussion. Smith is being challenged in the March 17 primary by William Kentschler of Lake Forest.

The recommendation of the executive board will be presented to the regular organization a week from today. The action of the executive board does not necessarily mean that Smith will be endorsed by the regular organization, but it is likely. A two-thirds vote will be required.

Endorsement by a township organization gives a candidate a heavy advantage over his opponent since the already organized precinct system is put to work for him.

Low Rent Needs Study

The volatile issue of low-cost housing in the suburbs popped up last night at a joint meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board and the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Discussing new suggested study areas for both bodies, Trustee Dwight Walton said, "Let's investigate our building codes and the cost of housing."

Village Pres. Jack Walsh agreed that the trustees had to address themselves to this question, but suggested that prior to a study further discussion on the board's part to develop a policy was needed.

"The real problem is where are you going to put the homes anyway," Walsh said.

VARIOUS PLAN commission members mentioned the difficulties of low cost housing, pointing to high land, workmen, and building costs. Plan Commissioner Victor Beisler said the only way that low cost housing could be accomplished would be through a subsidy.

Another study area mentioned was flood control.

Trustee George Burlingame said, "It's hard for me to justify spending large amounts of money for parking and recreation areas when our basements flood three or four times a year."

"I suggest we take very serious considerations about reserving the undeveloped land near McDonald Creek for a flood retention area. Some town is going to have to take the lead."

O. V. Anderson, a plan commissioner, suggested the village manager should apply to the Housing and Urban Development Agency for a federal grant to study flood control.

BURLINGAME ADDED, "If we don't stop the water here, we're just greasing the slide for more water into the Illinois River and our basements."

Walsh agreed with Burlingame's comments, but told those present that the federal government was only giving money on a regional basis rather than allocating funds for individual projects.

Answering the query about the status of the apartment policy committee Trustee Frank Palmatier said, "The way it stands now is that we're going to have to meet again and reword the apartment policy statement."

"But I don't expect any great differences in the new policy."

THE MEMBERS learned that there are now approximately 18 to 19 per cent apartment units in the village as compared to single family dwellings. They also discovered that about 28 per cent is zoned for apartments.

Beisler suggested that the village needs a study in public transportation and told the members that he felt public transportation was in the village's future.

Walsh informed him that the Northwest Municipal Conference is currently studying the problem and will probably submit a report in the next 30 to 60 days. He added that this, too, will probably have to be handled on an area-wide basis.

Romano Is Assigned

Marine Lance Cpl. Randall A. Romano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Romano Jr. of 714 E. Crestwood Drive, Arlington Heights, is serving with Marine Air Control Squadron Six, a unit of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing at the Marine Corps Air Station in Cherry Point, N. C.

Parents Forming Babysitter Co-op

A babysitter cooperative is being formed in south Arlington Heights for parents who would like to pay for sitting services in time rather than money.

Proposed rules of the club are flexible, but mothers who take care of other children will be entitled to similar sitting services from a club member in return. Extra credits or time may be allotted by mothers or fathers who sit after midnight and on weekends.

Each member may take turns serving as secretary, who will be responsible for obtaining sitters, provided the request is made at least three days in advance. The cooperative will set a minimum sitting time and parents who sit must report the number of hours worked.

A sitter who cares for the children of two mothers at the same time will receive double sitting time in return. During the day sitting will generally be done in the sitter's home. The procedure will be reversed in the evenings with the sitter going to the child's home.

Parents who would like more information on the cooperative may call Mrs. Marilyn Sherman, 253-5652.

Futurities

The Board of Local Improvements will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Bldg., 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

Jaycees— They Get Job Done

by JAMES VESELY

The Arlington Jaycees admit that they sometimes burn out a new member in a couple of years.

But it's only natural, because the pace of active membership in the young men's service organization is aimed at total involvement in the community through long hours of work.

This is Jaycee Week, and this is the year that 350,000 Jaycees across the country are celebrating the 50th year of their organization.

And today, Jan. 22, is Founder's Day for the Jaycees, the day that a man named Henry Giessenbier presided over the first United States Junior Chamber of Commerce caucus in 1920 and helped give a title to the organization that in some ways is still trying to live down its original name.

"THE OFFICIAL NAME of the organization has been changed to 'Jaycees,' Harold Rosley said. "We have nothing to do with the Chamber of Commerce of this or any other village."

Rosley is the president of the Arlington Heights chapter of the Jaycees this year, a post that has been held in former years by some of the leaders of the community today.

Rosley and other high-ranking members board of directors feel their organization the service organization. "The Jaycees are the one organization in Arlington Heights that can get the most done," he said.

Rosley and other members of the Jaycee board of directors feel their organization has grown considerably in stature in the village in recent years and has emerged as a viable, functioning service group and not a social club.

The organization contributes to the Clearbrook School for the Retarded, to NORWESCO and to the youth of the community through ice hockey clinics, sand-box and charcoal sales and volunteer work.

THE LOCAL JAYCEES are also looking ahead to participating in a program warning students of drug abuse and perhaps even to helping create an indoor ice skating rink in the village for year-round sports.

In fact, the Jaycees annually sponsor more projects than they have members to run them.

"We have membership now of about 105," Rosley said, "but we have a substantial turnover because Arlington Heights is such a transient community."

One of the Jaycees said that average figures show that the active life-span of a Jaycee is 18 months, although many men stay with the organization until they must leave at age 35.

Eighteen months is not a particularly long time, but the Jaycees insist that active participation for even that short period of time can be equivalent to several years with a different organization.

"A Jaycee can work every day of the week if he wants to," one of the directors said, "or he can work just a few days a year when we prepare for the major activities of the chapter. We may not see a member for several months and then something will come up and you will see the man working hard on a particular project. The strength of the Jaycees is that a person can work on the project that he best feels will help the community the most."

ROSLEY AND OTHER Jaycees readily admit that the local chapter is a corporation where young men can have a chance to practice the management skills which can help him in business or elsewhere.

"There really isn't such a thing as failure in the Jaycees," said Joe Engel, external director for the chapter. "A project may not work out as well as planned, but each case is a learning experience for us. . . one that can be built on for later projects."

Are the Jaycees a springboard for entrance into village politics?

"No," said Sam McGoun, internal director for the chapter. But some of the other members agreed that Jaycees often end up on boards and commissions of the village or involved in school matters.

"The answer is simply that when a man is active in the Jaycees he doesn't stop his involvement in the community when he steps out of the organization," McGoun said. "You don't sit and watch television after you've been in one of our projects."

WHEN A YOUNG man works in the Jaycees for several years and attains elective office within the organization, he has a choice of two directions for future involvement. He can stay within the Jaycees and seek state or even national office leading to the full-time position of national Jaycee president, or he can continue his local involvement and continue to devote himself to community affairs.

Many of the men do just that. Arlington Heights is too much their town. And you will be seeing most of them again.

Just Fill In The Blanks

Somebody over at the village hall has come up with a great idea.

Beginning in April, residents will get questionnaires in the mail with their village water bills inquiring about village services.

The questionnaire will be tied to a computer that will tell whoever opens the mail at village hall all about the person who responds to the water bill questions. The computer will tell what section of town the person resides in, whether its a single-family or apartment dwelling, and other stuff.

IT IS A GREAT idea to do this because, according to the trustees, residents will be able to respond to questions in the privacy of their own homes and the village will have its fingers on the pulse of the community. By number.

April is still a long way off, however, and there may be some answers that residents have that can't wait that long.

As a public service, this newspaper has been chosen to run the first village questionnaire well in advance of the March water bill. The questions are listed below.

Hansen To Fill County Board Seat

Rumors that Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect will become a Cook County commissioner were confirmed this week by several top level Republicans.

Hansen was unavailable for comment yesterday, but his appointment to the county board had been expected for several weeks. He will fill the vacancy created by the death of Joseph Kral of Cicero.

Hansen's term will be only 10 months. County Sheriff Joseph Woods has been slated to fill the vacancy in November, when he also will be a candidate for county board president.

ALTHOUGH THE county board normally includes 10 Democrats — elected from Chicago — and five Republicans — elected from the suburbs — a Republican will be appointed by virtue of a "gentleman's agreement" between the two parties.

Hansen is seeking re-election to a third term as Elk Grove GOP committeeman on March 17. He is unopposed.

His activity with the party in the North-west suburbs began in 1959. In 1960 he was chairman of the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in six area townships. He earlier had served as chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans.

In 1968, Hansen was one of two 13th Congressional District delegates at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He is vice chairman of the county GOP central committee and also serves as chairman of the Third Representative District committee for the GOP.

Hansen heads his own consulting firm, Chicago Associates Inc., which specializes in marketing services and market research.

He and his wife, Christl, live at 110 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect.

Which Park Dist. Will Have Ponies?

GOP Board Backs Smith

The executive board of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization voted last night to recommend the endorsement of Sen. Ralph T. Smith for U.S. Senate following almost an hour of discussion.

Smith is being challenged in the March 17 primary by William Rentschler of Lake Forest.

The recommendation of the executive board will be presented to the regular organization a week from today. The action of the executive board does not necessarily mean that Smith will be endorsed by the regular organization, but it is likely. A two-thirds vote will be required.

Endorsement by a township organization gives a candidate a heavy advantage over his opponent since the already organized precinct system is put to work for him.

IN LEAST YEAR'S special Congressional primary, endorsed candidates carried six of seven townships.

Both Smith and Rentschler appeared before the Wheeling GOP last week.

The park board will attempt to arrange a meeting with the Salt Creek Rural Park District, which presently includes the track.

Arlington Heights Park District could consolidate with the Salt Creek district if the action was approved by a two-thirds majority vote by each board. The vote would decide which park district would be the surviving one.

THE SALT CREEK district includes three small parks, one of which includes a small fieldhouse. Its assessed valuation in 1968 was about $14 million. This figure does not include the Arlington Park Towers Hotel which did not open until the spring of 1969.

The district also includes the Zayre's Department Store on Northwest Highway east of Route 53.

If the Salt Creek Park Board agreed to the merger, the approximately 260 homeowners of the district would be able to use Arlington Heights Park District facilities which, by the end of this spring, will include five outdoor swimming pools and an indoor swimming pool.

Besides the race track, the Salt Creek Park District includes one parcel bounded by Northwest Highway, Wilke, Palatine, and Rohlwing roads and a second parcel bounded by Kirchhoff Road, Route 53, Rohlwing Road and Euclid Street.

Bacon Fired in Quick, Stormy MSD Session

Even the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) board standards, the Wednesday firing of General Supt. Vinton Bacon was one of the stormiest and quickest sessions on record.

In 10 minutes of ramrod action, Board Pres. John Egan led the firing of Bacon and the immediate appointment of an acting superintendent.

Ben Sosewitz, MSD engineer of maintenance and operations, was named acting superintendent above the roar of an angry crowd. John Guillou, chief engineer, Illinois Division of Waterways, reportedly is being considered for Bacon's $40,500-a-year job.

IN THE FOLLOWING statement, Bacon acknowledged he is through with the sanitary district, though he had earlier asked that charges against him be put on written record.

Asked if his firing would be a setback for intergovernmental cooperation, the superintendent noted it would be "going back to the middle ages" not to incorporate multi-uses of MSD projects.

"To eliminate recreation from reservoirs would be one of the greatest mistakes the board could make," he said.

One reason for dismissal reportedly was the board's dissatisfaction with projects related to MSD operations. The Heritage Park retention basin in Wheeling can directly be related to Bacon's interest in multi-uses MSD projects.

DEMOCRATIC TRUSTEE Chester Ma-

jewski said after the meeting Bacon's dismissal was because of dissatisfaction with the progress of pollution control. Bacon accused the board of submitting to pressure of business not to enforce pollution control standards.

The board and Bacon have been locked in bitter dispute for several years. Although pollution control was blamed for Bacon's firing, it is believed the real reason remains a secret.

Only Republican Trustee Abe Eiserman

voted not to fire Bacon. Republican Trustee Eugene Dibble passed on the motion.

'Thunder' Coming at Polls

The "silent majority" will make its presence felt at the polls next November, State Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, predicted yesterday at an Elk Grove Township Republican women's luncheon.

Graham, who will seek reelection next fall, issued a sharp rap at Democrats, hippies, some elements of the press and the "permissive attitudes, laxity and tolerance to pressure groups of the criminal element that are bringing this country to its knees in lawlessness."

He said Americans are "sick of being told we're a sick society," and that "those who disregard the silent majority should take notice."

THEY MAY NOT be seen on the streets with a placard or a bicycle chain or a gun, but we may hear the thunder of the common man at the polling places, casting his vote for liberty, independence and our nation's safety," Graham said.

He warned the Republican women 1970 is going to be a most interesting political year.

"It has already been declared wide open for incorrect statements and wild accusations leveled at the Republicans by the opposition party," Graham said.

He blamed the Democrats for deficit financing "and generally poor management during their time at the helm of the ship of state," and said Republicans, who have been in power for a year, will get most of the blame.

He predicted that Democrats would blame the Republicans for the Illinois income tax, but would not mention the needs of the Chicago school system for revenue from that tax.

GRAHAM'S SHARPEST criticism was directed at the "social revolution" going on in the country.

"Our forefathers would have called it tyranny and dealt with it accordingly," he said.

"So much has been done or proposed in the area of minorities that a new segment of our society has become a minority — the taxpayers," he added.

"I am sick of the cynical attitudes of many toward patriotism and our American institutions. I am sick of seeing law enforcement agencies and the laws of this land being emasculated by some of our courts and administrators who make their personal creed the law of the land," he said.

He criticized "dirty, unwashed hippies, yuppies or beatniks providing propaganda fuel to the fire which is helping to spread communism."

Says Teens Seek Productive Life, Free of Violence

"In spite of the way they may dress or act, many teenagers are seeking a more honest, productive life, one free of hypocrisy and violence."

This is the way Albert Erickson, presiding minister of the Palatine Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, described four Palatine teens.

Sharon Anderson, Judy Anderson, Titus Thoman and Jackie Zaleski are teenagers — they are also members of Palatine's Jehovah's Witnesses.

They are four of the 170 teens attending Kingdom Hall. "The youth of the congregation are encouraged to enroll in a weekly ministry school course," Erickson said.

The ministry school is designed to prepare young members of the congregation to become effective ministers of God's word, he said.

"I benefit from the school in two ways," Sharon Anderson said. "First, I'm getting to know people and gain a greater understanding into their problems. And second, I'm having a part in preaching the work Jesus commanded."

All teens from the Palatine Congregation will attend a Christian Assembly at Libertyville High School, Libertyville, Ill., this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. All teens from this area and their parents are invited, Erickson said.

Parents College Course Open

For the third straight year "College Planning for Parents," a special night adult education course, is being offered by the Office of Continuing Education of Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211.

The three-week course is designed to inform parents of college-bound freshmen, sophomore and junior students of the many facets of the college admission process.

The course will be offered at both Fremd and Conant High Schools on Wednesday evenings. Each meeting will last for about two and one-half hours, beginning Jan. 28.

INTERESTED parents may enroll by filling out a regular course application form on the back cover of the Continuing Education brochure and mailing it to the District office, 1750 Roselle Road.

Parents who have not received this brochure in the mail and wish to enroll should call the continuing education office at 359-3300.

In addition to class discussions, many pamphlets, brochures and information sheets will be given to parents as supplementary reading materials.
